

100

ADVERTISEMENT.

An Edition of this Book is also published, containing Introduction, Text, Apparatus and Notes only, for the use of Schools, price 3s. 6d.

LL
P7217c5

T. MACCI PLAUTI
CAPTIVI

WITH

AN INTRODUCTION, CRITICAL APPARATUS, EXPLANATORY NOTES

AND

APPENDIX

CONTAINING COPIOUS NOTES AND EMENDATIONS BY

RICHARD BENTLEY ON THE WHOLE OF PLAUTUS

NOW IN MS. IN THE BRITISH MUSEUM.

EDITED BY

EDWARD A. SONNENSCHN, M.A.

Late Scholar of University College, Oxford.

NEW EDITION.

LONDON

W. SWAN SONNENSCHN AND ALLEN,

PATERNOSTER SQUARE.

1880.

16877
20/10/91

LONDON:
PRINTED BY C. GREEN AND SON,
178, STRAND.

TO THE
REV. GEORGE GRANVILLE BRADLEY, M.A., LL.D.
MASTER OF UNIVERSITY COLLEGE, OXFORD,

This Volume is Affectionately Dedicated

BY HIS FORMER PUPIL,

THE EDITOR.

PREFACE TO THE PRELIMINARY EDITION.

IN preparing an edition of a play of Plautus for the use of my pupils in the Humanity Classes of the University of Glasgow, it has been my aim to put into their hands not merely a commentary which should serve as an introduction to the study of Plautus, but also a text founded upon the best MS. authority available, and cognizant of recent labours in the field of Plautine criticism. No edition of Plautus seemed to me to meet these requirements so well as that of Dr. Julius Brix, whose Trinummus, Captivi, Menaechmi and Miles Gloriosus, are already well known in this country; and it was originally my intention simply to produce his Captivi in an English dress. My request for permission to do so was met by Dr. Brix with a cordial and ready assent, and a promise to send me further notes and corrections which had suggested themselves to him since the appearance of his last edition. Though in the course of my work I have been led considerably to modify and extend my original plan, I desire here to express my great obligations to the work of Dr. Brix, without which my edition could never have been produced, and the hope that he will pardon me if in some places I seem guilty of presumption in venturing to dissent from the ripe judgment of a veteran critic of Plautus like himself.

The text of the present edition of the Captivi is founded upon a collation of the two most important MSS., the Codex Vetus and the Codex Britannicus, known since Ritschl as B and J respectively. For the readings of the former, I am chiefly indebted to the edition of Plautus by Ussing, who collated this play at Rome; in cases of doubt, I have consulted Pareus (2nd edition, Frankfort, 1623). The collation of the Codex Britannicus I have myself made. It would certainly have been desirable to add a collation of the Codex Ursinianus (D), which contains the first 500 lines of the play; but I had no means of access to this MS., and have therefore been obliged to content myself with an occasional quotation of its readings. I have been able, however, to make a valuable addition to my Critical Apparatus, in a considerable number of emendations by Richard Bentley, which are here published for the first time. These I found in the British Museum, written in the margin of a copy of Pareus (Press Mark, 682. b. 10). A comparison of these notes with other specimens of Bentley's handwriting leaves no doubt whatever that they are really Bentley's own. But the best proof of their genuineness is furnished by the readings themselves, which could only have proceeded from a scholar of Bentley's calibre. In one passage (III 5. 66, 67) the marginal correction is identical with one proposed in Bentley's edition of Terence.* These readings I have further, in the majority of cases, introduced into my text; which, nevertheless, will be found to be on the whole considerably nearer the MSS. even than that of Dr. Brix. In this part of my work I have derived great assistance from the Critical Appendix of Dr. Brix and the notes of Ussing (Vol. II., Havniae, 1878); besides these, I have used the editions of Lindemann (Leipzig, 1830), Weise (Quedlinburg, 1847-48), Fleckeisen (Vol. I., stereotyped ed., Leipzig, first published in 1850), and Geppert (Berlin, 1859), the "Plautinische Prosodie" of Müller (Berlin, 1869), the "Metrik der Griechen und Römer" of Christ (Leipzig, 1879), and the work of A. Spengel on Plautus ("Kritik, Prosodie, Metrik," Göttingen, 1865). My special thanks are due to Professor W. Studemund, of Strassburg, who most kindly sent me information as to the readings of the Vatican MSS. (B and D) in some cases in which a doubt or difficulty arose.

With regard to the explanatory notes at the end of the book,

* Many of these emendations have since been independently made by other scholars, among whom I may mention Lindemann, Fleckeisen, and Dr. Brix. But among some fifty-three corrections in the Captivi, less than one third, and these for the most part the more obvious ones, are adopted from previous editors. Besides the readings approved by himself, which he distinguishes by the word "leg.," Bentley has added in the same copy of Pareus a collation of the most important variants of the Codex Britannicus, to which he had access as keeper of the Royal Library at St. James'. These have some value, not only as showing the respect that Bentley had for this MS., but because they were copied before the MS. suffered in the fire which burnt the Cottonian Library (1731), and accordingly in a few cases preserve a reading which is now illegible.

they are in the main translated from the notes of Dr. Brix on the Captivi (3rd ed., 1876), and the Trinummus (2nd ed., 1873), where reference was made to that play in a note on the Captivi. But I have not hesitated to omit or abridge many of his annotations, or to add others of my own, where I thought that by so doing I should make this edition more suitable for the class of readers for which it is intended. My own additions I have, so far as possible, distinguished by square brackets. Here, again, I desire to acknowledge my obligations to the notes on the Captivi by Ussing, as well as to several articles by Geppert, Lorenz, and other scholars in various periodical publications. I have been able to adopt the view of F. Martins (Quaestiones Plautinae, Berlin, 1879) as to the absence of the two 'Captives' from the stage during the first Act.

The section of the Introduction which treats of the Prosody of Plautus, I have translated and abridged from the "Einleitung" to the Trinummus by Dr. Brix (2nd ed., 1873); for the last paragraph on Hiatus at the end of this section, I am myself responsible.

In conclusion, I would say that there is probably no play of Plautus or Terence so suitable for school reading as the Captivi. Whether or not we accept the judgment of Lessing, who considered it to be the best play of its kind ever produced on the stage,* all must agree that it abounds in humour and interest, and is at the same time particularly free from that grossness which makes Plautus a difficult subject to read with a class. The boast of the Epilogue is on the whole well justified:

Spectatores, ad pudicos mores facta haec fabulast.

E. A. S.

THE COLLEGE, GLASGOW,
Nov. 1, 1879.

* Lessing, Kritik über Die Gefangenen von Plautus. "Die Gefangenen sind das schönste Stück, das jemals auf die Bühne gekommen ist, . . . weil es der Absicht der Lustspiele am nächsten kommt, und auch mit den übrigen zufälligen Schönheiten reichlich versehen ist."

NOTE TO THE NEW EDITION.

IN the form in which this book now appears, I have added an Excursus upon the MS. J, and the Appendix which I announced as in preparation last autumn, containing Bentley's emendations upon the other plays of Plautus. I have further reprinted (p. 162) from the Classical Journal of the year 1812, a list of Bentley's books now in the British Museum, and all containing MS. notes by him. This list, of the existence of which I only recently became aware, I have completed, with the help of the Museum Catalogue: it will, I hope, give a tolerably correct idea of the rich treasure of Bentleiana, which still lies unedited in our national Museum.* I have also added (p. 161) a list of the readings which I have been able to restore in J from Bentley's collation of the MS. (See Pref. p. vi, note).

To my text I have added the numbers of the lines in Fleckeisen's edition. My Critical Apparatus is now rendered more complete and consistent by the addition of the readings of D in a number of passages communicated to me since last autumn by Prof. Studemund (marked S), and by a second collation of J, made by Dr. L. A. P. Schroeder. I am further indebted to E. M. Thompson, Esq., Keeper of MSS. in the Museum, for several hints with regard to my Excursus; and to the great kindness of my friend, A. W. K. Miller, Esq., M.A., Fellow of University College, London, who gave me valuable assistance during a period of very hard work in the Museum.

I would call the attention of the reader to the note on page 2 (Introduction).

THE COLLEGE, GLASGOW,
Jan. 20, 1880.

* Bentley left his papers and books to his nephew, Richard Bentley, a Fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge; the latter, at his death in 1786, left the papers to the College library, and the books were acquired by purchase by the British Museum (see Encyclopædia Britannica, Vol. III. p. 579, ninth ed.).

INTRODUCTION.

ANALYSIS OF THE PLAY.

A well-to-do citizen of Aetolia, named Hegio, was the father of two sons, the younger of whom, Paegnium, had been stolen away at the age of four years by a malicious slave, named Stalagnus, and sold in Elis to the wealthy Theodoromedes. The latter had given him, under the name of Tyndarus, to his own son Philocrates, to be his playmate and companion. Twenty years after this event, a war broke out between the states of Aetolia and Elis, and the elder son of Hegio, Philopolemus, was taken prisoner and sold, as it happened, to a client of the very Theodoromedes who was the owner of his brother. Hegio, who had long given up all hope of finding the lost Paegnium, but who was anxious to recover his elder son, buys Elian prisoners of war, in the hope of effecting an exchange; and among others, purchases the son of Theodoromedes and his own younger son, who had been taken prisoner together with his young master. Thus Paegnium is a slave to his own father, without either of them having the remotest idea of their relation to one another. The two Captives, Philocrates and Paegnium, who are firm friends, have agreed to exchange dresses, the master personating the slave, the slave the master, in the hope that they might thus bring about the escape of the latter. At this point the play opens. The scene is laid in a city of Aetolia and the stage represents a street, in which the house of Hegio is situated.

ACT I.*

Scene 1 is a soliloquy of the Parasite Ergasilus, who complains of the evil days on which he has fallen, owing to the capture of his young and rich patron Philopolemus.

* In this Analysis, as well as in the body of the text, I have followed the example of Lorenz in his edition of the Mostellaria, and divided this Scene 2. Enter Hegio, in conversation with the Lorarius or overseer of slaves; Hegio, evidently a man of kindly feeling, orders him to put lighter fetters upon the two Captives; and after a few passages of raillery between them, the overseer departs in order to carry out this order. Hegio then turns to Ergasilus, who with tears describes how, in his grief on behalf of Hegio and Philopolemus, he is being reduced to bare skin and bones. Hegio is not altogether imposed upon, and rallies him upon his lack of spirit, telling him of his own plans for the recovery of his son. The interview ends with the invitation to dinner for which the Parasite had been angling; although Hegio will not promise anything more than very homely fare, Ergasilus accepts conditionally on his obtaining no better offer, and both leave the stage.

Scene 3 (II 1), a Canticum.* Enter the Lorarius, together with the two Captives and a gang of domestic slaves, who hang about the stage, actuated by interest in the new arrivals. The exchange of dresses has already been effected, and Tyn-darus is therefore regarded as the master. The request of the Captives that they may be allowed to converse alone for a moment, is readily granted by the Lorarius. Philocrates implores Tyn-darus to be careful and remember his part; and play into three, instead of five, Acts. The ordinary division of the plays of Plautus into five Acts is due to the grammarians and Italian editors at the time of the Renaissance, the only division recognized in the MSS. being into a number of Scenes. Convenience and clearness however demand that some further grouping of the action be made; and the most rational division seems to be that into three Acts, containing the statement, the complication, and the solution of the problem respectively (see Lorenz, Intr. to Most. p. 16). There is a special reason for a new arrangement in the case of the Captivi, as the old editors have evidently blundered at the end of the fourth Act. At the same time it seemed desirable to retain the traditional division for purposes of reference, and I have accordingly marked it throughout the play at the head of each page. All the references in the Notes and Introduction are made to these numbers.

* A 'Canticum' was properly a monologue, sung or recited to the accompaniment of flutes, and usually of free or various metrical composition. But the word is also applied in a wider sense to any scene written in one of the longer and more passionate metres; probably there was always some musical accompaniment.

Tyndarus in reply reminds his master that it is he (Tyndarus) and not Philocrates, that is running the chief risk.

Scene 4 (II 2). Enter Hegio from his house. In the course of conversation with the Captives, he informs them that his own son, Philopolemus, is a prisoner of war in Elis, and then leads the Pseudotyndarus aside in order to ask him some questions as to the family and position of his supposed master; the real Tyndarus looks on and expresses his lively satisfaction at the skilful acting of Philocrates. The latter tells Hegio that the Pseudophilocrates is of high station and the son of an exceedingly wealthy Elean, whom he calls "Thensaurochrysonicochrysidēs;" adding, in thorough harmony with his assumed character, that the father of his young master is a terrible screw. Hegio now turns to the real Tyndarus, and tells him that he has heard all about him from his slave, and promises that if he is frank, he will not repent it. The Pseudophilocrates, after some pretended indignation at the disclosure of his birth and station without his consent, confesses that the Pseudotyndarus has spoken the truth. Hegio now discloses a plan of his own; it is that of an exchange of Philopolemus for the pair of Captives, and mentions that his son is in the possession of a certain Menarchus, a physician. The Pseudotyndarus, who is standing by, exclaims that this person is a client of Theodoromedes, and that Hegio's plan will consequently be easy of execution. It is finally arranged that the pretended slave be sent home to negotiate the exchange, and that the Pseudophilocrates forfeit 20 minae for him should he fail to return.

Scene 5 (II 3) contains the leave-taking of Philocrates and Tyndarus, in the presence of Hegio. Tyndarus, who feels the danger of his situation, reminds Philocrates of the risk that he is running for his sake, and while appearing to exhort his slave not to seize so favourable an opportunity of making his escape, and so causing him to forfeit the 20 minae, in reality addresses a passionate entreaty to his master not to leave him in the lurch nor allow him to fall a victim to the vengeance of Hegio, should he discover the truth. The latter is moved to tears by the affection which master and slave evince for one another ; the good nature of the old gentleman, and his total absence of suspicion of a double meaning in what is being said, must have at once amused the audience and endeared him to them.

ACT II. (III.).

Scene 1. The Parasite propounds his conception of the positive, comparative and superlative degrees of misery ; the last being when the dinner hour brings no dinner. This is his own case now ; and he describes his fruitless attempts in the forum to obtain an invitation, and announces his intention of proceeding to the harbour in the hope of succeeding better there.

Scene 2, the second Canticum. Hegio, in a succession of short and rhythmical sentences, congratulates himself upon the great stroke of business that he has effected ; and describes how he got a passport from the praetor for the Pseudotyndarus and sent him home, then turned his steps homewards, but changed his mind and went on to his brother's house, where his other Elean captives were kept ; and how one of them, Aristophontes, in answer to the inquiry of Hegio, declared that he knew " Philocrates " personally, and begged to be allowed to see him. Hegio here turns to Aristophontes, who is with him, and bids him follow him into the house.

Scene 3. Tyndarus, catching sight of Hegio approaching with Aristophontes, and expecting to be recognized by the latter, dashes in great alarm out of the house.

Scene 4. Tyndarus is followed by Hegio and Aristophontes, and the latter addresses him by name as an acquaintance ; Tyndarus pretends to Hegio that Aristophontes is a madman, who was known in Elis to have attacked his father and mother with murderous weapons. Hegio at first believes him, and an angry dispute follows between the two Eleans. But at last Hegio's eyes are opened by the circumstantial statements of Aristophontes, and he perceives that he has been duped.

Scene 5. All the kindness of Hegio is now turned into wrath, and he bitterly reproaches Tyndarus with the fraud ; the latter boldly justifies it, on the ground that it was committed in the faithful discharge of his duty to his master. Hegio, whose one feeling is now a thirst for vengeance, orders him to be cast into chains and carried off to the stone quarries. The change brought about in Hegio by the ingratitude of those whom he had treated with kindness, is very well drawn. He is of an impulsive nature, and wholly dominated by the feeling of the moment.

ACT III.

Scene 1 (iv 1). The gloom that settled upon the last Act is soon to be dispelled. Ergasilus enters jubilant from the harbour, blesses Heaven for a great change in his own prospects, and announces that he is the bearer of good news for Hegio.

Scene 2 (iv 2). Enter Hegio, dejected and irritable. Overhearing the Parasite's exuberant expressions of triumph, he supposes him to have dined. When Ergasilus sees Hegio, he grasps him by the hand, and bids him give immediate and extensive orders for a dinner, the items of which he enumerates. At last he takes pity upon the mystification of Hegio and tells him what the news is; he has seen Philopolemus land at the harbour in company with Philocrates and the runaway slave, Stalagmus.* Hegio is at first incredulous, but the

* In Lessing's "Kritik über die Gefangenen von Plautus," the question is discussed whether this speedy return of Philocrates is not a violation of the unity of time. That a journey from Aetolia to Elis and back could not actually be performed in the short time which would elapse between the end of the first and beginning of the third Act, is an objection which has no validity; for the poet has a perfect right to postulate the lapse of any amount of time between two Acts of his drama. So there would be no difficulty in accepting the account, taken by itself, of the sufferings of Tyndarus in the stone quarry, all of which he underwent between the end of the second and middle of the third Act (see above). But that these events should have been transacted while the Parasite was waiting for his dinner, a prominent feature in the drama, is an inconsistency—the one set of facts cannot be reconciled with the other, and a sense of incongruity is forced upon the audience. It is true that Aetolia and Elis are merely names standing for two countries at war, and the postulate of a much less than the actual distance between them is again quite legitimate; but however much we stretch this plea, the shorter journey that remains, together with the events that happen in Elis, demand a much protestations of the Parasite at last compel his belief, and he promises that if the news is true, he will give him free board for the rest of his life. Meanwhile he bids him pay a visit to the larder and cellar.

Scene 3. Ergasilus abandons himself to the enchanting prospect of a meal.

Scene 4. An interval must be supposed to have elapsed between this and the last scene. A young slave recounts the proceedings of Ergasilus in the larder, and the devastation that he wrought among the eatables.

Scene 5. Enter Hegio with Philopolemus, Philocrates and Stalagmus, whom he has fetched from the harbour. Father and son pour out their gratitude towards Philocrates, and ask how they can requite him for the honourable performance of his engagement. He suggests that the devotion of his slave, Tyndarus, be rewarded; and now learns for the first time the punishment which had been inflicted upon him.

Scene 6. Hegio, left alone with the slave Stalagmus, takes him to task for his offence in carrying off the child Paegnium twenty years before. Stalagmus, seeing that evasion would be vain, boldly confesses that he sold the child in Elis to a certain Theodoromedes for six minae; Hegio immediately recognizes the name as that of the father of Philocrates.

Scene 7. At the eager summons of Hegio, Philocrates re-enters, and Stalagmus is submitted to a cross-examination. Philocrates at first denies the truth of the story, but when the slave mentions that in the family of Theodoromedes the child went by the name of Tyndarus, Philocrates recognizes in his servant and companion the lost Paegnium.

Scene 8. At this moment Tyndarus, released from the quarry but still loaded with chains, appears on the stage, and is astolonger time than a few hours; and the same may be said of the sufferings of Tyndarus. The poet's art, then, must be judged faulty, not because he makes a postulate, but because he gives prominence to an idea in one place which is inconsistent with what he postulates in another. That the whole action of the play is really confined to a single day may be seen by comparing III 1. 36, 37, III 2. 2, 1 2. 2 (the numbers refer to the ordinary division into five Acts).

nished to be greeted by Hegio as "son." Philocrates explains to him the change in his position, and points out to him the slave who had carried him off. The play closes with the transference of the chains from Tyndarus to Stalagmus.

PROSODY.

That the prosody of Plautus differs in many respects from that of Horace, Virgil and Ovid, has been at all times generally recognized; but it was a gross misrepresentation of the facts of the case when the practice of the poets of the Augustan age was set up as an absolute standard to which verse of all kinds and all times ought to conform, and whatever was at variance with it in earlier poets was explained as a "license" or a proof of their barbarous versification. In Plautus, as in all early dramatic poetry, the laws of quantity of syllables and their adaptation to metre rest mainly on the usage of popular speech, and exhibit essentially the same negligences and inconsistencies as the pronunciation of daily life itself. A totally different tendency manifests itself in the later reforming school of Ennius, with its new metre, the Dactylic Hexameter. The rhythm of this verse, with its inflexible monosyllabic arsis and its nicely defined double thesis (of one long or two short), was irreconcilable with the freer prosodic movement which had been found unobjectionable in earlier verse; it demanded that terminations should be strictly scanned, and every syllable of the language rigidly classified under one of the two great categories, long or short. Thus for the Hexameter there grew up a fixed law corresponding to the precision of Greek prosody; while in the iambic and trochaic metres of dramatic poetry, the usage not only of Ennius himself, but also of Terence, Pacuvius and Accius, did not on the whole constitute an advance upon the prosody of Plautus; it was Catullus and Horace who first extended the stringent rule observed in the Hexameter to iambic measures.

Space forbids the enumeration of all the peculiarities of Plautine prosody which reflect the looseness of popular speech ; nor are the few isolated facts which are ascertained about Roman pronunciation at all sufficient to justify the usage of Plautus in every particular. Again, though in many cases the scansion of a word in Plautus warrants us in inferring with certainty that the ordinary pronunciation of it in his day differed from that of later times, yet as to the exact nature of the divergence there is considerable difficulty in choosing between several equally plausible hypotheses. There can be no doubt, for instance, that ferēntarius in Trin. II 4. 55* (so sedēntarius in Aul. III 5. 39) cannot be scanned as a word of five syllables with the second long ; but whether the people suppressed the first or the second vowel, or dropped the consonant n, cannot be determined with absolute certainty, though numerous analogies make the first supposition appear the less probable, and the second the more so. We therefore content ourselves with a statement of the leading peculiarities of Plautine prosody, without attempting to base it upon an exhaustive or systematic treatment of Roman popular pronunciation.

In the first place, the fact is well authenticated that final s, even in the time of Cicero, was sounded so faintly that, when succeeded by an initial consonant, it did not necessarily make the syllable long by position ; this fact is mentioned by Cicero, Or. § 161, who quotes several instances of it (one from Lucilius), and comments with censure upon the poetae novi who had begun to find it a stumbling-block. A final s therefore may be entirely discarded in scanning Plautus, even in the last foot of the Senarius, or the Iambic Tetr. Acat. and the Trochaic Tetr. Cat., as : salvos sis Rud. I 2. 15, estis nunc ibid. II 6. 28, occidistis me Bacch. II 3. 79, qualis sit Bacch. IV 5. 16, perdis me Merc. II 2. 52, ludificatus sit Most. v 2. 3.

Further, it is to be noted, in contrast to later poetry, that in dramatic verse a Mute before a Liquid never makes a naturally short vowel long by position ; hence such words as agris, libros, duplex, can never be scanned as spondees.

* All references, both here and in the Notes, are made to the Tauchnitz Edition (4 vols.), the only text of the whole of Plautus accessible to ordinary students.

But it was Accent that had the most extensive influence in altering the natural quantity of syllables. While the deliberate and stately language of oratory did full justice to the length of the unaccented ending in such words as dómī, cǎrē, in spite of the accent on the short first syllable, in the more hurried speech of every-day intercourse it was found tiresome and inconvenient to follow up an accented short by an unaccented long syllable, and every iambic dissyllable was accordingly weakened into a pyrrhic. Hence in the comic poets we not unfrequently find such words as domi, precti, boni, bonis, foris (fors), manu, modo (abl.), dedi, scanned as pyrrhics ; nay, iambic Imperatives are usually found with their last syllable shortened, e.g. tene, vide, abi ; whereas Ennius in such cases as a rule restored the iambic scansion. We may express this in a formula by saying that íamb = pyr̄rhic. The following instances may be quoted from Plautus and Terence : nóvř pictura (abl.) Mostell. I 3. 105, nóvř liberto Epid. v 2. 61, bóni's ut æquomst Stich. I 2. 42, lévř senténtia Ter. Hec. III 1. 32, hérř ibid. III 5. 16.

A. Influence of the accent

(i) Forward, upon a succeeding syllable.

Side by side with this weakening of final vowels, and arising from the same cause, we find a corresponding obscuration of certain final consonants, as in the words enim, apud, quidem, parum, soror, caput, amant, habent, for which the more ancient inscriptions often show *apu, quide, paru, &c. Consequently the last syllable of such words, followed by a consonant, are not necessarily long by position ; thus, prócũl recedas Capt. III 4. 19, patř parerem Trin. II 2. 39, dedĩt mi ibid. IV 2. 57, apũd test ibid. I 2. 159, párvũ missum sibi Mil. III 1. 102, vělvũ de me aliquid Poen. v 4. 50, sorřr te ibid. I 2. 87, erĩt cordolium ibid. I 2. 89. That the weakening of the final sound in these words is really due to the accent on the preceding short syllable, is proved, on the one hand, by the fact that neither in cases like cóntinē Rud. II 6. 26, where the accent has retreated from the short syllable, nor in words like actus, mores, vincunt, nostros, where the accent falls on a long, is any shortening of the last syllable permitted; and, on the other hand, by the fact that even in abi, tene, tace, the last syllable recovers its length the moment the pressure of the accent is removed, i.e. when the word is pronounced slowly and with emphasis, as is commonly the case, e.g., before a stop: as, venī Men. I 3. 32, iubē Capt. IV 2. 63, pavē Pseud. I 1. 101, Amph. V 1. 61, abī Capt. II 3. 92, Asin. III 1. 39, valē Truec. IV 2. 42, Cure. IV 4. 32.

* For other examples of final m omitted, see in Corssen, Ueber Aussprache &c. I. 266—276 (2nd Ed.), Ritschl Præf. Lat. Mon. Ep. cites p. 89, 'e titulis Fuliscis,' MATEHE CUPA, i.e. mater hic cubat, and on a lamella Tiburtina (tab. 97 B), DEDE stands for DEDET, i.e. dedit. The form hau for haud has even maintained its ground in the oldest MSS.

But the force of the accent in prose, to which the Ictus Metricus is very often equivalent, makes itself felt even beyond the limits of iambic words; for combinations of words forming an iambus assume the same liberty of degenerating into pyrrhics, when a word consisting of one short syllable (quid, quod, quot, sed, et, is, pol, or, with elision of the last syllable, ego, abi, age, quasi, sibi) is followed by a long syllable with initial vowel in a word of one, two or more syllables, as quód est Trin. III 2. 4, itāst ibid. III 2. 42, combinations which have the same effect on the ear as pótēst, &c. Thus we find among many instances: pól hīc quidem Trin. IV 2. 9, quód in manu ibid. IV 2. 69 (comp. the pronunciation in Elizabethan English i the), ábi in malam rem Capt. IV 2. 97, quási in Vclabro ibid. III 1. 29, égo illi Trin. I 2. 96, tibi ergo Merc. V 4. 10, nóro ornatu Trin. IV 1. 21, pér hānc tibi Stic. IV 2. 31, nísi hūnc Mil. IV 4. 2, quíd ipsus hic Capt. II 2. 29, négo inquam ibid. III 4. 39, séd ecceum ibid. V 3. 20 (very frequent), égo obsonabo Bæch. I 1. 64, quíd abstulisti Aul. IV 4. 18, quód intellēxi Ter. Eun. IV 5. 11, égo interim Most. V 1. 45, quód argentum Cure. V 2. 15, ád Acherántem Most. II 2. 76.

But the influence of the accent extended not only forwards to the succeeding syllable, but also backwards to the preceding one; so that in words or combinations of words having the accent on the third syllable, and the second syllable long, the latter was shortened if the first syllable was short, because in the rapid pronunciation of such words the voice naturally hurried on to the accented syllable, and, while bringing it out with emphasis, neglected to give the preceding long but unaccented syllable its due weight. We may express this again in a formula, thus : bacchiús = anapaést. To such popular pronunciation, then, correspond scansion like the following : senēctúti Trin. II 3. 7, ferēntárium ibid. II 4. 55, tabērnáculo ibid. III 2. 100, volūntáte ibid. V 2. 42, iuuēntúte Cure. I 1. 38, volūptábilis Epid. I 1. 19, magístrátus Pers. I 2. 24, vetústáte Poen. III 3. 87, gubērnábunt Mil. IV 2. 100, supēllēctili Poen. V 3. 26, Alēxánderum Most. III 2. 88 ; and in equivalent combinations such as, per ánnónam Stich. II 1. 25, in ócúltó Capt. I 1. 15, ubi óccásio Pers. II 3. 19, age ábdúce Stich. III 1. 17, íta út dícis Capt. I 2. 15, fore ínvíto Poen. V 4. 51, scío ábsúrde Capt. I 1. 3, quid ímprúdens Epid. V 2. 63, negás Tjúdarum ésse Capt. III 4. 39.

(ii) Backward, upon a preceding syllable.

These instances may suffice to give an idea both of the extent and the limit of the influence which accent may exert in shortening long syllables, the limit being that the shortened syllable must stand immediately after a short one, and either before or after one upon which falls the accent in prose or the ictus in verse ; on the other hand, we may observe that the shortening affects syllables long both by nature and position, and in the latter case can override not merely two, but even three consonants. Thus the first syllables of inter, omnes, ipse, hercle, iste, huc, haec, &c., are in themselves just as decidedly long as those in summus, credo, sic, nunc, and so forth ; but in the two combinations quid ínter and *quid íntér they are reduced to shorts by the rhythm of speech or metre. (iii) Limited.

Further, we are in possession of a few isolated facts which make it probable that the weakening of quantity in certain cases found a corresponding expression in spelling. Thus the scansion in óculto is supported by the spelling with a single c of one MS. (the Decurtatus) in Trin. III 2. 38, 86 ; and again we may compare sínúllume with the spelling facílumed in the senatus cons. de Bacch. ; in the words omíttére, operíre, aperíre, (iv) Represented in the spelling of some words.

* These shortenings produce the same rhythmic effect that is created in music by a grace note before an accented (loud) or unaccented (weak) beat. As in music the grace note and accented crotchet are compressed into the time of a single beat, so the syllables quídint (a short and a long) combine and together form a single long.

the omission of the labial b has permanently stamped itself upon the orthography of the language.

(v) Does not account for all cases of shortening.

It must be noted, however, that there are a few words in which shortening frequently takes place in cases which exceed the limits above laid down. These words are ille, iste, unde, inde, nempe;* and we must ascribe the shortening in such cases to the special and peculiar character of these words. Worn down, like small change, by constant use in conversation, they had one and all lost their accent: unde, inde, nempe, had suffered consonantal weakening to such an extent that in common talk the liquids n and m were almost inaudible; iste had a collateral form ste, lately rescued from its obscurity by Lachmann, Lucr. p. 197 (see also Corssen, ii. 629); lastly, in ille scarcely more than a single consonant was heard, as we might gather from the formations ellum, ellam (en-illum, en-illum, en-lum, ellum), and from the very frequent pyrrhic scansion of illic (the pron., not the adv.). Another exception, which does not belong to the group just mentioned, is frustra: this word, elsewhere a spondee, must apparently be taken as a trochee in Plautus, on the strength of six passages in which there is no reason to suspect a corruption in the MSS.: Capt. iv 2. 74, Rud. iv 3. 30, iv 7. 29 (Fleck.), Merc. iii. 1. 30, Pers. i 3. 60, Men. iv 3. 18. In all these passages the phrase is the same, frustra sis: in other verses of Plautus and in all of Terence, frustra is found either with the second syllable elided, or in a position in the verse from which we can draw no conclusion as to its quantity. Another word in which the practice of Plautus deviates from that of later times is feri (ferem), the first syllable of which is long in the Cretic close of iambic and trochaic verses, e.g. Capt. iv 2. 63, v 4. 1, Bacch. iv 5. 18.

B. Archaic long vowels in Plautus.

We now pass to another and entirely different set of phenomena in the prosody of Plautus. Many of the terminations which we are accustomed to find short in the poets of the Augustan age, but which were originally possessed of a long vowel, were, at the time when Plautus wrote, in a transition

* E.g. ille Trin. i 2. 100, iv 2. 11, iste Pers. iv 3. 59, istic Trin. iv 2. 78, unde ibid. i 2. 181, Capt. i 1. 41, inde Amph. i 1. 4, Capt. i 2. 19, Aul. ii 7. 4, nempe Trin. ii 2. 51, ii 4. 25, Aul. ii 4. 15.

state; accordingly we must be prepared to meet in such cases with great deviations from the usage of later times, and some vacillation in that of Plautus himself. Thus es (from sum) is always long both in Plautus and Terence; so, often, is the termination or (as well in comparatives like auctior Capt. iv 2. 2, and substantives like exercitor, amor, as in verbs, e.g. fatcor Pseud. III 2. 59, and particles, e.g. ecastor Mil. iv 2. 71, 75), and the term. of the 3rd pers. sing. of verbs, e.g. negūt Capt. Prol. 11, ſīt ibid. 25, scīt ibid. II 2. 100, ūt Curc. iv 2. 3, vixīt Pseud. I 3. 92, obtigīt Stich. II 3. 60 (so erīs Trin. iv 2. 129), egēt ibid. II 2. 53, especially in the subjunctives sīt, dēt, fuāt, velīt, hence mavelīt Trin. II 2. 29. Finally we may add the termination a of the nom. and voc. sing. in the first decl. (e.g. Trin. II 1. 28), also found long in several passages from Ennius and old inscriptions (see Corssen II 448 seq.). Similar instances of long vowels are found here and there even in Horace, as perirēt Carm. III 5. 17, timēt II 13. 16, ridēt II 6. 14, arāt III 16. 26, erāt Sat. II 2. 47, solcāt Sat. I 5. 90, velīt Sat. II 3. 187, condiderīt Sat. II 1. 82.

Another peculiarity of dramatic poetry is the Synizesis of C. Synizesis. two vowels in a limited number of words and inflexions of words. All the two-syllable cases of the following words could, by vowel-contraction, be pronounced as monosyllables: viz. of deus, meus, tuos, suos (i.e. tuus, suus, but the age of Plautus recognizes only tuos, and in like manner salvos, relicuos, vivont, &c.), and is (eius, ei, eum—even in eumpse—cos, cas, co, ca), together with the words quouis and quoi, huius and huic,* rei (gen. and dat. of res), dies, die,† diu, fui, fuit, trium, duas, cluens, ait, ais, ain, eo, eam, cas, cat, cunt; the three-syllable cases of deus, meus, tuos, suos, idem, make dissyllables, and so do duorum, duarum, duellum, fuisti, fuisse, puella, camus, istius, illius, diebus; trisyllabic are diutius, excundum; more rarely we find with synizesis quiesce Merc. II 3. 110, quicuerint Pers. I 2. 26, quietus Epid. III 2. 2, oblivisci Mil. IV 8. 48, fenestra ibid. II 4. 26, which are sometimes even written oblisci, ſestra. Compounds

* Quoi and huic are always monosyllables, while ei may be a dissyllable.

† But prūdie is always a Cretic.

with colliding vowels nearly always suffer synizesis, as: proin, proinde, dehinc, dein, deinde, praeoptare,* deerrare, dehortor Capt. II 1. 16, deartuatus ibid. III 5. 14, deosculari, &c.; intro ire is not a case in point, because intro and ire (so intro and mittere, rumpere, ducere, ferre) always form two separate words. In the forms aibam, audibam, scibam, ditiae, ditior, the synizesis has even stamped itself upon the spelling; likewise in quattor (for quattuor, see Ritschl Rhein. Mus. VIII p. 309), mensum, amantum, cluentum, so that we are not surprised at omnium occurring as a dissyllable, Trin. IV 2. 88, v 1. 1. On the other hand, vowel contractions like gratias, otio, filio, gaudiis, are found only in the more unwieldy metres, which are exempt from many of the ordinary rules, that is to say, the Troch. Tetr. Acat. and the Anapæstic measures; while in the commoner and lighter ones they are not permitted. Thus, for instance, the word gratis, which is always found in its contracted form in later times, never appears in Plautus or Terence except with its full ablative termination as gratiis (and so ingratiis).

D. Hiatus.

Not the least difficult among the many difficult questions that arise in connection with the verse of Plautus is the determination of the extent to which, and conditions under which, he permitted himself the use of Hiatus, and a few words must be said about it here. In general, no doubt, the Romans regarded the hiatus as anything but a beauty. They were so much in the habit of eliding their vowels, that Cicero says (Orat. § 150): Nemo tam rusticus est, qui vocales nolit conjungere. Hence in Plautus we should expect to find hiatus chiefly in those cases where a break in the metre or in the sense occasioned or permitted a pause in the speaker's utterance. As metrical pauses allowing of hiatus may be reckoned the Cæsura in the Cretic Tetr. (Trin. II 1. 37 Fleck.), in the Bacch. Tetr. (Capt. III 2. 8), in the Troch. Tetr. Cat. or Acat. (Capt. II 2. 81, IV 2. 66, 81, v 2. 24), in the Anapæst. Tetr. (Mil. IV 2. 23, 65), and the Iamb. Tetr. Cat. (Septenarius). In some of these examples the metrical pause coincides with a pause in the sense; yet, on the other hand, an overwhelming majority of verses written pauses.

(i) Metrical

* Cf. however Capt. III 5. 30.

in the above metres show no hiatus, even where metre and sense both come to a halt. Pauses in the Sense are most apt to engender hiatus when they are considerable, and accompanied by a change of speakers (e.g. Mil. iv 8. 5, Anl. iii 6. 1); though even in such cases the occurrence of hiatus is far from common. The kind of words most subject to hiatus are monosyllables ending in a long vowel, or in m after a short vowel, forming the first syllable of an Arsis which is resolved into two shorts (the long vowel being shortened by the following vowel), e.g. quæ ego Trin. Prol. 6, quæ in ibid. 12, nam ego ibid. i 1. 3. While this form of hiatus is such a favourite with the comic poets that their ear seems to have been no longer sensible of its presence, an hiatus falling in the Thesis occurs comparatively seldom even in Anapæstic verse, as Stich. ii 2. 52, Quid istic incest? quas tu edes colubras; and it is still rarer in other metres, as the Trochaic Septenarius, Mil. iv 8. 20, ô mei oculi, ô mi anime, or the Iambic Septenarius, Asin. iii 3. 74, Da meus ocellus, mea rosa, mi anime, mea voluptas.

It would, however, probably be a mistake to deny the admissibility of the hiatus in the chief Cæsura of any kind of verse; and the same remark may be applied to many other cases in which certain scholars have attempted to reduce the multiplicity and variety of Plautine language and verse to a law. Many considerations may contribute to justify an hiatus in particular instances, and each case must be judged with reference to such special considerations and on its own merits. Thus, for instance, Corsen makes it probable that final m was heard far more distinctly in the age of Plautus than in later times; if this is so, it is evident that in Plautus non-elision of a syllable ending in m may stand on a somewhat different footing from non-elision of a final vowel. Again, it seems a priori probable that hiatus must have sounded differently to Roman ears in different combinations of vowels. It can hardly have been a matter of indifference in a question which was largely one of euphony, whether it was an a that did not coalesce with a u, or an e with an i. That such distinctions were observed, and that in some cases hiatus was actually admired, appears from Gellius (vi § 20, ed. Hertz), who speaks of the

(ii) Breaks in the Sense.

(iii) With monosyllables in a resolved Arsis.

(iv) In Thesis.

hiatus between two vowels of the same character as canorus atque iucundus, adding, est adeo inuenire apud nobiles poetas huiusmodi suauitatis multa, quae appareat nauata esse non fortuita. And Quintilian bears testimony to the same fact (Inst. Orat. IX 4. 36), "Nam etsi coeuntes litterae, quae συναλοιφαί dicuntur, etiam leniorem reddunt orationem, quam si omnia verba suo fine clauduntur, et non nunquam hiulca etiam decent faciuntque ampliora quaedam, ut: 'pulchra oratione acta omnino iuctare;'" if we compare this passage with the passage of Cicero above quoted, it will appear that the latter only lays emphasis on one side of the truth.

SOURCES OF THE TEXT.

The MSS. of importance which contain the Captivi are :

(1) The Codex Vetus (B), a MS. of the 11th century, now in the Vatican Library at Rome. It was originally discovered in the middle of the sixteenth century by the great German scholar Joachimi Camerarius, and is the main authority on which the text of Plautus rests. It contains all the twenty comedies. The original reading of B has been in many places corrected by several hands of various ages, the most important being the so-called "manus secunda."

(2) The Codex Britannicus (J), a MS. also of the end of the 11th or beginning of the 12th century, probably of English origin, and now in the British Museum. It contains only eight plays, the Amphitruo, Asinaria, Aulularia, Captivi, Curculio, Casina, Cistellaria, and Epidicus. It has severely suffered by fire, the beginnings or ends of lines being often quite illegible.

(3) The Codex Ursinianus, or Vaticanus (D), a MS. of the 12th century, now in the Vatican, and containing, besides the last twelve plays, the Amphitruo, Asinaria, Aulularia, and about one half of the Captivi (to III 2. 4). This MS. was the chief authority for the text of the plays which it contains, until the discovery of the Codex Vetus by Camerarius.

(4) The Codex Ambrosianus (A), a palimpsest now in the Ambrosian Library at Milan. The original MS. of Plautus belonged probably to the 5th century, and if it were preserved entire at the present day, would be an authority of paramount importance upon the text of the whole of Plautus; but in the 9th century it was taken to pieces, and ruthlessly washed and scraped; upon the parchment thus prepared a copy of the Vulgate was made. The original writing is therefore exceedingly hard to decipher, and about two-thirds of the leaves are entirely lost. Of the Captivi, all that can be read are a few traces in two passages (IV 3. 5—V 1. 12, and V 4. 26 to the end).

Of the MSS. above mentioned, a collation of B and *J is given in the Critical Apparatus of this edition; occasional reference

* Mere variations in spelling are not usually indicated, especially where they represent the customary orthography of the MS. in question. Thus in J there are hardly any capitals, e often stands for o (e.g. ucrusus), for oe (prelia), for i (acc. plur.), for u (edendi); i stands for e (intelligo), for u (optimus, surripuit), for y (Tindarus); o for u (adolescens); u for o (seruus, tuum), though the older spelling, e.g. seruom, is occasionally found; y for i (Phyloerates); c for t (e.g. gracia, nuncius), and conversely t for c (offutiis); xs for s (expectat); h is often inserted (herus, hodio, hostium; cf. on the other hand, Egio for Hegio); d and n are assimilated to a following letter (assiduus, attinet, affero, alloquere, imparatum, immittere, irrogabo); -a est, -e est, -i est, -o est, -um est, -us est, are written in full, instead of the contractions, -ast, -ust, -umst, etc.; cui and cuius stand for quoi and quouis, cum for quom; mihi and nihil are generally written michi and nichil, and ae is constantly confused with e (e.g. ledat, scpe, aequae); further, a preposition is usually written as part of the word which it governs (e.g. inseruitute, ulte, interse), and other words are similarly joined (e.g. tehoc, sipotes). But these peculiarities are not noted excepting for some special reason. Nor have I thought it worth while to register all the vagaries of J in the matter of the speakers to whom lines are attributed. In I 2. 73—81, for instance, the greatest confusion prevails. Again, it has been impossible, without greatly extending the compass of the Critical Apparatus, to indicate all the passages in which J is illegible: this is only done where a wrong conclusion might have been drawn 'ex silentio.' Corrections made by a second hand are always given with the words 'by second hand;' a word corrected immediately by the first hand is sometimes simply given as it was meant to stand, but generally the fact that a correction has been made is noted.—It should be added that it is only in the case of J that this edition gives first-hand information. The sources from which my statements as to B are taken are indicated in the Preface.

is made to D, and the fragments of readings which have hitherto been deciphered in A are added. The first and second hands in B are distinguished as *B*¹ and *B*² respectively. Other MSS. of lesser importance, when mentioned, are alluded to as Codices Minores.

The text of this edition may be presumed to contain the reading of the MSS. B and J, unless a variation is noted in the Critical Apparatus.

In the Critical Apparatus, the readings of editors who have proposed corrections of the MSS., are given only in cases where their emendations have been also embodied in the text. An exception to this rule is made in the case of the readings of Bentley, here published for the first time (see Preface), which are always quoted, whether adopted or not. But in all cases in which the text does not contain the reading of one of the MSS. B or J, the source of the reading adopted is indicated, sometimes by the words Cod. Min., where it rests upon MS. authority of secondary importance, sometimes by the name of its proposer, if it is a conjecture; or if this is not done, the inference to be drawn is, that the correction is one of some antiquity, and generally accepted in all editions.* The words or letters printed in italics in the text, indicate a conjectural addition, nothing corresponding to which is found in the MSS. As a rule, it is not intended in the Apparatus to give information as to whether a reading is to be found or not in other editions than that in which it was originally proposed; all that is pointed out is the source from which it comes. But here again I have made an exception in the case of Bentley's emendations; and in all cases in which the correction has been independently made, since his time, by some other commentator, I have added the name of the latter as well. Two names also appear attached to a reading where Bentley's correction is identical with one proposed by some previous editor.

* Again, where the question is one of orthography, or of re-arrangement of lines, I have not always referred the correction to its author.

T. MACCI PLAVTI
CAPTIVI.

LIST OF ABBREVIATIONS.

A = Codex Ambrosianus. Acidal. = Acidalius. B = Codex Vetus (B¹ = manus prima, B² = manus secunda). Bent. = Bentley. Bosse. = Bosscha. Both. = Bothe. Br. = Brix. Camer. = Camerarius. cont. = continued. corr. = corrected. Cod. Min. = Codex Minor (Codices Min- ores). D = Codex Ursinianus. Ed. Prin. = Editio Princeps (Venice, 1472). Edd. rec. = editores recentiores. Fl. = Fleckeisen. Gepp. = Geppert. Gronov. = Gronovius. Grut. = Gruter. Gulielm. = Gulielmius. Herm. = Hermann.	J = Codex Britannicus. Lamb. = Lambinus. Lind. = Lindemann. Madv. = Madvig. Müll. = Müller (Plautinische Prosodie). om. = omitted. Par. = Pareus. Rl. = Ritschl. Sciopp. = Scioppius. Speng. = Spengel. Studem. = Studemund. (S.) = acc. to Studemund's testimony. Taubm. = Taubmann. Ter. = Terence. Turneb. = Turnebus. Uss. = Ussing. Wagn. = Wagner. † = a corruption in the text. . (on the line) = an erasure of one letter, or an illegible letter. . (under a letter) = a mode of cancelling employed in MSS.
---	---

PERSONAE.

ERGASILVS PARASITVS.
HEGIO SENEX.
LORARI.
PHILOCRATES CAPTIVOS.
TYNDARVS CAPTIVOS.
ARISTOPHONTES CAPTIVOS.
PVER.
PHILOPOLEMVS ADVLESCENS.
STALAGMVS SERVOS.
CATERVA.

ARGUMENTVM.

C aptúst in pugna Hégionis filius.
A liúm quadrimum fúgiens seruos uéndidit.
P atér captiuos cónmercatur Áleos
T antúm studens ut gnátum captum récupéret,
E t ínibi emit ólim amissum filium. 5
I s suó cum domino uéste uorsa ac nómine
V t ámittatur fécit: ipsus pléctitur.
E t ís reduxit cáptum et fugitiuóm simul,
I ndício quoius álium agnoscit filium.

INCIPIT FABVLA CAPTIVORVM PLAVT.I ARGUMENTVM J. 3 alios J.
4 captum, a conj. of Brugman, to complete the line. 5 Et ibi B¹, Et inibi B²DJ. 6 domino uersa J.

PROLOGVS.

Hos quós uidetis stáre hic captiuós duos,
 † Illi qui astant, hi stant ambo, non sedent.
 Hoc uós mihi testes éstis me uerúm loqui.
 Senéx qui hic habitat, Hégio, est huiús pater.
 Sed ís quo pacto séruiat suo síbi patri, 5
 Id ego híc apud uos próloquar, si operám datís.
 Seni huíc fuerunt filii natí duo :
 Alterúm quadrimum púerum seruos súrpuít
 Eunque hínc profugiens uéndidit in Álide
 Patrí huiúsee. iam hóc tenetis ? óptumumst. 10
 Negát hercle ille últimus. accédo.
 Si nón ubi sedeas lócus est, est ubi ámbules,
 Quando hístrionem cógis mendicárier.
 Ego mé tua causa, ne érres, non ruptúrus sum.
 Vos quí potestis ópe uostra censérier 15
 Accípíte relicuom : álieno uti níl moror.
 Fugitiuos ille, ut díxeram ante, huiús patri
 Domo quém profugiens dóminum abstulerat, uéndidit.
 Is póstquam hunc emit, dédit eum huíc gnató suo Pecúliarem, quía quasi una aetás erat. 20
 Hic núnc domi seruit suó patri nec scít pater :
 Enimuéro di nos quási pilas hominés habent.
 Ratióner habetis, quó modo unum amiserit.
 Postquám belligerant Áetoli cum Áleis,

PROLOGVS INCAPTIVOS PLAVTI J. 1 Captiui, Captiuos, etc. is the spelling of J throughout. 2 stant J. ambo J. 3 Hos uos B¹, Hoc uos B², . os quos J. testis B. 4 qui habitat J. 8 surrupuit B, surripuit J, surpuít Lamb., Bent. 9 fugiens J. aulide J. 11 Negat mehercle ille ultimus : discedito Bent. on Ter. Haut. Prol. 31, ultimus BJ.
 15 censeriier J. 16 reliquom BJ. 18 profugens B¹, profugiens B²J.
 19 Hic BD(S)J, Is Fl. 22 Est uero di nos BD(S), Est uero di nos J.
 24 Aetoli cumalidis B, aetolicum aulidis J.

Vt fit in bello, cápitur alter filius. 25
 Medicús Menarchus émit ibidem in Álide.
 Coepít captiuos cónmercari hic Áleos,
 Siquém reperire pósset, qui mutét suom,
 Illúm captiuom : hunc súom esse nescit qui domist.
 Et quóniam heri indaudúit, de summó loco 30
 Summóque genere cáptum esse equitem Áleum,
 Nil prétio parsit, filio dum párceret :
 Recónciliare ut fácilius possét domum,
 Emít de praeda hosce ámbos a quaestóribus.
 Hisce aútem inter sese hunc confinxerúnt dolum, 35
 Quo pácto is seruos súom erum hinc amittát domum.
 Itaque ínter se conmutant uestem et nómina :
 Illíc uocatur Philocrates, hic Týndarus :
 Huius ille, hic illius hódie fert imáginem.
 Et hic hódie expediet hánc docte falláciam 40
 Et súom erum faciet líbertatis cónpotem :
 Eodémque pacto fratrem seruabít suom
 Reducémque faciet líberum in patriam ad patrem
 Inprúdens, itidem ut saépe iam in multís locis
 Plus ínsciens quis fécit quam prudéns boni. 45
 Sed ínscientes suá sibi fallácia
 Ita cónpararunt ét confinxerúnt dolum,
 [Itaque hi conmenti de sua sententia]
 Vt in séruitute hic ad suom maneát patrem :
 Ita núnc ignorans suó sibi seruít patri. 50
 Homúnculi quantí sunt, quom recógito !
 Haec rés agetur nóbis, uobis fábula.
 Sed étiamst paucis uós quod monitos uóluerim.
 Proféccto expediet fábulae huic operám dare :
 Non pértractate fáctast neque ítem ut céterac, 55
 Neque spúrcidici insunt uórsus immemorábiles :

26 aulide J. 27 cepit B. comercari B. alios B.J. 28 reperire J. posset cum quo B.J. possit qui Fl. with one of the Pal. MSS.
 30 inde audiuit B. inde audiunt J. 32 Nichil J. par sit B¹, parsit B².J.
 34 hosce de praeda BD, (emit) hosce (after erasure) depreda J. de quaestoribus BD, dequestioribus J. a quaestoribus Fl. 35 sese confixerunt J.
 36 hic seruus B¹, his seruus B²D(S). 39 illic hic B.J., ille Gopp. 42 seruauit BD(S). 44 et J. 47 confixerunt J. 54 hinc J. 56 spurcidici J.

Hic néque periurus lénost nec meretrix mala
 Neque miles gloriósus. ne uereámini,
 Quia béllum Aetolis ésse dixi cum Áleis :
 Foris illic extra scénam fient proélia. 60
 Nam hoc paéne iniquomst, cómico chorágio
 Conári desubito ágere nos tragoédiam.
 Proin síquis pugnam expéctat, litis cóntrahat :
 Valéntiorem náctus aduorsárium
 Si erít, ego faciam ut púgnam inspectet nón bonam, 65
 Adeo út spectare póstea omnis óderit.
 Abeó. ualete, iúdice iustíssumi
 Domí, duellique duéllatores óptumi.

ACTVS I.

ERGASILVS.

70 Iuuentus nomen índidit Scortó mihi,
 Eo quía inuocatus sóleo esse in conuúio.
 Scio absúrde dictum hoc dérísores dícere,
 At ego aó recte. nám scortum in conuúio
 Amátor, talos quóm iacit, sibi ínuocat. 5
 Estne ínuocatum scórtum an non ? planíssume.
 Verum hércle uero nós parasiti plánius,
 Quos núnquam quisquam néque uocat neque ínuocat :
 Quasi múres semper édimus alienúm cibum.
 Vbi rés prolatae súnt, quom rus hominés eunt : 10
 Simúl prolatae rés sunt nostris déntibus.
 80 Quasi quóm caletur cócleae in occultó latent,
 Suó sibi suco úfuont, ros si nón cadit :
 Íté m parasiti rébus prolatis latent

57 Hi. c J. 58 gloriosus esse neuereamini BD(S)J. 59 esse om. BJ.
 dix B. alidis J. 60 fiant B. 62 neos agere tragoediam J; and Par. reads nos agere without remark. 64 nactus J. 68 bellique B, bellique duellares J.

PARASITVS J. 2 .oc J. con. uiuio J. 4 ego elio B, ego dico J.
 inuinió J (con added above the line by a second hand). 5 Sibi amator talos quom (cum J) iacit scortum inuocat BJ, Amator talos quom iacit sibi inuocat Götz. 6 scortum Bent. 7 Verum hercle nerum BJ, Verum hercle uero Bosse. 12 coccleae B, oecleo J. 13 inuunt J.

- In occúlto miseri, uéctitant sucó suo, 15
 Dum rúri rurant hómines quos ligúrriant.
 Prolátis rebus párasiti uenátici
 Canés sumus : quando rédierunt, Molóssici
 Odiósicique et múltum incommodéstici.
 Et híc quidem hercle, nísi qui colaphos péрпи 20
 Potís parasitus frángique aulas ín caput,
 90 Vel éxtra portam Trígeminam ad saccum flicet.
 Quod míhi ne eueniat nón nullum periculumst.
 Nam póstquam meus rex ést potitus hóstium,—
 Ita núnc belligerant Aétoli cum Áleis : 25
 Nam Actólia haec est : illist captus in Álide
 Philopólemus huius Hégionis filius
 Senís qui híc habitat : quae aédes lamentáriae
 Mihi súnt, quas quotiensquómque conspició, fleo—
 Nunc híc ocepit quaéstum hunc fili grátia 30
 Inhonéstum, maxume álienum ingenió suo :
 100 Hominés captiuos cómmercat, sí queat
 Aliquem ínuenire suóm qui mutet filium.
 Quod quídem ego nimis quam mísere cupio ut ímpetret :
 Nam ni íllum recipit, níhil est quo me récipiam. 35
 Nullást spes in iuuentúte : sese omnés amant.
 Ille démmum antiquis ést adulescens móribus,
 Quoius núnquam uoltum tránquillauí grátii.
 Condígne pater est eíus moratus móribus.
 Nunc ad eum pergam. séd aperitur óstium, 40
 Vnde sáturitate saépe ego exiui ébrius.

15 suo suco B(S), suco suo D(S)J. 17 uenatici canes (18) Sumus BD(S)J. 18 quando res redierunt BD(S)J. Canes sumus : quando res redeunt Bent., vel Canes sumus : quando redierunt Bent., Fl. 19 incommodestici J. 20 colaphos J. 21 Potes B, Potest J, Potis Camer. frangitque J. 22 Vel ire tra poram B¹, Vel ire extra portam B²J. saccum licet B, sacculum licet J. Vel extra portam Trigeminam ad saccum ilicet Fl. 24 rex potius J. 25 Alidis B, alidis J. 26 illic est BJ, Illist Fl. metri gratia. alide J. 27 Philopolomus B. egionis BJ. 28 Seras qui J. 30 filii J. 31 In honestum et maxime J. 33 qui cum mutet BJ, qui mutet Sciopp. 34—39 appear in BD(S)J in the next scene, after line 16; restored to their place by Acidal. 34 misere Bent. 36 inuentutis BJ, in inuentute Müll. 37 adulescens est J. 38 cui nis J. uoluntum tranquillauit J. 40 hostium BJ. 41 exii ebrios, corrected to-us J.

HEGIO. LORARIVS. ERGASILVS.

- 110 HE. Aduórte animum sis tu : ístos captiuós duos
 Herí quos emi dé praeda a quaestóribus,
 His índito caténas singulárias,
 Istás maiores quíbus sunt uincti démito.
 Siníto ámbulare, sí foris, si intúis uolent : 5
 Sed uti ádseruentur mágna diligéntia.
 Libér captiuos áuis ferae consímilis est :
 Semél fugiundi sí datast occásio,
 Satis ést : numquam postillac possis préndere.
 Lo. Omnés profecto liberí lubéntius 10
 120 Sumus quám seruimus.
 HE. Nón uidere ita tú quidem.
 Lo. Si nón est quod dem, méne uis dem ipse ín pedes ?
 HE. Si déderis, erit extémplo mihi quod dém tibi.
 Lo. Auis mé ferae consímilem faciam, ut praédicas.
 HE. Ita ut dícis : nam si fáxis, te in caueám dabo. 15
 Sed sátis uerborumst ; cúra quae iussi átque abi.
 Ego íbo ad fratrem ad álios captiuós meos :
 Visám ne nocte hac quíppiam turbáuerint.
 Inde mé continuo récipiam rursúm domum.
 ER. Aegrést mi hunc facere quaéstum carcerárium 20
 130 Proptér sui gnati míseriam míserúm senem.
 Sed si úllo pacto ille húc conciliari potest,
 Vel cárnificinam hunc fácere possum pérpeti.
 HE. Quis hic lóquitur ?
 ER. Ego, qui tuó maerore máceror,
 Macésco, consenésco et tabescó míser. 25
 Ossa átque pellis súm, mísera macritúdine.

SENEX. LOLARIVS. PARASITVS. J. 2 de BJ, a Fl. 5 fores (-is) J.
 6 adsentur J. 7 fere B, ferre J. 9 post illam BJ, postillac Br.
 10 Omnis B. luberitius J. 11 Noui dere B(S), nouidere D(S).
 14 fere BJ. praedicisti B, predixisti J, praedicas Camer. 16 After this line BD(S)J have lines 34—39 of the last scene. 18 quipiam BD(S).
 19 sursum J. 20 michi J. 22 pacto ille pacto ille J. 23 carnificinam J. 26 miser amacritudine BD(S) (in B erasure after miser, in which i seems to have originally stood).

Neque úmquam quicquam mé iuvat quod edó domi :
Forís aliquantillum étiam quod gusto íd beat.

HE. Ergásile, salue.

ER. Dí te bene ament, Hégio.

HE. Ne flé.

ER. Egone illum nóñ fleam ? ego non défleam 30

140 Talem ádulescentem ?

HE. Sémper sensi filio

Meo té esse amicum et illum intellexí tibi.

ER. Tum dénique homines nóstra intellegimús bona,

Quom quae ín potestate hábuimus ea amísimus.

Ego, póstquam gnatus túos potitust hóstium, 35

Expértus quanti fúerit, nunc desidéro.

HE. Aliénus quom eius incómmodum tam aegré feras,

Quid mé patrem par fácerest, quoi illest únicus ?

ER. Aliénus ego ? aliénus ille ? ah, Hégio,

Numquam ístuc dixis néque animum induxís tuom : 40

150 Tibi ille únicus, mi etiam único magis únicus.

HE. Laudó, malum quom amíci tuom ducís malum.

Nunc hábe bonum animum.

ER. Éheu : huic illúd dolet,

Quia núnc remissus ést edundi exércitus.

HE. Nullúmne interea náctu's, qui possét tibi 45

Remíssum quem dixti ímperare exércitum ?

ER. Quid crédis ? postquam Philopolemus captúst tuos,

Quoi obtígerat, fugitant ómnes hanc prouínciam.

27 uiuat J. 29 Ergo sile B. díi J. 30 Egonne illú non fleam egone non B(S), egone illum nonfleam egone non D(S), Ego ne illum fleam ? ego me non J. 31 adolescentem J. 32—36 first half of line illegible in J. 34 Cumque B. hoc legible early in line in J. 35 ostium B. 36 fuerint B(S), fuerit D(S)J. 40 inducti J. 41 michi J. 42 dicis J. 43 amicum (corrected by second hand to animum) J. ER. Eheu ! HE. Huic illud dolet (the next three lines being continued to Hegio) BJ. ER. Eheu : huic . . . exercitus. HE. Nullumne etc. Br., eoi et Bent. on Ter. Eun. IV 4. 47, approved by Rl. 45 nactus BJ. 46 dixit BD(S).

47, 48 Quid credis ? Fugitant omnes hanc prouinciam Quod obtigerat postquam captus est Philopolemus tuus BJ.
(but in J the first word in each line is illegible).
Quid credis ? postquam Philopolemus captus tuos, Quoi obtigerat, fugitant omnes hanc prouinciam. Br.

- HE. Non pól mirandumst fúgitare hanc prouínciam.
 Multís et multigénerebus opus ést tibi 50
- 160 MILÍtibus : primundum ópus est Pistorénsibus :
 Eorúm sunt aliquot génera Pistorénsium :
 Opus ést Paniceis, ópus Placentínis quoque,
 Opus Túrdetanis, ópus est Ficedulénsibus :
 Iam máritumi omnes mílites opus súnt tibi. 55
- ER. Vt saepe summa ingénia in occultó latent :
 Hic quális imperátor nunc priuátus est.
- HE. Habe módo bonum animum, nam illum confidó domum
 In hís diebus mé reconciliássere.
 Nam eccum híc captiuom ádulescentem Áleum 60
- 170 Prognátum genere súmimo et summis dítiis :
 Hoc illum me mutáre confidó fore.
- ER. Ita dí deaeque fáxint.
 HE. Sed num quó foras
 Vocátus es ad cénam ?
 ER. Nusquam, quód sciam.
 Sed quíd tu id quaeris ?
 HE. Quía mist natalís dies : 65
 Proptérea te uocári ad me ad cenám uolo.
- ER. Facéte dictum.
 HE. Séd si pausillúm potes
 Conténtus esse.
 ER. Né perpausillúm modo :
 Nam istóe me adsiduo uíctu delectó domi.
- HE. Age síis roga.
 ER. Emptum, nísi qui meliorem ádferet 70
- 180 Quae mi átque amicis pláceat condició magis :

50 multi generibus J. 51 primum dum J. 53 Opus paniceisest BJ, O. e. p. Col. Min. 54 tardetanis J. 55 mili. tes J. 58 habe bonum J.
 59 reconciasse vel re J. 60 adhulescentem (adhulescentē D) alium BD, adolescentem alium per aliensem J. 61 diuitiis BJ. 62 fere corr. to fore J. 63 didaeque B, dii daequae J. nunquo corr. by second hand to nunquam J. 64 es Lamb., Bent. 65 quid diu id J. 66 uocari ad cte ad nam B (i.e. ad me ad cenam), uocari ad cenam J. 67 pauxillum BJ.
 68 Contemptus BD(S). perpauxillum BJ. 69 meas si duo (siduo D) BD(S). 70—72 continued to Ergas. in BJ, HE. Age síis roga. ER. Emp-tum Lind. 70 Aie B. eptum J. 71 michi J.

Quasi fúndum uendam, meis me addicam légibus.

HE. Profúndum uendis tú quidem, haud fundúm mihi.

Sed sí uenturu's, témpéri.

ER. Em, uel iam ótiumst.

HE. I módo, uenare léporem : nunc ictím tenes. 75

Nam méus scruposam uíctus conmetát uiam.

ER. Numquam ístoc uinces me, Hégio : ne póstules :

Cum cálceatis déntibus ueniám tamen.

HE. Aspér meus uictus sánest.

ER. Sentisne éssitas ?

HE. Terréstris cenast.

ER. Sús terrestris béstias. 80

190 HE. Multís holeribus.

ER. Cúrato aegrotós domi.

Numquíd uis ?

HE. Venias témpéri.

ER. Memorém mones.

HE. Ibo íntro atque íntus súbducam ratiúnculam,

Quantillum argenti mi ápud tarpessitám siet.

Ad frátrem, quo ire díxeram, mox íuero. 85

LORARIIL CAPTIVI (PHILOCRATES. TYNDARVS).

Lo. Si di ínmortales íd uoluere, uós hanc aerumnam éxe-qui,

Decét id pati animo aéquo : si id faciétis, leuior lábos erit.

Domi fuístis credo liberi :

Nunc séruitus si euénit, ei uos mórigerari mós bonust

Eámque † et erili império ingeniis uóstris lenem réddere.

200 Índigna digna habénda sunt, erus quacé facit. 6

73 Pro fundum J. 74 tempore B. The last half of the line illegible in J. 75 irim B. J. is illegible. 76 Non BJ. 77 heio B. hegio D(S), egio J. 79 Sentisne l essitas B. 81 oleribus J. 82 tempore J. (cf. 74). memores J. 84 michi J. trapetzitam B. trapaxetam J. 85 iero BJ.

LORARIIL PHILOCRATES CAPTIVI TYNDARVS B(S), LORARIIL PHILOCRATES. TINDARVS J. 1 Dii dii J. noluerunt J. erumpnam J. 2 aequo animo J. labor Bent. 4 sic euenit J. 5 nostris J.

CA. Oh, oh.

Lo. Éiulatione haud opus est : óculis multam iram éditis.
In ré mala animo sí bono utare, ádiuuat.

CA. At nós pudet quia cùm catenis súmus.

Lo. At pigeat póstea

Nóstrum erum, si uos éximat uínculis 10

Áut solutós sinat quós argento émerit.

CA. Quid a nóbis metuit ? scímus nos

Nóstrum officíum quod est, sí solutós sinat.

Lo. Át fugam fingitis : séntio quám rem agitis.

CA. Nos fúgiamus ? quo fúgiamus ? 15

Lo. In pátriam.

CA. Apage, haud nos íd deceat

Fugitíuos imitari.

Lo. Ímmo edepol, si erit occasio, haud dehórtor.

210 CA. Vnum exoráre uos sínite nos.

Lo. Quidnam id est ?

CA. Vt sine hisce árbitris átque uobis

Nóbis detís locum cónloquendi.

Lo. Fíat. abscédite hinc. nós concedámus huc. 20

Séd breuem orátionem íncipisse.

PH. Em, istúe mihi certum erat : cóncede huc.

Lo. Abíte ab istis.

TY. Obnoxii ambo

Vóbis sumus própter hanc rém, quom quae uólumus nos,

Cópiast átque ea fáicitis nos cónpotes. 25

PH. Sécede huc núciam, sí uidetúr, procul,

Ne árbitri dícta nostra árbitrarí queant

220 Neú permanét palam haec nóstra fallácia.

7 oh oh oh B, oho hoh J (in both at end of 6). multa oculis multa miraclitis (mira elitis or ditis D) BD(S), multa oculis multa mira litis (with c erased between mira and litis) J, oculis multam iram editis A. Kiene Jahrb. 1866, p. 482. 9 After pudet an erasure of 6 letters J. catenatis B, catenis D(S)J. adpigeat B. 11 At solutor J. sinatque quos BJ.
14 fugitis scio J. 15 patriam CA. haud nos decet J. 17—19 B gives unum . . . nos and ut . . . conloquendi to Phil. 18 Vt . . . arbitris part of preceding line in BJ. atque . . . loquendi (19) one l BJ. 19 conloquendi Br. 20 uos J. 21 p. of p. l. in J. incipisse B. 22 assigned to *Tynd. B*¹. hem J. mi J. 23 p. of p. l. in BJ. obnoxii J.
24 cumque BJ. 25 atque Müll. 26 nunc iam BJ, nunciam Br. ;
Bent. remarks 'Cretici versus.' 28 Neue BJ, Neu edd. rec.

Nám doli nón doli súnť, nisi astú colas,
Séd malum máximum, si id palam próuenit. 30

Nam sí erus tu mi es átque ego me tuom ésse seruom
adsímulo,

Tamen uíso opust, cautóst opus, ut hoc sóbrie sineque
árbitris

Adeúrate agátur, docte ét diligénter.

Tanta íncepta rés est: haud sómniculóse hoc Agúndumst.

TY. Ero út me uolés esse.

PH. Spéro.

35

TY. Nam tú nunc uidés pro tuó caro cápíte

230 Carum ófferre mé meum capúť uilitáti.

PH. †Scio.

TY. At scire memento, quando id quod uoles habebis.

Nám fere máxuma hunc párs morem hominés habent:

Quod sibi uolunt, dum id ímpetrant 40

Boní sunt: sed úbi iam penés sese habént,

Éx bonis péssumi et fraudulentíssumi

Fiunt. nunc út mihi té uolo esse autumo.

†Quod tibi suadeam, suadeam meo patri.

PH. Pól ego te, si aúdeam, meúm patrem nóminem: 45

Nám secundúm patrem tú's pater próxumus.

240 TY. Aúdio.

PH. Et proptérea saepiús te ut memíneris moneo:

Nón ego erus tibi, sed seruos súm. nunc obsecró te hoc unum:

Quóniam nobis di ímmortales ánimum ostenderúnt suom,

Úť qui erum me tibi fuisse atque ésse nunc conseruóm uelint: 50

29 ni BJ. 31 mihi es tu B(S), mihi estu D(S), J is illegible, tu mihi's Herm. asimulo J. 33 Accurate hoc agatur B, J ill. 34 inceptares est B(S). 37 me Bent., Herm. utilitati J. 38 TYX. (J ill.) Scio PHI. At B(S)J (the speakers changed by Guyet). 39 pars morem hunc BJ, hunc pars morem Br. 40 Quod sibi uolunt belongs to the preceding line in BJ. 40, 41 dum id . . . habent is one line in BJ. 41 sed id ubi BJ. 43 Sunt BJ, Fiunt Herm. autumo J. 44 suadeam sua deam B. 45 si te BJ. 48 tehoc J. 49 dii J. 50 erú (corr. from erunt by first hand) BD(S).

Quód antehac pro iure ímperitabam meó, nunc te oro pér
precem,

Pér fortunam incértam et per mei te érga bonitatém patris

Pér conseruitiúm commune, quód hostica euenít manu,
Né me secus honóre honestes, quám quom seruibás mihi,
Átque ut qui fuerís et qui nunc síis meminisse ut mémineris.

TY. Scío quidem me té esse nunc et té esse me. 56

PH. Εἰν istuc sí potes

260 Mémoriter meminísse, inest spes nóbis in hac astútia.

SENEX (HEGIO). EIDEM (PHILOCRATES. TYNDARVS).

HE. Iam égo reuortar íntro, sí ex his quae uolo exquisúero.
Vbi sunt isti, quós ante aedis iússi huc produci foras?

PH. Édepol tibi ne in quaéstione essémus cautum intéllego:
Íta uinculis custódiisque circummoenítí sumus.

HE. Quí cauet ne decípiatur, uix cauet, quom etiám cauet. 5
Étiam quom cauísse ratus est, saepe is cautor cáptus est.
Án uero non iústa causast út uos seruem sédulo,
Quós tam grandi sím mercatus praésentí pecúnia?

260 PH. Néque pol tibi nos, quía nos seruas, aéquomst uitio uórtere, Néque te nobis, sí abeamus hinc, sí fuat occasio. 10

HE. Vt uos hic, itidem illic apud uos méus seruatur filius.

PH. Cáptus est?

HE. Ita.

PH. Nón igitur nos sóli ignaui fúimus.

HE. Sécede huc: nam súnt quae ex te sólo scitari uolo, Quárum rerum té falsilocum míhi esse nolo.

PH. Nón ero,

53 Perque BJ, Per Lind., Both. 54 seruiebas BJ. 56 Hem J.
potest B, potes D(S)J. 57 menisse J.

SENEX HEGIO PHILOCR' EIDEM TYNDARVS B, EGIO SENEX PHILOCRATES. ET IDEM TINDARVS J. 1 exquisi uero J. 2 produci (3) Foras BD(S)J. 3 ne quaestione (corr. to ne in quaestione) B, nequaestione J. 4 uinculis B. circum moeniti J. 5 cauet me decipiatur J. 8 presentia J. 9 equom stultio uertere J. 11 apud J. 12 ignari (ignauí in margin) B, igitari J. 13 solio J.

Quód sciam : si quíd nescibo, id néscium tradám tibi. 15

TY. Núnc senex est ín tonstrina : núnc iam cultros ádtinet.

Ne íd quidem inuolúcri inícere uóluit, uestem ut ne ínquinet.

Séd utrum strictimne ádtonsurum dícam esse an per pétinem

Néscio : uerúm si frugist, úsque admutilabít probe.

270 HE. Quíd tu ? seruosne ésse an liber máuelis, memorá mihi. 20

PH. Próximum quod sít bono quodque á malo longíssume,

Íd uolo : quamquám non multum fuit molesta séruitus

Néc mihi secus erát quam si essem fámlíaris fílius.

TY. Eúgepae : Thalém talento nón emam Milésium :

Nam ad sapientiam húius ille nímius nugatór fuit. 25

Vt facete orátionem ad séruitutem cóntulit.

HE. Quó de genere gnátust illic Phílocrates ?

PH. Polyplúsio,

Quód genus illist únun pollens átque honoratíssimum.

HE. Quíd ípsus hic ? quo honórest illic ?

PH. Súmmo atque ab summís uiris.

280 HE. Tum ígitur ei quom in illis tanta grátíast, ut praédicas, Quíd diuitiae, súnene opimae ?

PH. Vnde éxcoquat sebúm senex. 31

HE. Quíd pater ? uiuítne ?

PH. Viuom, quom ín de abimus, líquimus :

Núnc uiuatne néene, id Orcum scire oportet scilicet.

TY. Sálua res est : phílosophatur quóque iam, non mendáx modost.

HE. Quíd erat ei nomén ?

PH. Thensaurochrysonicochrysidés. 35

15 id quod nesciui J. 16 Eg' Nunc etc. J. intostrina B(S), bitostrina D(S). 17 inuolucere BJ, inuoluceri Lind. 19 PH. Nescio J. admutila labit B, admutalabit D(S). 21 cont. to He. in J. bonum J. 22 PH. Id nolo J. 23 esse J. 24 Eg' Euge potalem J (over which vel ob), TY. Euge petale talento B. 25 ille, Camer. 26 facere J. 27 natus BJ. Polyphrusio J. 28 illic est BJ, illi Both. 29 Quod J. 30 Aleis B, aleis J, illis Br. 31 suntne optume B, sunt ne optumae J, opimae Lamb., Bent. seuum J. 32 Eidem (?) J. abiiimus BJ, abimus Both. 33 uiuatne Both. idortum J. 34 Eg' Salua J. 35 Quod (continued to the last speaker) J. Thensauro chrysonico chrusides B, Thensauro crysonico crisides J.

HE. Videlicet propter diuitias inditum id nomén quasíst ?

PH. Immo edepol propter auaritiam ipsíus atque audáciam.
Nam ille quidem Theodóromedes fúit germano nómine.

HE. Quid tu ais ? tenáxne pater est éius ?

PH. Immo edepol pértinax :

290 Quín etiam ut magis nóscas, genio síuo ubi quando sácrificat, 40

Ád rem diuinám quibus est opus Sámiis uasis útitur,
Né ipse genius súbrupiat : proinde áliis ut credát uide.

HE. Séquere hac me igitur. eádem ego ex hoc quae uolo exquisiúero.

Philocrates, hic fécit hominem frúgi ut facere opórtuit.
Nám ego ex hoc quo género gnatus síis scio : hic fassúst
mihi. 45

Haéc tu eadem si cónferi uís, tua ex re féceris, Quae tamen scito scíre me ex hoc.

Ty. Fécit officium híc suom,

Quóm tibist conféssus uerum, quámquam uolui sédulo

Meám nobilitatem ócultare et génus et diuitiás meas,

300 Hégio : nunc quándo patriam et líbertatem pérdidi, 50

Nón ego istunc me pótius quam te métuere aequom cénseo.

Vís hostilis cum ístoc fecit meás opes aequábilis.

Mémini quom dicto haúd audebat, fácto nunc laedát licet.

Séd uiden ? fortuna humana fíngit artatque út lubet.

Mé qui liber fúeram seruom fécit, e summo ínfumum : 55

Qui ímperare insuéram, nunc altérius imperio óbsequor.

Ét quidem si proinde ut ipse fui ímperator fámliae

Hábeam dominum, nón uerear ne iniúste aut graúter mi ímperet.

Hégio, hoc te mónitum, nisi forte ípse non uís, uólueram.

310 HE. Lóquere audacter.

Ty. Tam égo fui ante líber quam gnátús tuos. 60

36, 37 continued to Phil. in J. 37 ipsius audaciam J. 38 illic B, illi J, ille Gepp. theodoro medes J. 39 eius est J. 41 vasis J.
42 subripiat B, surripiat J. alius et J. 43 exquaesiuero B.
45 sis . . scio J. 46 ex Br. 47 scio BD(S)J, scito Cod. Min.
48 quamquam Lamb., Bent. 50 E.gio; Nunc patriam J. 54 fur-tuna J. 55 infimum BJ. 59 Heio B.

Tám mihi quam illi libertatem hostilis eripuit manus.
Tám ille apud nos seruit, quam ego núnc hic apud te seruio.

Est profecto deus, qui quae nos gerimus auditque et uidet.
Is, uti tu me hic habueris, proinde illum illic curauerit.
Bene merenti bene profuerit, male merenti par erit. 65
Quam tu filium tuum, tam pater me meus desiderat.

HE. Memini ego istuc. sed faterin eadem quae hic fassus est mihi ?

TY. Ego patri meo esse fateor summas diuitias domi
Meque summo genere gnatum. sed te obtestor, Hégio,
320 Né tuom animum auariorum faxint diuitiae meae, 70
Né patri, tam etsi unicus sum, esse e re uideatur magis,
Mé saturum seruire apud te sumptu et uestitu tuo Potius quam illi, ubi minime honestum est, mendicantem uiuere.

HE. [Ego uirtute deum et maiorum nostrum diues sum satis.]
Non ego omnino lucrum omne esse utile homini existumo. 75

Scio ego, multos iam lucrum lutulentos homines reddidit :
Est etiam ubi profecto damnum praestet facere quam lucrum.

Ódi ego aurum : multa multis saepe suasit perperam.
Nunc hoc animum aduerte, ut ea quae sentio pariter scias.
330 Filius meus illic apud uos seruit captus Alide : 80
Eum si reddis mihi, praeterea unum nummum ne duis :
Et te et hunc amittam hinc : alio pacto abire non potes.

TY. Optimum atque aequissimum oras optimumque hominum es homo.

Sed is priuatam seruitutem seruit illi an publicam ?

HE. Priuatam medici Menarchi.

PH. Pol hic quidem huius est cliens : 85

62 apud J. 63 quique nos BJ. 66 parer J. 67 istoc BDJ.
69 obtestor J. 70 animum tuum J. 71 tam et si J. decere BJ, esse e re Bent. (who first proposed e re esse, and then altered the order), Müll.
72 apud J. 73 illi uel hic J. honestu est B. 74 uirtutem J.
75 omnem J. 76 lutulentos J. 77 dampnum J. 79 aduertite B.
83 homo es B. 84 seruitutem . . . publicam after erasure (first hand?) J.
85 TY. Pol B, Eg. Pol J, PH. Pol Lind. clienius J.

Tam hoc quidem tibi in procliui, quam imber est, quando pluit.

HE. Fac is homo ut redimatur.

TY. Faciam, sed te id oro, Hegio.

HE. Quid uis? dum ab re ne quid ores, faciam.

TY. Ausculta, tum scies.

Ego me amitti, donecum ille huc redierit, non postulo:

340 Verum, te quaeso, aestumatum hunc mihi des, quem mittam ad patrem, 90

Vt is homo redimatur illi.

HE. Immo alium potius misero

Hinc, ubi erunt indutiae, illuc, tuum qui conueniat patrem,
Qui tua quae tu iusseris mandata ita ut uelis perferat.

TY. At nihil est ignotum ad illum mittere: operam luseris.

Hunc mitte, hic transactum reddet omne, si illuc uene-
rit. 95

Nec quemquam fideliozem neque quoi plus credat potes
Mittere ad eum, nec qui magis sit seruos ex sententia,
Neque adeo quoi tuum concedat filium hodie audacius.
Ne uereare: meo periculo huius ego experiar fidem 99

350 Fretus ingenio eius, quod me esse scit sese erga beneuolum.

HE. Mittam equidem istunc aestumatum tua fide, si uis.

TY. Volo:

Quam citissimum potest, tam hoc cedere ad factum uolo.

HE. Numquam causast quin, si ille huc non redeat, uiginti minas Mihi des pro illo?

TY. Optume immo.

HE. Soluite istum nunciam,

Atque utrumque.

TY. Di tibi omnes omnia optata offerant, 105

86 inprocliu B, inprodiui? J. 87 oro, O Hegio Bent. 88 scias B.
89 donec cum BJ, donecum Cod. Min. 90 queso ut aestumatum B, quaeso ut aestimatum J, quaeso aestumatum Lind., Fl. 91 illic EG. initio J.
92 conuenit BI(S)J, conueniat Cod. Min. 94 oper am (with an erasure of 2 letters) J. 95 omne transactum reddet BJ, t.r.o Both. 98 cui suum J.
99 periculo B, perido (corr. to -clo) J. uice fidem B, fidem nel uicem J.
100 erga se B, erga sese J, sese erga Bent. beniuolum BJ. 101 istum BJ, istunc Cumer., Bent. aestymatum B. suus J. 102 credere J.
104 optima B. nunc iam BJ, nunciam Br. 105 dii J. offerant Fl.

Quóm me tanto honóre honestas quómque ex uinclis éximis.
Hóc quidem haud moléstumst, iam quod cóllus collarí caret.

- HE. Quód bonis benefit beneficium, grátia ea grauidást bonis.
Núnc tu illum si illo és missurus, díce, monstra, praécipe, 360 Quae ad patrem uis núntiari. uín uocem huc ad té?
Ty. Voca. 110

- HE. Quae rés bene uortat míhi meoque filio
Vobisque : uolt te nóuos erus operám dare
Tuo uéteri domino, quód is uelit, fidéliter.
Nam ego te aéstumatum huíc dedi uigintí minis :
Hic autem te ait míttre hinc uelle ad patrem, 5
Meum ut illic redimat filium, mutátio
Intér me atque illum ut nóstris fiat fíliis.
PH. Vtróque uorsum réctumst ingeníum meum,
Ad te átque ad illum : pró rota me utí licet.
370 Vel ego húc uel illuc uórtar, quo imperábitis. 10
HE. Tuté tibi tuopte ingénio prodes plúrumum,
Quom séruitutem íta fers ut ferrí decet.
Sequere : ém tibi hominem.
Ty. Grátiam habeó tibi,
Quom cópiam istam mi ét potestatém facis,
Vt ego ad parentis hunc remittam núntium, 15
Qui mé quid rerum hic ágitem et quid fierí uelim,
Patri meo ordine ómnem rem illuc pérferat.
Nunc íta conuenit inté me atque hunc, Týndare,
Vt te aéstumatum in Álidem mittam ad patrem :
380 Si nó n rebitas húc, ut uigintí minas 20
Dem pró te.

106 uinclis J. 107 collaria B, collararia (corr. by second hand to collaria) J. 108 continued to Tynd. in J. bene sit J. 109 Nunc tu illum (corr. to illum) B(S), Nunc tu illum D(S), Eg. Nunc tu illum J. dice demonstra BJ, dice monstra Camer.

Heading of a new Scene in BJ: HEGIO (Egio J) SENEX. PHILOCRADES ADOLESCENS. TYNDARVS (Tindarus J) SERVVS. 9 atque illum BJ. 11 tibi ea tuopte BD(S)J, tibi tuopte Fl. prode J. 13 hem J. 14 mihi B, michi J. 15 adparentes meos B(S), ad parentes D(S)J. 17 rem is added by the first hand in the margin in B. 19 alidē B(S), alidem D(S)J.

PH. Recte cónuenisse sentio.

Nam páter expectat aút me aut aliquem míntium,
Qui hinc ad se ueniat.

TY. Érgo animum aduortás uolo,
Quae míntiare hinc té uolo in patriam ad patrem.

PH. Phílocrates, ut adhúe locorum féci, faciam sédulo, 25
Út potissumúm quod in rem récte conducát tuam
Íd petam sempér sequarque córde et animo ac uíribus.

TY. Fácis ita ut te fácere oportet : nunc animum aduortás uolo.
Ómnium primúm salutem dícto matri ét patri
390 Ét cognatis ét si quem alium béneuolementem uíderis : 30
Me híc ualere et séruitutem séruire huic homini óptumo,
Quí me honore honéstiorem sémper fecit ét facit.

PH. Ístuc ne praecipias, facile mémoria memini tamen.

TY. Nam équidem nisi quod cústodem habeo líberum me esse árbitor.
Dícto patri, quo pacto míhi cum hoc conuénierit 35
De húius filió.

PH. Quae memini, móra merast monérier.

TY. Út eum redimat ét remittat nóstrum huc amborúm uicem

PH. Méminero.

HE. At quam primúm : istuc in rem utriquest máxume.

PH. Nón tuom tu mágis uidere quam ille suom gnatúm cupit.

400 HE. Méus míhi, suos quóique carus.

PH. Núm quid aliud uís patri 40

Núntiari ?

TY. [Me híc ualere et tute audacter dícto,
Tyndare, inter] Nós fuisse ingénio haud discordábili,
Néque te conmeruisse culpam néque te aduorsatúm míhi,

25 philocrates PH. ut B. J is illegible here. 27 Id petam id persequarque B, in J nothing before idpersequarque is legible; Id petam semper sequarque Br. atque auribus BD(S), atque uiribus J.
30 et quem J. 33 precias B, precipias B²D(S). memini
TI. tamen J. 34 quidem BJ, equidem Lind. 36 mora me est J.
38 primum poteris istuc BJ, primum istuc Bent., Lind. 40—46 are six lines, instead of seven in BJ, the last words in J being nuntiari, fuisse, culpam, morem, te, sciet, respectively. 40 Nunquid J. 43 me aduorsatum tibi BJ, te aduorsatum míhi Br.

- Béneque ero gessísse morem in tántis aerumnís tamen,
 Néque me[d] unquam déservísse té neque factis néque fide Rébus in dubiís, egenis. haéc pater quandó sciet, 46
 Týndare, ut fuerís animatus érga suom gnatum átque se,
 Númquam erit tam auárus, quin te grátiis mittát manu.
 Ét mea opera, si hinc rebito, fáciám ut faciat fácilius :
 410 Nám tua opera et cómitate et uírtute et sapiéntia 50
 Fécesti ut redíre liceat ad parentis dénuo,
 Quóm apud hunc conféssus es et génus et diuitiás meas :
 Quó pacto emisísti e uinclis túom erum tua sapiéntia.
- PII. Féci ego ita ut commémoras, et te méminisse id grátumst
 mihi. 54
- Sed* merito tibi ea éuenerunt á me. nam nunc, Philocrates,
 Sí ego item memorém quae me erga múlta fecísti bene,
 Nóx diem adimat : nám si seruos mi ésses, nihilo sétius
 Óbsequiosus míhi fuísti sémper.
- HE. Di uostrám fidem,
 Hóminum ingenium líberale ! ut lícrumas excutiúnt mihi.
- 420 Vídeas corde amáre inter se: quántis suom erum laúdibus
 Séruos conlaudáuit. 61
- TY. Edepol ístic me haud centénsuam
 Pártem laudat, quam ípse meritust út laudetur laúdibus.
- HE. Érgo quom optumé fecísti, núnc adest occásio Bénefacta cumuláre, ut erga hunc rém geras fidéliter.
- PII. Mágis non factum póssum uelle quam ópera experiar pérsequi: 65
- Íd ut scias, Iouém supremum téstem laudo, Hégio,

44 erumpnis J. 45 med B., me J. 48 gratiis emittat BD(S), gratis emittat J., gratiis mittat Lind., Gepp. 49 ? s mea J. 53 uinclis BJ, uinclis Lamb., Bent. 54 Fecisti J. ista BJ, ita Fl. 55 Sed Br. 57 seruus meus esses BJ, seruos mi esses Bent., Lind. 58 Mihi (michi J.) obsequiosus semper fuisti BJ, Obs. m. f. s. Both. dii J. 59 hominum ingenium belongs to the preceding line in BJ; and similarly the first two words in the next line. 60 quantis laudibus suum erum seruus B(S), quantis laudauit suum herum seruus J., quantis suom erum laudibus Bent., Br. 61 Collaudauit PHIL. pol BJ. Edepol Br. centessimam B(S), centessimam J. 62 Partem belongs to the preceding line in B(S)J. 63 optune J. 66 suppremmum B. testem do Hegio B., testem do Egio J., testem laudo Egio Nonius, testem laudo O Hegio Bent.

Me infidelem nōn futurum Philocrati.

III. Probus es homo.

PII. Nēc me secus umquam eī facturum quēquam quam memēt mihi.

TY. Ístaec dicta te expēdire et óperis et factis uolo,

430 Ét quo minus dixi quam uolui dé te, animum aduertās
uolo 70

Átque horum uerbórum causa caue tu mi iratús fuas.

Séd, te quaeso, cógitato hinc meá fide mitti domum

Te aéstumatum et meám esse uitam hic pró te positam pignori,

Né tu me ignorés, quom extemplo meo é conspectu
abscesseris,

Quóm me seruom in séruitute pró te hic reliqueris, 75

Túque te pro libero esse dúcas, pignus déseras,

Néque des operam pró me ut huius réducem facias filium.

Scito te hinc minis uiginti aéstumatum mittier.

Fác fidelis sis fideli, caue fidem fluxím geras.

440 Nám pater, scio, faciet quae illum fácere oportet ómnia. 80
Sérua tibi in perpétuom amicum me átque hunc inuentum ínueni.

Haec per dexterám tuam te dextera retinéns manu

Óbsecro, infidélior mi né fuas quam ego súm tibi.

Tú hoc age: tu mihi erus nunc es, tú patronus, tú pater:

Tibi commendo spēs opesque meás.

PII. Mandauistí satis. 85

Sátin habes, mandáta quae sunt, fácta si referó?

TY. Satis.

PII. Ét tua et tua húc ornatus réueniam ex senténtia.

Númquid aliud?

TY. Út quam primūm póssis redeas.

PII. Rēs monet.

68 facturum quam J. 69 experire *B*¹, experiri *B*²*J.*, expēdire Fl.
opera J. 70 quo B, quod J. 71 horum BD(S). cauto mihi B, cauto michi J., caue tu Bent., Both. 72 Sete J. hinc te mea BJ, hinc mea Camer., Bent. 76 dúcas om. J. desideras BD(S)J.
deseras [*written in margin by B*²(S)], Ed. Prin., Camer. 77 Atque des J. 81 Seruo (corr. by sec. hand to Serua) J. 82 tua te J.
83 mihi me fuas J. 87 Et tua húc ornatus reueneniam J.

- HE. Séquere me, uíaticum ut dem á trapezitá tibi:
 450 Eádem opera a praetóre sumam sýngraphum.
 TY. Quem sýngraphum? 90
 HE. Quem híc ferat secum ád legionem, hinc íre huic ut liceát domum.
 Tu íntro abi.
 TY. Bene ámbulato.
 PH. Béne uale.
 HE. Edepol rém meam
 Cónstabiliuí, quom íllos emi dé praeda a quaestóribus.
 Éxpediui ex séruitute filium, si dís placet.
 Át etiam dubitáui hosce homines émerem an non emerém
 diu. 95
 Séruate istum súltis intus, séruí, ne quoquám pedem
 Écferat sine cústodela. íam ego apparebó domi,
 Ad fratrem modo † captiuos alios inuiso meos.
 Eádem percontábor, ecqui hunc ádulescentem nóuerit.
 460 Séquere tu: te ut ámittam, ei rei prínum praeuortí
 uolo. 100

ACTVS II.

ERGASILVS.

Miser homost, qui ipsús sibi quod edit quaérit et id aegre ínuenit.
 Séd illest miseriór, qui et aegre quaérit et nihil ínuenit.
 Ílle miserrumus ést, qui, quom esse cúpidust, quod edit nón habet.
 Nam hércle ego huic dié, si liceat, óculos ecfodiám lubens:

89 trapazeta J. 90 sumas singraphum J. 93 illum J.
 94 diis J. 95 hos BJ, hosce E. Becker. 96 stultis B. 97 efferat J.
 custode ego BJ, custodela Both., iam Camer. 99 percunctabor J.
 ecquis B., ecquis adolescentem J., ecqui Fl. 100 Sequere tute ut J.
B has the letters DV (Diverbium) superscribed. PARASITVS J. 1 ipse
BJ, ipsus Fl. 3 cupit BJ, cupidust Fl. in Jahrb. 1870, p. 431, cupiat Bent. edat J. 4 diei BD(S)J, die Fl. effodiam J.

- Íta malignitáte oneravit ómnis mortalís mihi. 5
 Néque ieiuniósiozem néc magis ecfertúm fame
 Vídi nec quoi mínus procedat quídquid facere occéperit :
 Íta uenter guttúrque resident ésurialis férias.
 Ílicet parasíticæ arti máxumam malám cruce[m] :
 470 Íta iuuentus iám ridiculos ínopes ab se ségregat. 10
 Níl morantur iam Lacones úni subsellí uiros,
 Plágitatidas, quíbus sunt uerba sine penu et pecúnia.
 Eós requirunt, quí, lubenter quom éderint, reddánt domi.
 Ípsi obsonant, quæ parasitorum ánte erat prouincia.
 Ípsi de foró tam aperto cápite ad lenonés eunt, 15
 Quam ín tribu apérto capite sóntis condemnánt reos,
 Néque ridiculos iam terunci faciunt. sese omnés amant.
 Nám ego ut dudum hinc ábii, accessi ad ádulescentis ín foro :
 ‘Sáluete’ inquam : ‘quo ímus una ad prándium?’ atque illi tacent. 19
- 480 ‘Quís agit hoc, aut quís profitetur?’ inquam : quasi mutí silent,
 Néque me rident. ‘úbi cenamus?’ inquam atque illi—ábnuont.
 Dico unum ridiculum dictum dé dictis melióribus,
 Quíbus solebam ménstrualis épulas ante adipísceier :
 Némó ridet. sciui extemplo rém de conpéctó geri.
 Né canem quidem ínritatam uóluit quisquam imitárier, 25
 Sáltém, si non árriderent, déntis ut restríngerent.
 Ábeo ab illis, póstquam uideo mé sic ludificárier.
 Pérgo ad alios, uénio ad alios, deínde ad alios : úna res.
 Ómnes de conpécto rem agunt, quási ín Velabro oleárii.
- 490 [Nunc redeo inde, quoniam me ibi uideo ludificarier.] 30
 Ítem alii parasíti frustra obámbulabant ín foro.
 Núnc barbarica lége certumst iús meum omne pérsequi.

5 honerauerit J. 6 Nequæ J. neque magis effractum J.
 7 qui BD(S), cui J. ocepit J. 8 Itaque BJ, Ita Bent., Both.
 9 Licet J. 10 inopesque ab sese segregat BJ, inopesque ab se segregat Camer., Bent. 11 Nihil BJ. 13 comederint B., comederunt D(S), cum ederint J. 16 contempnant B., condemnant J. 17 tam terrunci B³D(S), iam terrunci B³(S), tam terrunci corr. fr. terrerunci J. 18 ego Seuffert.
 addolescentes J. 19 una inquam ad BD(S)J, una ad Bent., Both.
 20 profiteor (corrected above the line to -etur) inquam? J. 24 compacto BJ, conpécto Charisius. 25 Nei J. 29 compacto BJ. de conpécto Fl. 30 inde inde cum J. (the line bracketed by Fl.)

Quí concilium iniére, quo nos uictu et uita próhibeant,
 Ís diem dicam, ínrogabo múltam, ut mihi cenás decem
 Meo árbitratu dént, quom cara annóna sit. sic égero. 35
 Núnc ibo ad portum línc. est illic mi úna spes cenática :
 Si éa decolabit, redibo huc ád senem ad cenam ásperam.

HEGIO. (ARISTOPHONTES.)

Quid est suáuius quam bene rém gerere
 Bonó publicó, sicut égo feci herí, quom
 500 Emi hósce homines. ubi quísque uident
 Eúnt obuiám gratulánturque eám rem.
 Itá me miserúm restitádo, retinédo 5
 Lassúm reddidérunt :
 Vix éx gratuládo misér iam eminébam.
 Tandem ábii ad praetórem. ibí uix requiéui,
 Rogó syngraphúm :
 Datúr mi ilicó :
 Dedí Tyndaró.
 Ille ábiit domúm :
 Inde ilico praeuórtor
 Domúm, postquam id áctumst.
 510 Eo protinus ad fratrem, †inde abii mei ubi sunt alii captiui :
 Rogo Philocratem ex Alide ecquis omnium 16
 Nouerit ; tandem hic exclamat, eum sibi esse sodalem :
 Dico esse eum apud me ; hic extemplo orat obsecratque, Eum sibi ut liceat uidere ; iussi ilico hunc exsolui. Nunc tu sequere me,
 Vt quod me orauisti impetres, eum hominem ut conuenias. 20

33 quos J. prohibeant corr. to -ebant J. 34 His BJ, Is FL
 mi J. 37 decollabit BJ.

1—14 make eight lines in BJ, ending with the words heri, obuiam, restit- ando, reddiderunt, eminébam, requiéui, domum, actumst respectively.
 3 enim hosce J. 5 retinendoque BJ, retinendo FL. 8 habii J. ubi J.
 11 ilico detyndaro J. 13 reuórtor B. 16 phylocratem et alide J.
 17 Nouerit hic (si aristophon written over the line) J. 18 eum esse J.

TYNDARVS.

Nunc illud est, quom mé fuisse quam ésse nimio máuelim :
 Nunc spés opes auxiliaque a me ségregant spernúntque se.
 Hic illest dies, quom núlla uitae meáe salus sperábilist :
 Neque aúxilium mi est néque adeo spes, quae mi hunc aspellát metum :

- 520 [Nec mendaciis subdolis mihi usquam mantellumst meis.] 5
 Nec sýcophantiis nec fucis úllum mantellum ób uiamst.
 Neque déprecatió perfidiis meis nec malefactis fugast.
 Nec cónfidentiae úsquam hospitiumst néc deuorticulúm dolis.
 Opérta quae fuére aperta súnť, patent praestígiae.
 †Omnis res palamst : neque de hac re negotiumst, 10
 Quín male occidam óppetamque péstem eri uicem et meam.
 Pérdidit me Aristophontes híc, qui intro uenít modo :
 Ís me nouit, ís sodalis Philocrati et cognátus est.
 Neque íam Salus seruáre, si uolt, mé potest : nec cópiast
 530 Nisi si áliquam corde máchinor astútiam. 15
 Quám, malum ? quid máchiner ? quid cómminiscar ? Máxumas †Nugas, ineptias incipisso : haereo.

HEGIO. TYNDARVS. ARISTOPHONTES.

HE. Quo illúm nunc hominem próripuisse fóras se dicam ex aedibus ?

TY. Núnc enim uero ego óccidi : eunt ad te hóstes, Tyndare !
Ei mihi !

Quíd loquar ? quid fábulabor ? quid negabo aut quíd fatebor ?

Res ómnis in incertó sitast : quid rébus confidám meis ?

Vtinám te di prius pérderent, quam pérúisti e patriá tua, 5

1 nemo J. 2 spernúntque me BJ. 4 exilium exitio est BJ.
 auxilium mi est Bent. ad Ter. Haut. II 3. 20. hunc mihi B.
 6 Ne B. sicophantiis J. 7 Neque precatio J. 8 diuert-iculum B(S)J. 9 Opera J. 11 meamque BJ, et meam Bent.
 12 Aristophontis B, astriphontes J. qui uenit modo intro BJ, qui intro uenit modo Camer. 16 Qua B. cominiscar J. 17 incipisse B, inceperisse J.

2 Ei mihi Lind. 3 fatebor mihi BJ, fatebor Lind. 5 dii J. peristi BJ.

Aristophontes, qui ex parata re imparatam omnem facis.
Occisast haec res, nisi reperio atrocem mi aliquam astutiam.

540 HE. Sequere: em tibi hominem, adi atque adloquere.

TY. Quis homost me hominum miserior?

AR. Quid istuc est, quod meos te dicam fugitare oculos,
Tyndare, 9

Proque ignoto me aspernari, quasi me numquam noveris?
Equidem tam sum servos quam tu, etsi ego domi liber fui,
Tu usque a puero servitutem servuisti in Alide.

HE. Edepol minime miror, si te fugitat aut oculos tuos

Aut si te odit, qui istum appelles Tyndarum pro Philocrate.

TY. Hegio, hic homo rabiosus habitus est in Alide: 15

Nec tu quod istuc fabuletur auris inmittas tuas.

Nam istuc hastis insectatus est domi matrem et patrem,

550 Et illic isti qui sputatur morbus interdum uenit.

Proin tu ab istoc procul recedas.

HE. Vltro istum a me.

AR. Ain, uerbero,

Me rabiosum atque insectatum esse hastis meum memoras patrem? 20

Et eum morbum mi esse, ut qui me opus sit insputarier?

HE. Nec uerere, multos iste morbus homines macerat,

Quibus insputari saluti fuit atque is profuit.

AR. Quid, tu autem etiam huic credis?

HE. Quid ego credam huic?

AR. Insanum esse me.

TY. Viden tu hunc, quam inimico uultu intuitur? concedi optimumst, 25

Hegio: fit quod ego dixi: gliscit rabies: caue tibi.

HE. Credidi esse insanum extemplo, ubi te appellauit Tyndarum.

560 TY. Quin suum ipse interdum ignorat nomen neque scit quis siet.

6 imperatam B. 8 hem J. 11 sem seruus J. et sego J.
12 usquam J. 13 is si te J. 19 abstoc J. 23 his BJ, is Lind. 24 Quid credam J. 25 intnetur BJ, intuitur Bent, Both. optimum est J. 26 quod tibi ego dixi BJ, quod ego dixi Fl.
28 Quia B, J ill. (cf. Par. who says 'ex Cod. Angl. Quid'). scit quid siet J.

HE. Át etiam te suóm sodalem esse aibat.

TY. Haud uidi magis :

Ét quidem Alcmaeo átque Orestes ét Lycurgus póstea 30
Vna opera mihi súnt sodales qua íste.

AR. At etiam, fúrcifer,
Mále loqui mi audés ? non ego te nóui ?

HE. Pol planum íd quidemst,
Nón nouisse, qui ístum appelles Týndarum pro Philocrate.
Quém uides, eum ignóras : illum nóminas, quem nón uides.

AR. Ímmo iste eum sese aít qui non est, ésse et qui ueróst negat. 35

TY. Tu énim repertu's, Philocratem qui súperes ueriuérbio.

AR. Pól, ego ut rem uideó, tu inuentu's, uéra uanítudine 570 Quí conuincas. séd quaeso hercle agedum áspice ad me.

TY. Em.

AR. Díc modo,
Té negas tu Týndarum esse ?

TY. Négo inquam.

AR. Tun te Philocratem
Ésse ais ?

TY. Ego inquam.

AR. Túne huic credis ?

HE. Plús quidem quam tibi aút mihi :
Nam ille quidem, quem tú esse hunc memoras, hódie hinc abiit Álidem 41

Ád patrem huius.

AR. Quém patrem, qui séruos est ?

TY. Et tú quidem
Séruos es, libér fuisti : et égo me confidó fore,
Si huius huc recónciliasso in libertatem filium. 44

AR. Quíd ais, fúrcifer ? tun memoras gnátum te esse liberum ?

29 aiebat J. audiui di magis J. 30 Alcmeus BJ, Alcmaeo Lachmann on Lucr. p. 162. aque orestes J. ligurgus BJ. 32 Male mihi loqui mihi B, Male loqui michi J. phanum J. quid est J.
33 qui appellas J. 35 sese aut qui J. 36 repertus BJ. ueri uerbio J. 37 inuentus BJ. 38 adme dic modo J. 39 tu Uss

AR. tute J. 41 quem tu hunc memoras esse B, quem tu memoras esse J, quem tu esse hunc memoras Fl. 43 Seruus et liber BJ, es Fl. 45 tun te gnatum memoras liberum BJ, tun memoras gnatum te esse liberum Fl.

TY. Nón equidem me Líberum, sed Phílocratem esse aíó.

AR. Quid est ?

Út scelestus, Héegio, nunc íste te ludós facit.

580 Nám is est seruos ípse neque praetér se unquam ei seruós fuit.

TY. Quía tute ipse egés in patria néc tibi qui uiuás domist,
Ómnis inueníri similis tíbi uis : non mirúm facis : 50
Ést miserorum, ut máleuolentes sínt atque inuideánt bonis.

AR. Héegio, uide síis ne quid tu huic témere insistas crédere :
Átque ut perspició profecto iám aliquid pugnaé dedit :
Fílium tuom quód redimere se aít, id ne utiquam míhi placet. 54

TY. Scío te id nolle fieri : efciam tamen ego id, si di ádiuuant.
Íllum restituaui huíc, hic autem in Álidem me meó patri :
Própterea ad patrem hinc amisi Týndarum.

AR. Quin túte is es :

590 Néque praeter te in Álide ullus séruos istoc nóminest.

TY. Périgin seruom me éxprobrare esse, íd quod ui hostili óbtigit ?

AR. Énim iam nequeo cóntineri.

TY. Heus, aúdin quid ait ? quín fugis ?

Iám illic hic nos ínsectabit lápidibus, nisi illúnc iubes 61
Cónprehendi.

AR. Crúciór.

TY. Ardent óculi : fune opust, Héegio :

Víden tu illi maculári corpus tótum maculis húridis ?

Átra bilis ágitat hominem.

AR. At pól te, si hic sapiát senex,

Píx atra ágitet ápuđ carnificem tuóque capiti inhúceat.

TY. Iám deliraménta loquitur, láruae stimulánt uirum. 66

HE. Quid ais ? quid si hunc cónprehendi iússerim ?

47 te Lind. 48 se unquam seruos B, eum quisquam ei seruus J.
50 inuenire BJ, inueniri Col. Min. 51 indeant B. 53 Atque per- spicio J. aedidit B(S), edidit J, dedit Sciopp. 54 id ne inquam míhi J.
55 efciam J. dii J. 58 praeter . . . te J. 60 continued to Tynd. J. Enim- uero iam BJ, Enim iam Both. Heus tu quid agís (continued to the same speaker) J. 61 insectabitur J. 62 oculi fit opus BJ, fune Col. Min.
64 ágitant J. 65 Atra píx BJ, Pix atra Lind. apud J. capite (corr. to -i) J. 67 Q . . . d quid B¹, -ui- (added) B², Hercle quid J, ais Seyffert.

Ty. Sapiás magis.

600 AR. Crúciór lapidem nón habere mé, ut illi mastígiae Cérebrum excutiam, quí me insanum uérbis concinnát suis.

Ty. Aúdin lapidem quaéritare ?

AR. Sólus te solúm uolo, 70

Hégio.

HE. Istine lóquere, si quid uís, procul : tamen aúdiam.

Ty. Námque edepol si adbítes propius, ós denasabít tibi Mórdicus.

AR. Neque pól me insanum, Hégio, esse créduis Néque fuisse umquám neque esse mórbum, quem istic aúumat.

Vérum si quid métuís a me, iúbe me uincirí ; uolo, 75
Dúm istic itidem uínciatur.

Ty. Ímmo enim uero, Hégio,

Ístic qui uolt uínciatur.

AR. Táce modo : ego te, Philocrates

610 Fálse, faciam ut uérus hodie réperiare Týndarus.

Quíd mi abnutas ?

Ty. Tibi ego abnuto ?

AR. Quíd agat, si absis lóngius ?

HE. Quíd ais ? quid, si adeam hunc insanum ? 80

Ty. Núgas : ludificábitur,

Gárriet quói néque pes umquam néque caput compáreat.

Órnamenta absúnt : Aiace[m], hunc quóm uides, ipsúm uides.

HE. Nihilí facio, támen adibo.

Ty. Núnc ego omnino óccidi,

Núnc ego inter sacrúm saxumque stó nec quid faciám scio.

HE. Dó tibi operam, Aristophontes, sí quid est quod mé uelis.

AR. Éx me audibis uéra quae nunc fálse opinare, Hégio. 86

620 Séd hoc primum me expúrigare tibi uolo, me insániam

68 Crutior J. 69 concinat J. 72 si habites J. 73 insanum esse credius J. 74 morbum istic B. 75 uincire B., uincinri J., uinciri Ed. Prin., Bent. 77 te om. BJ. 78 tyndarus longius J. 79 michi J.
abnuto quid (without change of speaker) BJ., abnuto AR. Quid Lessing.
longius is omitted in J., being placed in the preceding line. 81 quod BJ., quói Acidal. 82 Hortamenta J. 83 Nihil B., Nichil J. 84 ergo J.
87 hec J. expurgare B., expugnare J., expurigare Rl.

Néque tenere néque mi esse ullum mórbum nisi quod séruio.

Át ita me rex deórum atque hominum fáxit patriae cónpotem, 89

Vt istic Philocratés non magis est quam aut ego aut tu.
HE. Eho, dic mihi,

Quis illic igitur ést ?

AR. Quem dudum díxi a principiό tibi.

Hóc si secus repéries, nullam caúsam dico quín mihi
Ét parentum et libertatis ápud te deliquió siet.

HE. Quid tu ais ?

TY. Me túom esse seruom et té meum erum.

HE. Haud istúe rogo.

Fuístin liber ?

TY. Fúí.

AR. Enim uero nó n fuit, nugás agit. 95

630 TY. Quí tu scis ? an tú fortasse fuísti meae matri óbstitrix, Qui íd tam audacter dícere audes ?

AR. Púerum te uidí puer.

TY. Át ego te uideó maiorem máior : em rursúm tibi.

Meám rem non curés, si recte fácias : num ego curó tuam ?

HE. Fúitne huic patér Thensaurochrysonicochryssides ? 100

AR. Nó n fuit : neque ego ístuc nomen úmquam audiui ante húnc diem.

Philocrati Theodóromedes fúit pater.

TY. Pereó probe.

Quín quiescis ? í diirectum, cór meum, ac suspénde te :

Tú subsultas, égo miser uix ásto prae formídine. 104

HE. Sátin istuc mihi éxquisitumst fúisse hunc seruom in Álide

88 neque nu esse J. 92 sicecus (corr. by sc. hand to sisecus) J.
93 apud J. fict B. 94 Haud istuc rogo is the beginning of the next verse in BJ. 96 obstitrix qui id tam B. obstitrix quid id tam J. 97 Audacter (qui id tam being added on to the preceding line) BJ. 98 maior maiorem BJ. maiorem maior Bent., Br. hem B(S)J. em Br. tibi meam rem BJ. 99 Non cures BJ. tuam HE. fuitne huic BJ. 100 Pater Thensaurochrysonicochryssides AR. non fuit BJ. (the first two words illegible in J.) 101 Neque BJ. 102 theodoro medes J. 103 i Gulielm. Quaest.
in Capl. Cap. III. d. erectum J. 104 sussultas B. (J is illegible).

Néque esse hunc Philocratém ?

AR. Tam satis quam núnquam hoc inueniés secus.

640 Séd ubi is nunc est ?

HE. Vbi ego minime atque ípsus se uolt máxime.
Séd uide sis.

AR. Quin éploratum díco et prouisum hóc tibi.

HE. Cérton ?

AR. Quin nihil, ínquam, inuenies mágis hoc certo cértius:
Philocrates iam inde úsque amicus fuít mihi a pueró puer.
Tum ígitur ego derúncinatus, deártuatus súm miser 111
Huús scelesti téchnis, qui me ut líbitumst ductauít dolis

HE. Séd qua faciest tíos sodalis Philocrates ?

AR. Dicám tibi :

Mácilento ore, náso acuto, córpore albo, oculis nigris,
Súbrufus aliquántum, crispus, cíncinnatus.

HE. Cónuenit. 115

TY. Vt quidem hercle in médium ego hodie péssume pro-céssem :

650 Vaé illis uirgis míseris, quae hodie in térgo morientúr
meo.

HE. Vérba mihi data ésse uideo.

TY. Quid cessatis, cónpedes,

Cúrrere ad me méaque amplecti crúra, ut uos custódiám ?

HE. Sátin me illisce hodié scelesti cápti ceperúnt dolo ? 120

Íllic seruom se ádsimulabat, híc sese autem líberum.

Núculeum amisi, retinui pínori putámina.

Íta mi stolido súrsum uorsum os súbleuere offúciis.

Híc quidem me numquam ínridebit. Cólaphe, Cordalió, Corax,

Íte istinc, ecférte lora.

LO. Núm lignatum míttimur ? 125

106 phicoeratem B. Iam J. nunquam inuenies hoc J. 107 After this verse follow 111, 112 in BJ; placed after 110 by Br. 108 Qui nihil B. certotercius J. 111, 112 stand after 107 in BJ. 111 aerumnatus B. erumpnatus J. deruncinatus Turneb., Bent. de artuatus J. 112 thechnis B. tech.nis J. techinis Rl. 114 albo et oculis BJ. albo oculis Bent., Lind. 115 cinnatus J. 120 Santin me illi B., me illi J. illisce F. Schmidt. capiti coeperunt J. 122 Nucleum amisi reliqui pignori J. 123 michi J. uersus J. subliuere BJ. offutiis J. 125 istinc atque ecferte B. istinc atque haec ferte J. istinc ecferte Fl. COLAPH. Num J.

HE. Inícite huic manicas áctutum mastígiae.

660 TY. Quid hoc ést negoti? quíd ego deliquí?

HE. Rogas?

Sator sartorque scélerum et messor máxume.

TY. Non óccatorem dícere audebás prius?

Nam sémper occant prius quam sariunt rústici. 5

HE. Attát, ut confidénter mihi contra ástitit.

TY. Decet innocentem séruom atque innóxiom
Confidentem esse, suom ápuđ erum potíssimum.

HE. Astríngite isti súltis uehementér manus.

TY. Tuós sum; tu has quídém uel praecidí iube. 10

Sed quíd negotist? quam ób rem suscensés mihi?

670 HE. Quia mé meamque rém, quod in te unó fuit, Tuís scelestis fálsideicis falláciis

Delácerauisti deártuauístique opes,

Confécisti omnis rés ac rationés meas. 15

Ita mi éxemisti Phílocratem falláciis.

Illum ésse seruom crédidi, te líberum:

Ita uósmet aiebátis itaque nómina

Intér uos permutástis.

TY. Fateor ómnia

Facta ésse ita ut tu dícis et falláciis 20

Abísse eum abs te méa opera atque astítia:

An, óbsecro hercle te, íd nunc suscensés mihi?

680 HE. At cúm cruciatu máxumo id factúmst tuo.

TY. Dum ne ób malefacta péream, parui aéstumo.

Si ego híc peribo, si ille, ut dixit, nón redit: 25

At erít mi hoc factum mórtuo memorábile,

Meum erúm captiuom ex séruitute atque hóstibus

Reducém fecisse líberum in patriam ad patrem,

HEGIO. (EGIO. J) LORARI. TYNDARVS. ARISTOPHONTES. (ARISTOPHONTES. J) BJ. 1 actutum om. BJ. 2 negocii J. 3 sator satorque J. 4 Occatorem (Non om.) J. 5 sariunt BJ, sariunt RL. 6 At BJ, Attat Heru. 8 apud J. postissimum J. 9 adstringente J. 11 negocii est J. succenses J. 16 michi et emisti J. 20, 21 are one line in J. 20 tu om. BJ. 22, 23 one line J. 22 succenses mi J. 24, 25 one line J. 24 estumo BJ. 25 peribo ast ille BJ, si Br. 26, 27 one line J. 26 memorabile J. 27 erum (herum J) captum ex BJ, captiuum Camer., Lamb., Bent.

Meúmque potius mé caput perículo
Præóptauisse quam ís periret pónere. 30

HE. Facito érgo ut Acherúnti clueas glória.

690 TY. Qui pér uirtutem pérít at non is ínterít.

HE. Quando égo te exemplis péssumis cruciáuero
Atque ób sutelas tuás te morti mísero,
Vel te ínterísse uél perísse prædícent, 35
Dum péreas, nihil intérdo dicant úuere.

TY. Pol si ístuc faxis, haúd sine poena féceris,
Si ille húc rebitet, sícut confido ádfore.

AR. Pro di ímmortales : núnc ego teneo, núnc scio
Quid hoc sít negoti. méus sodalis Phílocrates 40
In libertatest ád patrem in patriá. benest :

700 Nec quísquamst hominum, adaéque melius quói uelim.
Sed hóc mihi aegrest, me huíc dedísse operám malam,
Qui núnc propter me méaque uerba uíctus est.

HE. Votuín te quicquam mi hódie falsum próloqui ? 45

TY. Votuísti.

HE. Cur es aúsus mentirí mihi ?

TY. Quia uéra obessent illi, quói operám dabam :
Nunc fálsa prosunt.

HE. Át tibi oberunt.

TY. Óptumest :

At erím seruauí, quém seruatum gaúdeo,
Quói mé custodem addíderat erus maiór meus. 50
Sed málene id factum árbitrare ?

HE. Péssume.

710 TY. At ego áio recte, qui ábs te sorsum séntio :

29, 30 one line BJ. 29 periculo J. 31, 32 one line J. 31 acherunta ducas gloriam J. 32 peritat non BJ, perit at non is Fl. 33—35 (to pereas 36 J) make two lines in BJ. 33 extemplis pessumus J. excruciauero BJ, cruciauero Fl. 34 obsubtelas J. 35 interiisse uel periisse J. 36 (from nihil J)—38 two lines in BJ. 36 interdico BJ, interdo Uss. dicat corr. to -ant J. 38 redibit et BJ, rebitet Fl. sicut cofide J. afforet B and J (!) redibit sicut confido affore Camer., Bent. 39—42 three lines in BJ. 39 dii J. 40 Quid sit hoc BJ, hoc sit Br. negotii J. 42 quisquam est mihi (michi J) aequae BJ, hominum adaeque Müll. 44—46 two lines in BJ. 45 Votauin J. michi J. 46 Votauisti BJ, Vetuisti Lamb., Bent, notuisti Cod. Min. 47—50 three lines BJ. 49 seruatum J. 51—53 two lines BJ. 51 factum esse arbitrare Bent.

Nam cōgitato, sī quis hoc gnató tuo
 Tuos séruos faxit, quálem haberes grátiam ?
 Emíttetresne nécne eum seruóm manu ? 55
 Essétne apud te is séruos acceptíssimus ?
 Respónde.

HE. Opinor.

TY. Cúr ergo iratús mihi's ?

HE. Quia illi fuisti quám mihi fidélior.

TY. Quid tu ? úna nocte póstulauisti ét die
 Recéns captum hominem, núperum et nouícium, 60
 Te pérdocere, ut mélius consulerém tibi
 720 Quam illi quicum una a píero aetatem exégeram ?

HE. Ergo áb eo petito grátiam istam. dúcite
 Vbi pónderosas, crássas capiat cónpedis :
 Inde íbis porro in látomias lapidárias, 65
 Ibi quom álíi octonos lápides ecfodiúnt, nisi
 Cotídiano sésquiopus conféceris,
 Sescéntoplagó nómen indetúr tibi.

AR. Per deós atque homines égo te obtestor, Hégio,
 Ne tu ístunc hominem pérduis.

HE. Curábitur : 70

730 Nam nóctu neruo uínetus custodíbitur,
 Intérdius sub térra lapides éximet.
 Diu ego hunc cruciabo, nón uno absoluám die.

AR. Certúmnest tibi istuc ?

HE. Nón moriri cértiust.

Abducíte istum actútum ad Hippolytúm fabrum ; 75
 Iubéte huic crassas cónpedis inpíngier.

54—58 three lines BJ. 56 apud J. 57 opinior J. ingratus J. 59—64 four lines BJ. 62 a om. BJ. 63 habeo J. istam gratiam BJ, gratiam istam Camer., Bent. 65, 66 (to lapides) one line J. 66, 67 one line B(S) ; 66 (from nisi)—68 one line J, which thus omits ecfodiunt altogether) ; 66 nisi
 (67) Cotídiano Bent. (also on Ter. Haut. IV 5. 7). 66 octo nos J. ecfodiunt B(S). 67 Cotídianos BJ. ses que opus confeceris B(S), sesque opusquem feceris J. 68 Sescento plago B(S), Sexcento plago J. uidetur J. 69, 70 one line J. 69 ob testor J. 71, 72 one line BJ.
 71 nocte (corr. to -tu) J. 72 interdiu J. 73—75 two lines BJ.
 73 hunc ego B, hunc ergo J, ego hunc Camer. 74 certius J. 75 actutum J. Yppolitum B, yppolitum J. 76—78 two lines BJ.

Inde éxtra portam ad meúm libertum Córdalum

In lápicidinas fácite deductús siet :

Atque hunc me uelle dicite ita curárier,

Ne quí deterius huic sit quam quói péssumest. 80

Ty. Cur égo te inuito mé esse saluom póstulem ?

740 Perículum uitae meae tuo stat perículo.

Post mórtém in morte níhil est quod metuám mali.

Etsi peruiuo usque ad summam aetatém, tamen

Breue spátiumst perferúndi quae minitás mihi. 85

Vale atque salue, etsi áliter ut dicám meres.

Tu, Aristophontes, dé me ut meruisti ita uale :

Nam mihi propter te hoc óbtigit.

HE. Abdúcite.

Ty. At únunum hoc quaeso, si húc rebitet Philocrates,

Vt mi éius facias cónueniundi cópiam. 90

HE. Perístis, nisi iam hunc é conspectu abdúcitis.

750 Ty. Vis haéc quidem herelest, ét trahi et truí simul.

HE. Illic ést abductus récta in phylacam, ut dígnum est.

Ego illís captiuís áliis documentúm dabo,

Ne tále quisquam fácinus incipere aúdeat. 95

Quod ábsque hoc esset, quí mihi hoc fecit palam,

Vsque óffrenatum suís me ductarént dolis.

Nunc cértumst nulli pósthac quicquam crédere.

Satis súm semel decéptus : speraui miser

Ex séruitute me éxemisse filium. 100

Ea spés elapsast. pérdidi unum filium,

760 Puerúm quadrinum quém mihi seruos súrpuít,

Neque eúm seruom unquam répperi neque filium :

Maiór potitus hóstiumst. quod hoc ést scelus ?

77 cordalium J. 78 lapidicinas J. 79—81 two lines BJ. 79 hunc ita me uelle dicite BJ, hunc me uelle dicite ita Fl. 80 Nequid J. 82—84 two lines BJ. 82 Periculum BJ, Periculum Bent. 84 superuino B. 85—87 two lines J. 85 mi J. 86, 87 one line B. 88, 89 one line J. 88 mi J. optigit J. 89 Ant J. huc om. J. 90, 91 one line J. 91 (ni J.) hunc iam BJ, iam hunc Bent., Fl. 93 inphilatamut J. 94, 95 one line J. 94 captiuus J. 96, 97 one line J. 97 ofere natum B, offerre natum J. 98, 99 one line J. 98 post haec BJ, posthac Cod. Min. 100, 101 one line J. 100 seruite B, seruitute exemisse J. 102 surripuit BJ, surpuít Camer. 103, 104 one line J. 103 reperi nec J. 104 quid hoc J.

Quasi in órbitatem líberos produxerim. 105

Sequere háe : *re*ducam te úbi fuisti. néminis

Miseréri certumst, quía mis miseret néminem.

AR. Exaúspicaui ex uínclis : nunc intéllego

Redaúspicandum esse ín catenas dénuo.

ACTVS III.

PARASITVS. ERGASILVS.

Iúppiter supréme, seruas mé measque augés opes :

Máximas opímitatis ópiparasque offérs mihi :

770 Laudém, lucrum, ludúm, iocum, festiuitatem, férias,

Pompám, penum, potátiones, sáuritatem, gaúdium.

Néc quoiquam homini súpplicare núnciam certumst mihi : 5

Nam uél prodesse amíco possum uél inimicum pérdere.

Ita híc me amoenítate amoena amoénus onerauit dies :

Síne sacris heréditatem sum áptus ecfertíssumam.

Nunc ad senem cursúm capessam hunc Hérgionem, quói boni

Tantum ádfero, quantum ípsus a dis óptat, atque etiam ámplius.

Nunc cérta res est, eódem pacto ut cómici seruí solent, 11

Coniciam in collum pállium, primo éx me hanc rem ut aúdiat :

780 Speróque me ob hunc núntium aetérnum adepturúm cibum.

105—109 four lines J. 105 filios perduxerim J. 106 reducam BJ, redducam Fl. 107 quia miseret B¹, quia mei miseret B²J., quia mis miseret Par. (Lex. Plaut.). 108 The first three words omitted in B. uinculis J.

ERGASILVS. PARASITVS. J. 1 supre me J. 2 Maximas epimates
opi parasque J. 5 nunc B, me nunc J. iam Gepp. 7 onerauit mihi B, honeravit mi J. 8 adeptus ecfertissimam J. 10 offero J.
ipse BJ, ipsus Reiz. adliis J. 12 collam J. rem ipsus audiat Bent. 13 ob hoc J.

SENEC. PARASITVS.

HE. Quanto in pectore hanc rem meo magis uoluto,
Tanto mi aegritudo auctior est in animo.

Ad illum modum sublitum os esse mi hodie :

Neque id perspicere quui.

Quod quom scibitur, tum per urbem inridébor. 5

Quom extemplo ad forum aduenero, omnes loquentur :

'Hic ille senex doctus, quoui uerba data sunt.'

Sed Ergasilus estne hic, procul quem \dagger uideo ?

Conlecto quidamst pallio: quidnam acturust ?

790 ER. Moue abs te moram omnem atque, Ergasile, age hanc
rem. 10

Eminor interminor, ne quis mi obstiterit ob uiam,

Nisi qui satis diu uixisse sese homo arbitrabitur :

Nam qui obstiterit ore sistet.

HE. Hic homo pugilatam incipit.

ER. Facere certumst. proinde ut omnes itinera insistant sua,
Ne quis in hanc plateam negoti conferat quicquam sui : 15
Nam meus est ballista pugnus, cubitus catapultast mihi, Vmerus aries: tum genu ad quemque icero, ad terram dabo.

Dentilegos omnis mortalis faciam, quemque offendero.

HE. Quae illae eminentiosae ? nam nequeo mirari satis.

800 ER. Faciam ut huius die locique meique semper meminerit: 20
Qui mi in cursu obstiterit, faxo uitae is obstiterit suae.

HE. Quid hic homo tantum incipissit facere cum tantis minis ?

SENEC. ERGASILVS. PARASITVS. J. 1 hac J. uolupto J. 2 michi J.
3, 4 one line BJ. 3 sublitum BJ, sublitum Cod. Min. esse hodie mihi B, esse mihi J (omitting hodie), esse mi hodie Reiz. 5 Quod conscibitur per B. tum Lind. 7 ductus BJ, doctus Douss.
quo B(S), quoui B(S), cui J. dota corr. to data by sec. hand J.
8 est ne J. 9 quid nam J. 10 continued to last speaker J. Mone J. omnem Bossc. 11 interminorque BJ, interminor Bent. on Ter. Haut.
Prol 31. mihi B, michi J. 12 quis BJ, qui Grut. 14 continued to Heqio in J. ut ut J. 15 PAR. Nequis J. hanc plateam Gepp. negotii J.
16 balista J. catapultula est (omitting mihi) J. 17 Humerus BJ. adquemque icero B(S)J (in B the letters ee are by the second hand, after erasure) (S), ut quemque icero Camer., ad quemque icero Bent., Lind.
18 Dentilecos J. 19 namqueo J. 20 eius B. dici B(S)J, die Fl. 21 is extemplo obstiterit B.

- ER. Príus edico, né quis propter cúlpani capiatúr suam :
Cóntinete uós domi, prohibéte a uobis uím meam.
- HE. Míra edepol sunt ní híc in uentrem súmpsit confidéntiam.
Vaé misero illi, quóius cibo iste fáctust imperiósior. 26
- ER. Tím pistores scrófpasci, quí alunt furfuribús sues, Quárum odore praéterire némo pistrinúm potest :
Eórum si quoiúsquam scrofam in público conspéxero,
810 Éx ipsis dominís meis pugnis éxculcabo fúrfures. 30
- HE. Básilicas edíctiones átque imperiósas habet.
Sátur homost, habét profecto in uentre confidéntiam.
- ER. Tím piscatorés, qui praebent pópulo piscis foétidos,
Qui áduchuntur quádrupedanti crúcianti canthério,
Quórum odos subbásilicanos ómnis abigit in forum : 35
Eís ego ora uérberabo súrpiculis piscáriis,
Vt sciant, aliéno naso quam éxibeant moléstiam.
Tím lanii autem, quí concinnant líberis orbás ouis,
Quí locant caedúndos agnos ét dupla agninám danunt,
820 Quí petroni nómen induunt uérueci sectário : 40
Eórum ego si in uía petronem pública conspéxero,
Ét petronem et dóminum reddam mórtalis misérrumos.
- HE. Eúgepae : edíctiones aedílicias híc quidem habet :
Mírumque adeost ní húnc fecere síbi Aetoli agoráno-mum.
- ER. Nón ego nunc parasítus sum, sed régum rex regálior : 45
Tántus uentri cónmeatus méo adest in portú cibus.
Séd ego cesso hunc Hégionem oneráre laetitíam senem ?
Quí homine hominum adaéque nemo uíuit fortunatiór.
- HE. Quae illaec est laetitía, quam illic laétus largitúr mihi ? 49
- 830 ER. Heús ubi estis ? écquis hic est ? écquis hoc aperit óstium ?

26 impensior J. 27 scrophí pasci J. furfure BJ, furfuri vel furfuribus Bent. (furfuri Camer. and Lamb., furfuribus Luchs.). 29 sí quo uis quam scropham J. fur fures J. 31 editiones J. 35 subbasilica nos J. abegit BJ, abigit Cod. Min. ("a manu correctoris" Par.). 36 ergo hora J. 38 lanium J. orabas J. 39 cedundos an gnos (agnos J.) et duplam BJ, dupla Lind. 40 uerueti J (?). 41 Eum BJ, Eorum Br. público J. 42 miserimos J. 43 Euge editiones etdelicias J. 44 fecerunt sibi aetholi J. 46 inporticibus J. 47 honorare laetitia J. 48 Qui hominem adaequae J. hominum Camer. furtunator J. 49 mí J. 50 hic est ? ecquis Br. hostium J.

HE. Hic homo ad cenam recipit se ad me.

ER. Aperite hasce ambas foris

Prus quam pultando assulatim foribus exitium adfero.

HE. Perlubet hunc hominem conloqui: Ergasile.

ER. Ergasilum quis uocat?

HE. Respice.

ER. Fortuna quod tibi nec facit nec faciet, me iubes.
Sed quis est?

HE. Respice ad me: Hego sum.

ER. O mihi, 55

Quantumst hominum

Optimorum optime, in tempore aduenis.

HE. Nescio quem ad portum nactus es, ubi cenes, eo fastidis.

ER. Cedo manum.

HE. Manum?

ER. Manum, inquam, cedo tuam actutum.

HE. Tene.

ER. Gaude.

HE. Quid ego gaudeam?

ER. Quia ego impero. age gaudé modo.

840 HE. Pol maerores mi anteuertunt gaudiis.

ER. * * * * 60

Iam ego ex corpore exigam omnis maculas maerorum tibi:
Gaude audacter.

HE. Gaudeo, etsi nil scio quod gaudeam.

ER. Bene facis: iube . .

HE. Quid iubeam?

ER. Ignem ingentem fieri.

HE. Ignem ingentem?

ER. Ita dico, magnus ut sit.

HE. Quid? me, uolturi,

52 pultando uel assulatim BJ, pultando assulatim Lind. 53 Lubet Bent. qui BJ, quis Br. 54 quod nec J. faciet hoc me BJ, faciet me Br. 55 mihi (mi J.) quantum est (56) Hominum BJ; the above is the arrangement of Studem. (Hermes VI p. 268). 55 qui BJ, quis Fl. ego sum J. 57 nactus BJ. 58 Tene is joined to the next verse BJ. 60 michi ante uertunt J. gaudiis ERG. (PAR. J.) Noli irascier BJ. pointed out as incorrect by Acidal. (who conjectured Non itast, scies). 62 nihil scio quid J. 64 Quid me uolt uri? BJ. Quid me, uolturi Bent., Lind.

Tuán causa aedis incensurum censes ?

ER. Noli irascier. 65

Iúben an non iubés astitui aúlas, patinas élui,
Láridum atque epulás foueri fóculis feruéntibus,
Álium piscis praéstinatum abíre ?

HE. Hic uigilans sómniat.

ER. Álium porcinam átque agninam et púllos gallináceos ?

850 HE. Scís bene esse, sí sit unde.

ER. Pérnam† atque ophthálmiam, 70

Hóraeum scombrum ét trugonum et cétum et mollem cáseum ?

HE. Nómīnandi istórum tibi erit mágis quam edundi cópia
Híc apud me, Ergásile.

ER. Mean me caúsa hoc censes dícere ?

HE. Néc nihil hodie néc multo plus tu híc edes, ne frústra sis :
Proín tu tui cotídiani uícti uentrem ad me ádferas. 75

ER. Quín ita faciam ut túte cupias fácere sumptum, etsi égo uotem.

HE. Égone ?

ER. Tu ne.

HE. Túm tu mi igitur érus es.

ER. Immo béneuolens.

Vín te faciam fórtunatum ?

HE. Málīm quam miserúm quidem.

ER. Cédo manum.

HE. Em manúm.

ER. Di te omnes ádiuuant.

HE. Nil séntio.

860 ER. Nón enim es in sénticcto, có non sentis. séd iube 80
Vása tibi pura ádparari ád rem diuinám cito
Átque agnum adferri propritim pínguem.

HE. Cur ?

ER. Vt sácrufices.

65 Tua (?) causa me aedes J, Tua causa aedes Bent. 66 patinas ?
elui J. 67 ferculis Bent. 69 portinam atque aguinam J. 70 op-thalmia BJ. 71 Horreum J (acc. to Bent's testimony). trigonum BJ.
72 copia J. 75 Pro in J. coctidiani B. 76 tute Lind. cupias corr. by sec. hand to cupias J. netem BJ. 77 Immobene uolens J.
78 Malum J. 79 hem J. dii J. nihil (nichil J) sentio is the beginning of the next line BJ. 82 afferri proprium BJ, propritim Bent.

HE. Quoi deorum ?

ER. Mihi hércle: nam ego nunc tibi sum summus Iúppiter:
Ídem ego sum Salús, Fortuna, Lúx, Laetitia, Gaúdium.

Proín deum tu hunc sáturitate fácias tranquillúm tibi. 85

HE. Ésurire mihi uidere.

ER. Mi équidem esurio, nón tibi.

HE. Tuo ábitratu: fáciie patior.

ER. Crédo: consuetú's puer.

HE. Iúppiter te díque perdant.

ER. Te hércle — mi aequomst grátias

Ágere ob nuntiúm: tantum ego nunc pórtó a portu tibi boni.

870 Núnc tu mihi placés.

HE. Abi, stultu's; séro post tempús uenis. 90

ER. Ígitur olim si áduenisset, mágis tu tum istuc díceres.

Núnc hanc laetitiam áccipe a me quám fero: nam filium Tuóm modo in portú Philopolemm uíuom, saluom et sóspitem

Vídi in publicá celoce ibidémque illum adulescéntulum
Áleum una et tuóm Stalagmum séruom, qui aufugít domo,
Quí tibi subrupuít quadrimum púerum filiolum tuom. 96

HE. Abi in malam rem, lúdis me.

ER. Ita me amábit sancta Sátoritas,

Hégio, itaque suó me semper cóndecoret cognómine,

Vt ego uidi.

HE. Meúmne gnatum ?

ER. Tuóm gnatum et geniúm meum.

880 HE. Ét captiuom illum Álidensem ?

ER. Mà τὸν Ἀπόλλω.

HE. Et séruolum 100

Meúm Stalagmum, meúm qui gnatum súbrupuít ?

ER. Νῆ τὰν Κόραν.

83 mi J. 84 fortunax J. 85 tu deum B. tudeum J. Aleum tu Br.
(in Critical Appendix). 86 mi J. quidem BJ. equidem Br. 87 Eg.
Consuetus J. credo consuetus B. 88 díque J. 90 stultus BJ. stultu's Müll. 94 celoce J. ibi demque J. 95 Alium BJ. unam J. seruom J. 96 surripuít J. 97 saturnitas B. 98 suo semper J.
99 Meumne Bent., Fl. genium J. 100 continued to Parasitus in J.
Eg. Maton apollo PAR. Et seruolum J. 101 Eg. Meum etc. J.
Netan coram J. (ER. om.), ERG. netan cora B.

HE. Iam †diu ?

ER. Νῆ τὰν Πραινέστην.

HE. Vénit ?

ER. Νῆ τὰν Σιγνίαν.

HE. Cérton ?

ER. Νῆ τὰν Φροσινῶνα.

HE. Víde sis.

ER. Νῆ τὰν Ἀλάτριον.

HE. Quid tu per barbáricas urbis iúras ?

ER. Quia enim item ásperae

Súnt, ut tuom uictum aútumabas ésse.

HE. Vae aetati tuae. 105

ER. Quíppe quando míhi nil credis, quód ego dico sédulo.

Séd Stalagmus quoíus erat tunc nátionis, quom hinc abit ?

HE. Sículus.

ER. At nunc Sículus non est : Bóius est : boiám terit :

Líberorum quaérundorum caúsa ei credo uxór datast.

890 HE. Díc, bonan fidé tu mi istaec uérba dixisti ?

ER. Bona. 110

HE. Di ímmortales, íterum natus uídeor, si uera aútumas.

ER. Aín tu ? dubium habébis etiam, sáncte quom ego iurém tibi ?

Póstremo, Hegió, si parua iúri iurandóst fides,

Víse ad portum.

HE. Fácere certumst : tu íntus cura quód opus est :

Súme, posce, próme quíduis : té facio cellárium. 115

ER. Nám hercle nisi mantíscinatus próbe ero, fusti péctito.

HE. Acéternum tibi dapinabo uíctum, si uera aútumas.

102 PAR. Iam diu J. ERG. netam prenestem B. EG. Netan prenestem J. PAR. Venit J. ERG. netam signeam B.

EG. Netan signeam J. 103 Certon netan frusi ? non est con- tinued to last speaker J. ERG. netam frusinonem B. PAR. Vide sis EG.

netan alatrium J. ERG. netam alatrium B. 104 PAR. Quid J. per

om. J. EG. Quia J. 105 PAR. Ve aetati tuae Quippe etc. J.

106 nichil J. 107 quo nis B. cuius J. nunc J. cum hinc abiit B.

cum hinc abiit J. 108 HE. Si cuius ERG. Et nunc si cuius B. Cuius et nunc (continued to last speaker) PAR. Sicuius nunc est bolus est J.

10 michi J. 111 Dii J. gnatus J. siuara B. 112 cum urem J. 115 quid nis J. 116 continued to last speaker J. hero uisti J. 117 continued to last speaker J. autumnas J.

ER. Vnde id?

HE. A me meoque gnato.

ER. Sponden tu istud?

HE. Spondeo.

ER. At ego tuom tibi aduenisse filium respondeo.

900 HE. Cura quam optumé potes.

ER. Bene ámbula et redámbula. 120

ER. Illic hinc abiit: míhi rem summam crédidit cibáriam.

Di inmortales, iam út ego collos praétruncabo tégoribus.

Quánta pernis péstis ueniet, quánta labes lírido,

Quánta sumini ábsumedo, quánta callo cálamitas,

Quánta laníis lássitudo, quánta porcínáriis: 5

Nám si alia memorém, quae ad uentris uictum conducúnt, morast.

Núnc ibo, ut propcerem ín praefecturam, út ius dicam lírido

Ét quae pendent indemnatae pérnae, eis auxiliium út feram.

PVER.

Diéspiter te díque, Ergasile, pérdant et uentrém tuom

910 Parasítosque omnis ét qui posthac cénam parasítis dabit.

Cladés calamitasque, íntemperies módo ín nostram aduenít domum.

Quasi† lupus esuriens, metui ne ín me faceret ímpetum,

118 Vnde J. Sponde BJ, Sponden Cod. Min. 120 Cur aquam optume petes J.

Commencement of a new scene in BJ, with heading PARASITVS in B, and illuminated letter I in J. 1 habiit mi J. remsummam J. cybariam J.
2 Dii J. iam om. J. pertruncabo J. tergoribus BJ, tegoribus Turneb.
3 lar. ido J. 4 Quanto J. ábsumendo BJ. quanto (corr. to -a) J.
collo B. 5 lassitudo J. portinariis B. 7 BOCTPROP RAMUTIUSDICAML A, ibo ut pre-(-ae- J)fecturam et ius BJ, propcerem in praefecturam Gepp. 8 inde nate B, indemnatae J. pernis auxiliium J.

1 iespiter J, room being left to fill in an illuminated letter. díique J.
2 post hanc B, post hac J. 3 Cladis B.

Vbi nolui illi morem gerere, ibi os pandebat improbum, 5
 Nimisque hercule ego illum male formidabam: ita frendebat
 dentibus,

Adueniens deturbavit totum cum carni carnarium,
 Arripuit gladium, praeruncauit tribus tegoribus glandia,
 Aulas calicesque omnis confregit, nisi quae modiales erant:
 Cocum percontabatur, possentne seriae feruescere: 10
 Cellas refregit omnis intus reclusitque armarium.

Adseruate istunc sultis, serui: ego ibo ut conueniam senem:
 920 Dicam ut sibi penum aliud ornet, si quidem sese uti uolet, Nam hoc, hic quidem ut adornat, aut iam nihil est aut iam
 nihil erit.

HEGIO. PHILOPOLEMVS. PHILOCRADES. STALAGMVS.

HE. Ioui disque ago gratias merito magnas,
 Quom te reducem tuo patri reddiderunt
 Quomque ex miseris plurimis me exemerunt,
 Quas, dum te carendum hic fuit, sustentabam,
 Quomque istunc conspicio in potestate nostra 5
 Quomque huius repertast fides firma nobis.

PHILOP. Satis iam dolui ex animo et cura satis me et lacrimis maceraui:

5 UBINOL..... R..... UM A, Vbi nolui illi morem gerere ibi os pandebat improbum Gepp. The verse is not found in BJ. 7 carne BJ, carni Lind. 8 TEGORIBVS A, tegoribus BJ. 9 confringit B.
 10 seri referuescere J. 12 istum J. 14 hoc Lind.

EGIO. PHILOCRADES. PHILOPOLEMVS. STALAGMVS J. 1, 2 form one line J. 1 Noui diisque J. gras J. 2 reducem BJ, reducem Gepp.
 3, 4 one line J. 3 cumque et miseris J. 4 Quae ad huc te carens dum hic fui BJ, Quas dum te carendum hic fuit Acidal. sustentababam J. 5, 6 one line J. 5 hunc BJ, istunc Br. 6 Quomque haec reperta est B, cumque haec reperta est J, huius Bossc., Both. 7 me satis BJ, satis me Fl. maceraui hoc BJ, hoc omitted by Par.

Sátis iam audiui tuás aerumnas, ad portum mihi quas memorasti.

930 Hóe agamus.

PHILOCR. Quid nunc, quoniam tecum seruaui fidem
Tibi que hunc reducem in libertatem feci ?

HE. Fecisti ut tibi, 10

Philocrates, numquam referre gratiam possim satis,
Proinde ut tu promeritus de me et filio.

PHILOCR. Immo, mi pater,

Et tu poteris et ego potero et di eam potestatem dabunt,
Ut beneficium bene merenti nostro merito muneres,

Sicut tu huic potes, pater mi, facere merito maxime. 15

HE. Quid opus uerbis ? lingua nullast qua negem quidquid
roges.

PHILOCR. Postulo abs te ut mi illum reddas seruum, quem hic reliqueram

Pignus pro me, qui mihi melior quam sibi semper fuit,

Pro benefactis eius ut ei pretium possim reddere.

940

HE. Quod bene fecisti, referetur gratia id quod postulas. 20

Et id et aliud, quod me orabis, impetrabis. atque te

Nolim succensere, quod ego iratus et feci male.

PHILOCR. Quid fecisti ?

HE. In lapicidas compeditum condidi.

Vbi rescui mihi data esse uerba.

PHILOCR. Vae misero mihi :

Propter meum caput labores homini euenisse optumo. 25

HE. At ob eam rem mihi libellam pro eo argenti ne duis :

Gratias a me, ut sit liber, ducito.

PHILOCR. Edepol, Hégio,

Facis benigne : sed quaeso hominem ut iubeas accersi.

HE. Licet.

950 Heus, ubi estis ? ite actutum, Tyndarum huc accersite.

8 erumpnas J. apud portum quas J. 12 promeritus BJ. (PHILOCR. J.) Immo potes (corr fr. potes J.) (13) Pater et poteris BJ. Immo mi pater | Et tu poteris Br. 14 bene meriti J. muneris (corr. to -os by first hand, then to -es by sec. hand) J. 16 opus J. 17 te . . ut michi J. 19 uti BJ. ut ei Fl. precium B. 20 is placed before 18 in B. refertur J. 21 imperabis B¹. impetrabis B²J. et te J. 22 succensere J. ei J. 24 mi J. (last word). 26 mi J. 27 gratis BJ. gratias Both. aducito B. ad ducito J. ducito Lind. 28 accersi J. 29 Vbi estis uos BJ. Heus ubi estis Br. accersite J.

Vós ite intro : intéribi ego ex hac státua uerbereá uolo 30
Érogitare, meó minore quíd sit factum filio.

Vós lauate intéribi.

PHILOP. Sequere hac, Philocrates, me intró.

PHILOCR. Sequor.

SENEX. SERVOS FUGITIVOS.

HE. Áge tu illuc procéde, bone uir, lépidum mancupiúum meum.

ST. Quíd me facere opórtet, ubi tu tális uir falsum autumas ?
Fuí ego bellus, lépidus, bonus uir núnquam neque frugí bonae

Néque ero umquam : ne tu in spem ponas mé bonae frugí fore.

HE. Própe modum ubi locí fortunae tuae sint facile intéllegis. 5
Sí eris uerax, tuám rem facies éx mala meliúsculam.

960 Réceta et uera lóquere : sed neque uere tu neque récte adhuc Fécisti umquam.

ST. Quód ego fatear, crédin pudeat quom autumes ?

HE. Át ego faciam ut púdeat : nam in rubórem te totúm dabo.

ST. Éia, credo ego, íuperito plágas minitarís mihi : 10
Tándem istaec aufér, dic quid fers, út feras hinc quód petis.

HE. Sátis facundu's : séd iam fieri dicta compendí uolo.

ST. Vt uis fiat.

HE. Béne morigerus fuit puer : nunc nóndecet.

Hóc agamus. iam ánimu aduerte ac míhi quae dicam edíssere.

Sí eris uerax, ex tuis rebus féceris meliúsculas. 15

30 inter ibo BJ. ueruece auolo B, ueruecea uolo J, uerberea Camer.
32 inter ibi. PHYLOCR. Sequere J.

EGIO SENEX. STALAGMVS SERVVS FUGITIVVS J. 2 oportet facere BJ, facere oportet Bent., Fl. 4 ne spem B, neque spem J, tu in Fl. 5 fortunae J. 6 tua ex re BJ, tuam rem Bosse. 7 Recte J. tu om. BJ. 8 quid J. 9 rumorem B, roborem J, ruborem Cod. Min. 10 plagas (added by sec. hand). 11 Eg. Tandem J. ista BJ, istaec Schmidt. 12 continued to last speaker in J. facundus es B, facundus J. dictis compendium BJ, compendí Bent., Both. 14 aduerte haec mihi quae B, aduerte hec mihi quem J. 15 ex Camer.

ST. Nūgae istaec sunt : nōn me censes scīre quid dignūs siem ?

970 HE. At ea sup̄terfūgere potis es paūca, si non ōmnia.

ST. Paūca ecfugiam, scīo : nam multa euēnient, et meritō meo, Quā fūgi et tibi subrupui filiū et eū uēndidi.

HE. Quōi homini ?

ST. Theodóromedi in Álide Polyplúsio 20

Séx minis.

HE. Pro di inm̄ortales : is quidem huius ést pater Philocrati.

ST. Quin mēlius noui quā tu et uidi saép̄ius.

HE. Sérua, Iuppitér sup̄reme, et mé et meum gnatūm mihi.
Philocrates, per tuóm te genium óbsecro, exi : té uolo.

PHILOCRATES. HEGIO. STALAGMVS.

PH. Hégio, adsum : sí quid me uis, ípera.

HE. Hic gnatūm meum

Tuó patri ait se uēdidisse séx minis in Álide.

980 PH. Quā diu id factūmst ?

ST. Hic annus íncipit uicēsumus.

PH. Fálša memorat.

ST. Aut ego aut tu : nám tibi quadrímulum

Tuós pater pecūliarem páruolum pueró dedit. 5

PH. Quid erat ei nomén ? si uera dícis, memoradūm mihi.

ST. Paégnium uocitátust : post uos índidistis Týndaro.

PH. Cúr ego te non nóui ?

ST. Quia mos ést obliuisci hóm̄inibus

Néque nouisse, quóius nihilí sit faciūda grátia.

PH. Díc mihi, isne istíc fuit quem uēdidisti meó patri, 10

17 subter fugere J. potisses B. 18 stands after 20 in BJ.
efficiam J. 19 Quia et BJ. et om. Br., Quin Bent. 20 Theodoro medico B. Teodoro medico J. Poliphrusio J. 21 prodii J.
22 Philocratis B. Philocrates J. Philocrati (gen.) Fl. quam te et BJ.
tu Weil. 24 tuum te ingenium B. tuum ingenium J. tuum te genium Bent. on Ter. Andr. 1 5. 54.

3 Quandiu J. uigesimus J. 5 peculiarem J. 6 Quod J.
memorandum J. 7 Pecnium uocitatus est B. Pec mium uocitatus est J. 9 nihilí Ed. Prin., Bent. 10 is neistic J.

Quí mihi pecúliaris dátus est ?

St. Huius filius.

He. Víuitne is homo ?

St. Argéntum accepi, níl curauí céterum.

990 He. Quid tu ais ?

Ph. Quin ístic ipsust Týndarus tuos filius, Vt quidem hic arguménta loquitur. nam ís mecum a pueró puer

Béne pudiceque éducatust úsque ad adulescéntiam. 15

He. Ét miser sum et fórtunatus, sí uos uera dicitis.

Eó miser sum, quía male illi féci, si gnatús meust.

Éheu, quom ego plús minusque féci quam me aequóm fuit.

Quód male feci, crúciór : modo si inféctum fieri póssiet.

Séd eccum incedit húc ornatus haúd ex suis uirtútibus. 20

TYNDARUS. HEGIO. PHILOCRATES. STALAGMVS.

Ty. Vídi ego multa saépe picta quae Ácherunti fierent
Crúciamenta : uérum enim uero núlla adaequest Ácheruns
1000 Átque ubi ego fui in lápicidinís. illic ibi demúmst locus, Vbi labore lássitudost éxigunda ex córpore.
Nam úbi illo adueni, quási patriciís púeris aut monérulae 5
Aút anites aut cóturnices dántur quicum lúsitent :
Ítidem mi haec aduénienti upupa quí me delectém datast.
Séd erus eccum ante óstium, et erus álter eccum ex Álide Rédít.

He. Salue, éxoptate gnáte mi.

Ty. Hem, quid gnáte mi ?

11 mi peculias J. huius filius continued to last speaker BJ, assigned to Stal. by Brunck. 12 Viuit ne J. nichil J. 13 istuc ipsius est J. 15 usque adolescentiam J. 16 fortunatus (corr. to fort-) J. uos Camer. dictetis J. 18 me Bent., Br. 20 audax suis BJ, haud ex Par. uiribus J. STALAGMVS om. BJ. 1 acheronti J. Acherons J. 3 lapricidinís B. 4 lassitudo est omnis exigunda BJ, lassitudost exigunda Bent., Lind. 6 anites acoturnices B. qui cum J. 7 aduementi J. hupupa J. quiuel e J. delectet BJ, delectem Cod. Min. 8 ostium et herus J. 9 Redit B, J is illegible.

Áttat, scio cur té patrem esse adsímules et me filium : 10
Quía mi item ut paréntes lucis dáis tuendi cópiam.

PH. Sálue, Tyndare.

TY. Ét tu, quoius caúsa hanc aerumnam éxigo.

1010 PH. Át nunc liber ín diuitias fáxo uenies : nám tibi Páter hic est ; hic séruos, qui te huic hinc quadrimum
súrpuít,

Véndidit patri meo te séx minis. is té mihi 15

Páruolum pecúliarem páruolo pueró dedit.

Íllie indicium fécit : nam una ex Álide huc redúcimur.

TY. Quíd huius filium ?

PH. Íntus eccum, frátrem germanúm tuom.

TY. Quíd tu ais ? addúxtine illunc huius captiuom filium ?

PH. Quín, inquam, intus híc est.

TY. Fecisti édepol et recte ét bene. 20

PH. Núnc tibi pater hic ést : hic fur est tuós, qui paruom hinc te ábstulit.

TY. Át ego hunc grandis grándem natu ob fúrtum ad carnu-ficém dabo.

1020 PH. Méritus est.

TY. Ergo édepol merito méritam mercedém dabo.

Séd dic, oro té, pater meus tún es ?

HE. Ego sum, gnáte mi. 24

TY. [Nunc demum in memoriam redeo, quom mecum cogito]
Núnc edepol demum ín memoriam régredior audísse me,
Quási per nebulam, Hérgionem méum patrem uocárier.

HE. Ís ego sum.

PH. Compédibus quaeso ut tibi sit leuior filius
Átque hic grauior séruos.

HE. Certumst princípium id prauórtier.

Eámus intro, ut árcessatur fáber, ut istas cómpedis 30

Tíbi adimam, huic dem.

ST. Quoí peculi níhil est, recte féceris.

10 adsimules esse B, assimules esse J, esse adsimiles Bent., esse adsimules Fl. 11 tuendae J. 12 erumnam J. 14 seruost B.
seruus J. surripuit BJ. 16 peculiarem J. 17 nam hunc ex BJ.
una Br. 19 aduxtin (adduxtin J.) illum huius filium captiuum BJ.
illunc Br., captiuom filium Lind. 22 nunc J. 23 merito Bossc.
24 te Fl. tune BJ. 26 audissem me BJ. 28 Ego sum BJ. IS EGO
SVM A. TY. Compedibus J. 29 seruus, corr. to -os J. 31 SERVVS Cui peculii J.

METRA CAPTIVORVM.

- Arg. v. 1—9 iambici senarii.
Prol. v. 1 iambicus senarius.
v. 2 iambicus senarius corruptus.
v. 3—68 iambici senarii.
- Act. I Sc. 1 v. 1—41 iambici senarii.
Sc. 2 v. 1—85 iambici senarii.
- Act. II Sc. 1 v. 1, 2 iambici octonarii.
3 iambicus dimeter.
4, 5 iambici octonarii.
6 iambicus senarius.
7 iambicus octonarius.
8 iambicus senarius.
9 iambicus octonarius.
10 trochaica tripodia catalectica cum cretico dimetro.
11 creticus tetrameter.
12 anapaesticus dimeter.
13, 14 cretici tetrametri.
15, 16 anapaestici tetrametri.
17 creticus tetrameter.
18, 19 cretici dimetri cum trochaico monometro.
20 creticus tetrameter.
21 creticus dimeter cum trochaico monometro.
22 anapaesticus dimeter.
23 duae iambicae tripodiae catalecticae.
24—30 cretici tetrametri.
31 iambicus septenarius.
32 iambicus octonarius.
33—37 bacchiaci tetrametri.
38 iambicus septenarius corruptus ut videtur.
39 creticus tetrameter.
40 iambicus dimeter.
41 bacchiacus tetrameter catalecticus.
42—46 cretici tetrametri.
47, 48 trochaici octonarii.
49—57 trochaici septenarii.
- Sc. 2 v. 1—110 trochaici septenarii.
- Sc. 3 v. 1—24 iambici senarii.
25—97 trochaici septenarii.
98 trochaicus septenarius corruptus.
99, 100 trochaici septenarii.
- Act. III Sc. 1 v. 1—37 trochaici septenarii.
So. 2 v. 1, 3 anapaestici dimetri.
2, 4, 5 bacchiaci tetrametri.

- Act. III Sc. 2 v. 6 bacchiacus dimeter.
 7, 8 bacchiacus tetrameter.
 9—12 bacchiacus dimeter catalecticus.
 13 iambicus dimeter catalecticus.
 14 bacchiacus dimeter.
 15—20 numeri corrupti.
- Sc. 3 v. 1—9 iambici octonarii.
 10 iambicus octonarius corruptus.
 11—13 trochaici septenarii.
 14 iambicus octonarius.
 15 iambicus senarius.
 16 trochaicus septenarius.
 17 iambicus senarius corruptus.
- Sc. 4 v. 1 iambicus octonarius.
 2 trochaicus septenarius.
 3 trochaicus octonarius.
 4—8 iambici octonarii.
 9—125 trochaici septenarii.
- Sc. 5 v. 1—109 iambici senarii.
- Act. IV Sc. 1 v. 1, 2 trochaici septenarii.
 3, 4 iambici octonarii.
 5 trochaicus septenarius.
 6, 7 iambici octonarii.
 8 trochaicus septenarius.
 9—13 iambici octonarii.
- Sc. 2 v. 1—3 bacchiaci tetrametri.
 4 iambicus dimeter catalecticus.
 5—7 bacchiaci tetrametri.
 8 bacchiacus tetrameter corruptus.
 9, 10 bacchiaci tetrametri.
 11—52 trochaici septenarii.
 53, 54 iambici octonarii.
 55 creticus tetrameter.
 56 { anapaesticus monometer.
 } creticus dimeter cum trochaico penthemimere.
 57 iambicus septenarius.
 58—120 trochaici septenarii.
- Sc. 3 v. 1—8 trochaici septenarii.
- Sc. 4 v. 1—3 iambici octonarii.
 4 iambicus octonarius corruptus.
 5—14 iambici octonarii.
- Act. V Sc. 1 v. 1—6 bacchiaci tetrametri.
 7, 8 trochaici octonarii.
 9—32 trochaici septenarii.
- Sc. 2 v. 1—24 trochaici septenarii.
- Sc. 3 v. 1—20 trochaici septenarii.
- Sc. 4 v. 1—31 trochaici septenarii.
- Sc. 5 v. 1—8 trochaici septenarii.

NOTES.

ARGUMENT.—It is Ritschl's opinion (Proleg. Trin. p. 317) that all the argumenta prefixed to Plautus' Plays belong to the second century after Christ; whereas Teuffel and Seyffert hold that the acrostics, the great majority, were written during the seventh cent. A.V.C., i.e. about 100 years after the death of Plaut.

[1. in pugna, with hiatus in the caesura of the iambic senarius. In this instance there is a special justification for the hiatus in the fact that it occurs before a proper name, which is made more prominent and distinct when it is entirely severed in pronunciation both from the word that precedes and that which follows. Even Ritschl (Proleg. Trin. p. 204 fol.) conceded the hiatus with proper names in two passages; so Hegio with hiatus again in III 4. 73, v 4. 27; on the other hand, with elision in I 2. 77, III 4. 86.]

2. alium for alterum, and again amittatur (7) for amitteretur (cf. however Mil. II 1. 53), as well as the whole structure of the acrostic, betray the shackles under which the composer was labouring. [The line is a reminiscence of III 5. 102.]

3. Aleos, see on Prol. 9. [Borrowed from I 1. 32.]

4. gnatum captum, i.e. Philopolemus, cf. v. 1.

5. [inibi, the reading authorized by the MSS., means here 'among them,' cf. the Eng. 'therein.' So Aul. Gell. xvii 8 Frequens eius cenae fundus et firmamentum omne erat aula una lentis Aegyptiae et cucurbitae inibi minutim caesae. So with other adverbs, e.g. unde (from whom) nil majus generatur ipso Hor. Od. I 12. 17: the hiatus after the second thesis need not cause any difficulty, especially in one of the Argumenta Acrosticha, when we remember their probable authorship. Most editors accept the conjecture in ibus, an old Latin form with the termination of the 3rd decl. = eis. In favour of this it might be pleaded that the writers of the Arguments and Prologues undoubtedly aimed at imitating the language and prosody of Plautus; thus in this acrostic the form CAPTEIVEI (cf. however Amph. Arg. I 3 Alcumena, whereas Plautus always has Alcumenu, four syllables).—amissum, Tyndarus (Paegnium, v 3. 7).

6. uorsa, i.e. changed.

7. amittatur in the sense of dimittatur, as often in Plautus, e.g. Mil. IV 3. 3, Most. II 2. 2, Men. v 8. 6.—ut amittatur, i.e. ut domini am. We should expect a more explicit antithesis (ut ille am.),

[but the conj. is in Fl.'s text is feeble. Notice, too, the unusual sequence of tenses.]

8. is, Philocrates.

9. Indicio quouis, i. e. fugitivi.—alium, Tyndarum. [The order of words (Ind. quoi.) is not Plautine.]

PROLOGUS.—1. hos, attracted to the case of quos [cf. Virg. Aen. 1 573 urbem quom statuo vestra est] and resumed by the hi which follows, as istos 1 2. 1 by his. [In such cases, the speaker proceeds, as it were, tentatively in constructing his sentence, instead of consciously realizing it as a whole from the first, and thus a noun, placed early for the sake of emphasis, easily falls under the influence of the verb that immediately follows it.]—stare. Although the prisoners do not take any part in the action of the piece until the beginning of the second Act, they are present in chains on the proscenium during the delivery of the Prologue. This would give the audience an opportunity of getting to know their faces and dress, and so avoiding confusion in the sequel.

[2. Evidently a joke, παρὰ προσδοκίαν (cf. Trin. III 2. 97, and Wagner's note). But the reading III of the MSS. is corrupt and makes no sense, for the same persons could not be called III in one line and III in the next; the word has been explained by some as meaning 'there' (illic), but this is not consistent with hic in the line before. Fleckeisen proposes Vincti quois, which cannot be said to be probable.—asto is used in its proper sense of 'to stand doing nothing, idle' ('stand expectant' is often more exact, cf. Virg. Aen. II 303, arrectis auribus ulsto.)]

[4. senex qui hic habitat, modelled on 1 1. 28.]

5. suo sibi. This expression, which occurs again 21 and 1 1. 13, is equivalent to suo ipse; sibi does not depend on the verb, but must be taken closely with suo in the sense of 'his own.' [The phrase cannot be analyzed grammatically; it is rather one of those combinations calculated to produce an effect on the ear. Plautus uses it again Trin. 1 2. 119 reddam suom sibi, where however sibi has more 'raison d'être,' as a dative is required after reddam, and sibi represents ei as well. So in the single instance from Cicero (Phil. II 37. 96 priusquam tu suum sibi venderes, ipse possedit), suum sibi stands also in a close relation to ipse possedit. But the passage above mentioned and Ter. Ad. v 8. 35 suo sibi gladio hunc jugulo, are more difficult to justify, cf. Amph. 1 1. 116.]

6. operam dare, properly 'to be at any one's service,' often in the comic poets in the special sense of 'to give one's attention,' cf. 54, III 4. 85, Trin. Prol. 5.

[8. Alterum, to be pronounced with syncope, altrum. The same pronunciation is necessary to scan Pers. II 2. 44: thus dextera, d. extensorum, ulterior, ultra, exist side by side; cf. surripuit for surripuit.—The line is borrowed from III 5. 102; cf. on Arg. 2.]

9. For the long final syll. in uendidit see Introd. B; also Corssen I 608 seq., II 445, 493.—Alis, Doric form for Elis, as Alēus for Elēus (Ἠλεῖος).

10. [Patri huiusce. Fl. proposes domino patri h., in order to avoid the hiatus. But compare the exactly similar case in Aul. Prol. 5, pātri āvoque, defended by Lachmann on Lucr. III 941. There seems a special reason why huiusce should be made as prominent as possible (cf. note on Arg. 1), for the person meant is not the same as the huius of 4. Gepp. and Brix. read Huius patri iamue.—jam h. t. The same address to the audience, Poen. Prol. 116, Amph. I 2. 23. [Note the absence of an interrogative particle after iam.]—optumumst. The spectators are supposed to nod assent. [Such familiarities are quite in the style of the Prologues; cf. Men. Prol. 51—55 and again 72 seq. Even at the present day one may hear on the Italian stage such a dialogue as the following :

Actor. Signori, domani sera ci sarà una rappresentazione, intitolata i tre principi di Salerno; il primo l'ammazzera il secondo, il secondo l'ammazzera il terzo.

One of the audience. Il terzo, chi l'ammazzera ?

Actor. L'ammazzereate voi S'jor Paimo; e poi, se ci volete venir, veniteci; se non ci volete venir—accidenti !]

11. Negat. On the long syll. -āt, see Introd. B [and comp. Lucr. II 27 (fulgēt)].—ultimus, one supposed to have come too late to find a seat, and to be standing at the back. After accedito we must imagine a short pause; the person addressed showing no signs of obeying, because he sees no room in front, the speaker of the Prologue calls to him, si non ubi sedeas, &c., 'If there is no room for you to sit down, there is room for you to take a walk (outside).' Est ubi ambules is thus an indirect way of saying abi. Similarly Mil. II 1. 3, 4,

Qui autem auscultare nōlet, exurgāt foras,
Ut sit, ubi sedent ille qui auscultāre uult.

Possibly there is a reference to the open promenade (ambalacrum) attached to every theatre; the theatrum Pompeii (the first stone theatre, built B.C. 55) possessed one of large dimensions (see Wieseler Theatergebäude, Tab. II 12A). [Bentley (on Ter. Haut. Prol. 31) proposed to read discedito, considering that accedito was inconsistent with est ubi ambules; but the difficulty may be overcome as above.]

[13. Sense: you must be off, as otherwise you force the actor to play the beggar, i.e. to solicit from every one present individually the assurance that he has made himself heard, as the beggar goes from house to house. Geppert understands mendicariet literally, as though the speaker meant that, if he overstrained and cracked his voice, his occupation would be gone. So too Brix.]

14. me.....non rupturus sum, 'I have no intention of cracking my lungs' (κεκραγῶς διαρρήγισσομαι), cf. Poen. III 1. 37, tua cuncti uento nostrorum est suos rupturus ramices (blood-vessels).

15. Qui potestis censerier, i.e. those sitting near the stage, the wealthy classes (the Senators and Equites), as opposed to the capite censi. [But ope for opibus, 'wealth,' is unparalleled. In the Roman theatre the orchestra, being no longer occupied, as at Athens, by the Chorus, was reserved for the seats of the Senators. This arrangement came into force B.C. 194 (see Livy xxxiv 44. 5, and 54. 4—8 ut loca senatoria secernerent a populo. nam antea in promiscuo spectabant), and probably at some date between B.C. 194 and B.C. 67, places near the stage were also assigned to the Equites; for Cicero speaks of the law of Roscius Otho (67) as merely restoring to them a right which they had possessed before in some shape (pro Murena, § 19. 40, equestri ordini restituit dignitatem).]

16. relicuom. The remainder of the argumentum is compared to the balance of a debt due to the opibus censi, for it is the wealthy to whom debts are usually contracted; cf. Cist. i 3. 40 nunc quod relicuom restat uolo persolvere, ut expungatur nomen, ne quid debeam. [So in Cicero reliqua often for the balance of a debt.]—[nil moror, here 'I dislike'; so Hor. Ep. i 15. 16 nam uinu nihil moror illius orae. The root idea in this expression was perhaps 'I do not dwell upon (with affliction).' Hence it was used (1) negatively, in the sense 'I am indifferent to' (e.g. Virg. Aen. ii 365 et esse nil moror, 'I care not if I am'); (2) as an expression of positive aversion, 'I cannot bear,' as in the above passage from Horace. In the English 'I do not care' there is a similar ambiguity.]

17. dixeram may mean 'had said,' i.e. at the time when I was interrupted by the 'ultimus' (11); but perhaps it is here, as often in Plaut., not a genuine praeteritum in praeterito, but simply = dixi or dixebam; so ii 2. 55, v 1. 18, Men. ii 3. 77, pallam illam quam dudum dederas. Aul. iv 4. 8 Nil equidem tibi abstuli; at illud quod tibi abstuleras, cedo. This tense is also found in Terence; in Plautus especially at the end of a line; see too Cic. Verr. iv 22. 48 quod ante de istius abstinentia dixeram.

18. dominum, i.e. the son of his master (filium erilem).

19. is, Theodoromedes.

20. quasi = fere. Most. iii 1. 91 debet quasi quadraginta minas. Ter. Haut. i 1. 94 quasi talenta ul quindecim coegi.—una = eadem, so una rest iii 1. 28.—[Peculiaris is the word used by Plautus himself several times, e.g. v 3. 5.]

[21. suo patri. The mention of another son and another father just before makes it necessary for the speaker to be very explicit. The story is indeed somewhat complicated.]

22. pilas, cf. Plato Legg. 803 ἀθροῶπον θεοῦ τι παίγνιον εἶναι, Meineke Fragm. p. 697 τοιούτου τὸ ζῆν ἔστιν, ὡσπερ οἱ κύβοι.

24. [The object of the speaker is to fulfil his promise given in verses 5 and 6; but in order to explain how it has come about that the one son is a slave to his own father, he has to interrupt the story of his fortunes and tell about the capture of the other son in war. The line is modelled upon i 1. 25.]—belligerant. The historical present after postquam and quom is a common conversational idiom; see III 1. 25, II 2. 32, IV 2. 107, Mil. IV 8. 21, Cure. II 3. 46, Amph. II 2. 45.—[cum Aleis, cf. note on line 31 for hiatus in the caesura minor, and II 3. 35 for another instance in which the word cum is not elided. See on the whole subject of non-elision of syllables ending in m, Corssen II 790, and comp. Cure. IV 2. 37 etc. It is probable that in the Latin of the time of Plautus, m had only partially lost its consonantal character.]

25. fit. The original quantity of the vowel is preserved, as in scit II 2. 106, it Cure. IV 2. 3; cf. Greek λέγει(τ), and Introd. B, Corssen II 491.

26. Alide, name of the country, not the town; see on III 4. 41.

27. Hic, i.e. Heqio. [But this is harsh, and Geppert supposes that some lines have fallen out after Alide. We should certainly have expected to be told that Menarchus was a client of Theodoromedes, which is an important fact in the development of the story (see II 2. 85 seq.).—commercari. The prefix signifies ‘thoroughly,’ as in the Eng. ‘buy up,’ so coemo, cf. comedo (eat up), comburo (burn up).]—The whole line is modelled upon i 1. 32.

28. si, ‘in the hope that;’ so i 1. 32, Trin. II 4. 131, IV 2. 117. [Virg. A. II 136, 756.]—qui mutet suum, Eng. ‘whom he might exchange for his own son.’—qui (an old abl. = quo, see i 1. 33, Trin. Prol. 14) is an emendation of Fl. [For the abl. with mutare, cf. Hor. Od. I 17. 1 Velox amoenum saepe Lucretilem Mutat Lyceo Fauvus. In these cases mutare means ‘to take in exchange,’ and the abl. is analogous to an abl. of price. On the other hand, we find in Od. I 16. 26 mutare tristia mitibus, where it means ‘give in exchange for.’]

[29. Again the speaker uses every effort to make his meaning clear, and to avoid any confusion of the son captured in war with the son who is a slave to his own father.]

[30. indandiūt, a certain correction. The old form of the preposition in is seen in such words as ind-ipsior, ind-no, ind-utiae, indigena, ind-oles, indu-pertor. Indandive means ‘to catch the first sound,’ on the analogy of imbuo ‘to give a first wetting,’ informare ‘to give the first shape.’ Hence the idea of imperfection in these verbs, e.g. litteris Graecis imbutus = with a smattering of Greek learning.]

[31. For the hiatus in the caesura minor, compare Men. III 3. 3, III 2. 30, Poen. I 3. 34, etc. With this proper name there occurs hiatus above, line 24 and in i 2. 60.]

32. A play upon the word parcere; cf. Truc. II 4. 24 utiuiam item a principio rei pepercisses meum ut nunc repercis suum [‘he was not saving of his money, if only he might be saving of his son.’]

33. reconciliare, as in the lines of Plautus himself, I 2. 59, III 4. 44 = recuperare, recipere (I 1. 35). So conciliare I 2. 22 (ante-classical).

34. [I have followed Fl., Br. and Studemund, in transposing hosce de praeda, and correcting the second de (which is very clumsy and may have been caused by the termination da) to a, in accordance with the reading of the MSS. in II 3. 93, from which and I 2. 2 the present line seems to have been borrowed. In Epid. v l. 15 the Ambrosian MS. preserves the phrase emi de praeda, where the other MSS. have ex praeda.]—quaestoribus, as though the scene were laid in Rome. The quaestores urbani were entrusted with the task of selling the war booty and prisoners.

35. hisce, nom. pl. (for hi-ce), sometimes hisce. This old form of the termination is attested by inscriptions not only for the pronouns hic, ille, is, idem, qui, but also for substantives of the 2nd decl.; e.g. we find conscriptois, publiceis, etc. [A still earlier form was es, e.g. magistres, Atilies.]

36. amittat, see on Arg. 7.

39. According to Ritschl (Opusc. II p. 687) we are to scan hic illius.

44. [imprudens, ‘unintentionally.’]—saepe jam multis in locis, a pleonastic expression, which has held its ground even in later Latin.

[46. Sed is resumptive, after the digressive remark itidem . . . boni.]

[48. An interpolation, probably a gloss on line 46, itaque corresponding to Sed. Brix, after Lorenz, brackets 46—49.]

49. ad, even with names of persons, has sometimes the sense of apud, where there is a collateral notion of place; cf. III 5. 41, Stich. III 1. 35 jubebo ad Sagarinum cenam coqui.

[50. The speaker has now fulfilled his promise given in verses 5 and 6.]

[51. Bracketed by Fl. as an ‘interpolatio foedissima,’ on the ground both of sense and metre. But to strike out all the lines of doubtful elegance in the Arguments and Prologues is to ignore their character and origin; cf. note on 10; cum belle recogito occurs Curc. III 5.]

52. vobis fabula. ‘Nos hoc representabimus ornatu, voce, vultu gestuque quasi rem veram, quasi essemus illi, quibus hoc evenit: vobis id erit spectaculum et ludus.’ Gronovius. Lessing proposed to invert the order of the words nobis, vobis; but the above sense is more natural.

53. etiam, ‘further,’ ‘in addition.’—voluerim, potential, see II 2. 59.

55. non pertractate, ‘not in the ordinary hackneyed manner,’ [an ἀπ. λεγ., and a very strange expression.]

56. [This is a true description of the play; see Introd.]—inmemorabiles non memorandi. Adjectives in bilis usually denote ‘what may be,’ but sometimes in Plautus ‘what must be,’ e.g. Rud. III 2. 40 Edipol infortunio hominum praedicas donabilem (= donandum).

Sometimes, again, they have an active signification, e.g. adjutabilis (Eng. serviceable) Mil. iv 4. 8, voluptabilis (pleasing) Epid. i 1. 19, impenetrabilis (successful) Most. v 2. 40. To these add the penetrabile frigus (piercing cold) of Virgil, and Cic. de Nat. Deor. ii 36. 91 natura animabilis (quickening), ibid. 39. 98 varietas insatiabilis (which never produces satiety, never cloy).

57. Periurus leno, etc., some of the stock characters of comedy.

[58. ne vereamini, in the spirit of Bottom (Midsummer Night's Dream, Act iii Sc. 1): "Fair ladies, I would entreat you not to fear . . . if you think I come hither as a lion, it were pity of my life," etc.]

60. foris illic. For the short syll. foris see Introd. A (ii).—[Nothing would have pleased the audience better than a little fighting on the stage; the speaker of the Prol. here comically disappoints any expectation that his words Ne vereamini, etc., might have raised.]

61. iniquomst, 'would be an unfair demand.' [For the indicative, cf. longum est ea dicere; sed hoc breve dicam (Cic. Sest. 5.) 'it would be tedious.']—choragium, here 'stage properties' (instrumentum scenarum). The choragus of the Romans was an essentially different person from the χορηγός of the Athenians, and seems to have been merely a 'costumier,' whose business was not even confined to the theatre (cf. Pers. i 3. 79). Similarly choragium has nothing of the meaning of χορηγίον, but denotes 'wardrobe' in general. It is therefore the addition of comicum which gives the special reference to the theatre. [Similarly the verb χορηγέω becomes quite general, e.g. in Arist. Eth. Nic. 10. 15 τοῖς ἐκτὸς ἀγαθοῖς ἰκανῶς κεχορηγημένον.]

62. tragoediam. Battles were not represented on the stage either in the Greek tragedies or in the Roman fabulae crepidatae imitated from them; but that they were sometimes introduced into the praetextae or tragedies on native Roman subjects is attested by Hor. Ep. ii. 1. 189 seq. and Cic. ad Fam. vii 1. 2. [As the praetexta is to the crepidata, so is the topata (Latin comedy of Roman life) to the palliata (Latin comedy representing Greek life and manners).]—nos. The speaker of the Prol. is therefore one of the actors; cf. Prol. Poen. 125 alius nunc juri uolo.

[65. faciam ut, 'I will take care, warrant.']

68. duellum, old form of bellum, always pronounced with synizesis as two syllables.—duelli duellatores balances domi milites ['as you are gallant soldiers in war; for que cf. Hor. Ep. i 6. 31 Virtutem uerba putas et lucum ligna.]

I. 1.

1. The Menaechmi opens by a similar remark of the parasite Peniculus, who explains the origin of his name. Parasites were usually dressed in black or grey clothes, with the addition of all sorts of devices to excite ridicule (see Lorenz, Introd. to Most. p. 16).

2. inuocatus, 'an uninvited guest.'

3. derisores, 'wags,' i.e. other parasites, who did not approve of the witticism at the expense of one of their class.—[absurde, 'flat,' 'out of place,' cf. vox absurda et absurda Cic. de Or. III 11. 41.]

[4. Erg. however does not mind finding a new meaning in this jest at his own expense.]

5. sibi inuocat, 'invokes.' It was a Greek custom when casting dice to call upon the name of some deity or one's mistress for luck; for an example see Curc. II 3. 75 seq. [The MSS. here repeat scortum: I have followed G. Götz and Brix in cancelling the word and putting sibi from the beginning of the line in its place.]

[6. The scortum therefore is 'invoked,' 'pledged in drinking,' at the banquet.]

7. Verum hercle uero, again Curc. III 5; and in the same sense we have uerum enim uero Capt. V 4. 2.—planius, i.e. are more obviously inuocati.

8. inuocat, i.e. in the sense of line 5.

9. The parasite Saturio uses the same simile of himself and his tribe, Persa I 2. 6.

10. res prolatae sunt, 'public business is suspended' (lit. 'is put off' till a later date), as sometimes happened in time of war or on account of public games or excessive heat of weather. A Roman allusion, see on 22, and cf. 30 seq., I 2. 2, I 2. 44—55.

12. quasi = sicut, and to be joined with latent and uiuunt.—caletur impersonally for calct, so Truc. I 1. 46.

13. suo sibi, see note on Prol. 5.

15. in occulto, see Introd. A (ii) and (iv).

16. rurant = rustigantur.

17. uenatici canes, because equally lean.~

18. redierunt, sc. res, the opposite of prolatae sunt: so in Cic. it is a regular business expression.—Molossici, odiosici, incommodestici, are words humorously formed (from Molossi, odiosi, incomodi) with the same termination as uenatici, as though they were all different breeds of dogs. [The canis Molossus (Hor. Epod. 6. 5) was a large breed from Epirus, often employed as house dogs, and hence leading a protected, well-to-do life.]

20. [hic, adv.].—potis, i.e. potis est = potest. So Trin. II 2. 75 potest for potest es = potis. [Potis is thoroughly Plautine; but potest would be supported by J.]

21. frangique in caput. So Saturio in Persa I 2. 8 cognomentum erat duris captiuihus.—aula the only form in Pl. for olla.

22. The reading in the text is Fl.'s emendation. Ire (after uel) and licet of the MSS. are probably a gloss upon illicet, which has crept into the text.—portam Triginam. The scene is in Aetolia;

but Roman names and allusions are not rigidly excluded. The Porta Trigemina, situated at the northern extremity of the Aventine and close to the Tiber, lay directly on the line of traffic between the Emporium or merchant dock, which was just outside the gate, and the city. [It is not certain what is the meaning of saccus here; it is nowhere (else) applied to a beggar's wallet. Near the Porta Trig. there would be plenty of work for porters, and perhaps saccus means baggage or packages.]—ilicet (i.e. ire licet, cf. III 1. 9) ad s. 'let him lend a hand at porter's work.'

24. rex is the rich patron; so βασιλεύς in Greek comedy.—est potitus hostium, in passive sense (potire aliquem aliquid = 'to put some one in the power of some person or thing'). So in Amph. I 1. 23 eum nunc potiaūt pater s. ciuitatis. [Potitus hostium occurs twice again in this play, I 2. 35, III 5. 104, and also Epid. IV 1. 7, 39.]

[25—29, a parenthesis; 25 and 26 seem at first sight to come too late after the full statements of the Prologue; but perhaps the original play opened at this scene without a Prologue.]

[26. illi, a form of illie, often in Plaut., e.g. Capt. II 2. 73, 91, Amph. Prol. 133. The MSS. sometimes substitute illie, the better known word.]

[30. Nunc hic ocepit. This is not the apodosis to 24, but another parenthetical remark. The sentence commenced in 24 (Nam postquam, etc.) loses itself, and the apodosis demanded by the sense (nihil est quo me recipiam) appears as the apodosis of another sentence.]

[31. inhonestum quaestum, i.e. as a slave dealer (cf. I 2. 20 quaestum carcerarium).]

[33. qui, see on Prol. 28.]

34. nimis quam, 'excessively'; cf. Most. II 2. 78 nimis quam formido. [Cf. mirum quam, mirum quantum; the word quam has lost the sense of a relative in these combinations; cf. ὑπερφυῶς ὤς.]

35. recipit . . . recipiam. A play upon words; cf. I 2. 12.

36. sese, only themselves. [In may easily have dropped out before innentate, especially if written in one word, according to the custom of J.—For the scansion innentate see Introd. A (ii).]

37. ille demum. He and none but he, cf. v 4. 3, Sall. Cat. 20. 4 Idem velle et idem nolle, ea demum firma amicitia est. [Demum, originally of time ('not till') has passed into the meaning of 'only,' like the German erst.]—antiquis, cf. Ter. Ad. III 3. 88 antiqua virtute ac fide.

[38. gratiis and ingratiis (later forms gratis, ingratis, see Introd. C) are ablatives derived from gratia, and mean literally 'by favour' and the opposite. Hence the more special meanings of (1) 'for nothing' (Eng. 'for love'), and (2) 'to the heart's desire, welcome (to the recipient),' and their opposites. For (1) cf. Capt. II 3. 48, v 1.

28; for (2) Men. v 8. 5, Lucr. III 935 (Nam gratis anteacta fuit tibi uita.)]

39. condigne, in a manner 'worthy of him,' i.e. 'like him.'—moratus moribus, as Asin. III 1. 3 istoc more moratum. Ter. Hec. IV 4. 22 quibus moratam moribus.

[41. Saturitate ebrius. This is not equivalent to ad saturitatem ebrius, 'so drunk that one is sated with drinking and can drink no more;' the parasite concerned himself more with eating than drinking, cf. IV 2. 97. Rather ebrius, which in its proper sense relates to drinking, is here metaphorically transferred to eating, 'intoxicated with repletion,' as Horace (Od. I 37. 12) applies it to the exhilaration of success (fortuna dulci ebrius), and Lucretius (III 1051) to the stupefaction caused by trouble (ebrius curis.)]

I. 2.

1. For the anapaestic word in the second foot of the Senarius cf. Trin. II 3. 6.—sis, contracted for si uis, as fortassis for forte an si uis, sultis for si uoltis (see II 3. 96), sodes for si aules.—istos, by attraction; see on Prol. 1. [Iste is here used of a person not present, cf. v 3. 10, 13.]

[3. Catenas singularias, probably a technical term for some lighter kind of manacle. Lamb. explains singul. as simplices, minores, in opposition to istas maiores.]

6. uti for uide uti, to convey a command. [Or, for itu ut (limiting) 'yet only on condition that.'—diligentia, abl.]

9. postillac (formed like posthac) [postillac for post illam, the reading of B and J (written postillā), is a slight change].

11. non uidere, i.e. else you would save up money (peculium) and purchase your freedom.—uidere ita. Modal adverbs like itu, sic, item, ut, are often used in connection with esse, uideri and similar verbs in the sense of talis, qualis, i.e. instead of an adjective; see II 1. 35, II 2. 57. Amph. II 1. 24 AM. Homo hic ebrius est. So. Utinam ita essem [Eng. 'So I wish I was:' above we might translate 'Not so you, apparently;'] cf. Cic. Phil. II 5. 10, vel quod ita factus, etc.]

12. [Si non est (mih) cf. Asin. I 3. 43 quid, si non est?]—quod dem, i.e. money to buy myself off; dem me in pedes, a play upon the word dare, 'to take to my heels;' cf. se in pedes conicere Ter. Phorm. I 4. 13.

13. si dederis, sc. te in pedes.—dem tibi, i.e. magnum malum.

14. ut praedicas, 'to use your own comparison;' see lines 7—9, especially the last. He means, 'I will wait for an opportunity, and then you will never see me again.' For ut praedicas cf. Mil. II 5. 61.

15. ita ut dicis, ironical consent. 'Very good; then I will treat you as such: beware of the cage!' [For the MS. reading si furis,

[38. par, 'it is natural;'] Luer. uses the expression in the sense of 'it follows (as an inference),' συμβαίνει; see I 361.]

40. dixis, induxis, are probably syncopated perfect subjunctives; their original and full form being dixisis, induxisis (hence dixesis, dixis), from perf. indic. duxi, induxi, parallel to the ordinary dixeris, induxeris, but always used with a future signification. Similar formations are common enough in early Latin writers; e.g. facim, axim, capsis (which Cic. Or. § 154, falsely explained as a contraction of cape si uis) from old perfects faxi, axi, capsi. [For different views as to their origin, see Madv. § 115 f.; Roby §§ 619—625.]

43. bonum animum. He explains why, line 58.—animum. Eheu. The hiatus with interjections is the rule in all poets. [Here also with caesura and change of speaker.]—huic, i.e. uentri, accompanied by a gesture; similarly Epid. I 1. 8. Or huic may stand for mihi, as in Greek ὄδ' ἀνὴρ (cf. O. T. 534); Merc. v 4. 36 huic senem (= me) para chuentem.—dolere, 'cause pain,' as Amph. I 1. 255 mihi malae dolent.

44. quia, as regularly in Plautus after the 'verba Affectuum' (doleo, gaudeo, suscenseo, laetus sum, etc.); later usage decided in favour of quod (see Trin. II 2. 15).—exercitus. The Comitia Centuriata, in virtue of its military organization, was called exercitus urbanus, and the usual phrases for to summon and to dismiss it were imperare exercitum, remittere exercitum [see Ramsay's Antiquities, ch. IV p. 121].

47. The Procelesmatic, Philopotenus, is excused as being a proper name; cf. however III 1. 33 (in the 2nd foot).

[48. Prouincia, in the sense of 'task,' 'charge,' cf. III 1. 14, Mil. IV 4. 23, Pseud. I 2. 16 (in the plural). Plautus compares the giver of a feast to the presiding magistrate in the Comitia (cf. imperator, 57).]

50. Working out the metaphor of 44, Hegio enumerates the various dishes at a banquet, as so many different contingents of soldiers, the names of which (derived from pistor, pauis, placenta, turdus, ficodula) at the same time resemble names of towns or peoples; the Pistorenses suggest the inhabitants of Pistoria in Etruria [properly Pistorienses], the Turdetani, a well-known tribe in the south of Spain, the Placuntini, the town of Placentia.—[Multigeneris is a word used again by Plaut. Stich. II 3. 59. He seems to have been fond of coining compounds of multus, e.g. multibibus, multiloquax, multipotens, multimodis (used also by Luer. and Ennius).]—opus est tibi. The parasite also had his 'provincia' in the preparation of the banquet (see III 1. 14); if the giver of the feast was the consul, the parasite was the lictor.

55. maritimi omnes milites, 'marines of every kind,' alluding to the various sorts of fish at table; cf. Men. v 1. 17 omnia mala ingererat 'abuse of every kind.'—[For opus sunt, cf. Cic. de Invent. 2. 19 ex multa permulta opus sunt, and Madv. § 266.]

59. In his diebus, 'within the next few days,' so Pseud. i 3. 97 in hoc triduo, with which cf. Ter. Ad. iv 1. 4 triduo hoc, in the same sense.—reconciliassere. Old fut. perf. infin. from reconciliasso (asso), which is a contr. form of reconciliauiso, and therefore parallel to reconciliauero; cf. note on 40.

[60. Has hiatus both in the caesura maior and the caesura minor, the latter justified by the proper name; see on Arg. 1 and Pröl. 31.—eccum, eccum aliquid notat, quod non videtur Taubmann. So Mil. III 1. 192, where Gruter remarks, 'eccum non tantum dici de eis qui in conspectu sunt, sed etiam qui in vicinia,' and cf. Capt. v 4. 18, Aul. iv 10. 55. Hegio probably accompanies his words with a gesture, pointing to his house, in which the captives are.]

62. If the reading fore is not corrupt, this is a solitary instance in which it is joined with the acc. cum infin. instead of ut and subj. (ut mutem). We may find a parallel, however, in Amph. i 1. 17 quodcumque homini accidit lubere, posse retar. See Lachmann on Lucr. p. 297.

64. nusquam. Here 'no-*with*er,' equivalent to non quoquam; cf. Cist. iv 2. 37 hinc nusquam abiit. So usquam, Most. III 2. 172 equidem haud usquam a pedibus absecdam tuis. Similarly intus admits of two meanings; firstly, rest within; secondly, movement 'from within' (ἐνδοθεν), Men. i 3. 35 euocate intus Cylindrum. Again, peregre admits both the idea of motion to and that of motion from, in addition to its original meaning, (1) in a foreign land; (2) to a foreign land, Trin. i 2. 112; (3) from a foreign land, Most. III 1 79, Amph. i 1. 8, 208.

65. The Greeks as well as the Romans celebrated the birthday by an entertainment; τὰ γενέθλια ἐορτάζειν, natalicior daptes, Pers. v 1. 16 seq.

[67. facete dictum, 'capital, 'very good' (lit. cleverly said, cf. II 2. 26). Hegio had seemed to imply that he could only hope his invitation to be accepted because it was a special occasion.]—pausillum with contentus, 'just a little bit moderate in your expectations'; cf. multum miseri Stieh. II 1. 52, multum loquaces Aul. II 1. 5, multum demissus homo Hor. Sat. i 3. 57. [Lamb. proposed pausillo, which would be easier, but the MSS. have perpausillum in the next line too.]

[68. ne perpausillum modo = dum modo ne (cf. Ter. Adel. v 3. 49), 'so long as you don't mean a very little bit.' Heg. of course meant by 'a little moderate' (pausillum contentus) 'considerably moderate' (litotes); and Erg. accommodates his answer to this sense, 'Don't ask me to be very considerably moderate.' At the same time, when he says perpausillum, he is thinking also of a possible deficiency of supplies, 'a very little dinner,' and it is this sense which first strikes the ear.]

69. adsiduo adv. = semper; cf. Amph. i 1. 14.

70. The sense is: HE. 'Come now, state your demand!' ER.

‘Going, going, gone!’ (i.e. I accept your invitation, unless some one makes me a better offer). In answer to Erg.’s protest against a too stingy entertainment, Hegio humorously proposes to settle the matter by a formal contract (stipulatio), Erg. making his demand as to each item of the feast (rogare), and Hegio declaring his consent or refusal (promittere). There is a good instance of such a contract in full (here merely hinted at in the word roga) in Bacch. iv 7. 40 seq. The parasite, replying to this jest with another, represents invitation and acceptance of invitation as a bargain for sale, in which Hegio appears as purchaser, Erg. as vendor, the article to be sold to the highest bidder being the company of Erg. at dinner.—[Emptum (tibi est) is the formula employed in concluding a bargain; cf. Epid. iii 4. 39 Estne empti mi haec? PE. His legibus habebis licet.]

71. condicio came to be used technically, as Uss. says, for an invitation or engagement; cf. Mart. xi 52. 1:

Cenabis belle, Iuli Cerealis apud me;
Condicio est melior si tibi nulla, veni.

73. By profundum of course understand uenter, so barathrum (Curc. i 2. 32).

74. em, ‘look you.’ This form of the demonstrative particle en (acc. of the pronoun is) is strongly supported by the MSS. in many passages of Plautus and Terence, and sometimes demanded by the metre. The interjection hem, which is frequently confounded with it in the later, and occasionally even in the earlier MSS., is an entirely different word, an expression of strong emotion (joy, sorrow or surprise).

75. Heg. compares his own humble dinner to a weasel, a more sumptuous one to a hare.

76. My fare is like a rough, stony road, and a dinner with me a tough piece of work to get through.

77. Sense ‘No, it won’t do; you can’t frighten me off like that.’—

79. sane concessive. ‘Your well-shod teeth will be necessary.’—essitare frequentative, formed by adding -ita to the supine stem (in which the final dental of the root appears as s before s). Similar formations are curs-itare, hues-itare, uent-itare, etc.

80. terrstris cena ‘a countrified meal,’ i.e. quae nihil nisi terra natum habet.

81. multis holeribus descriptive abl. i.e. without meat.—[curato aegrotos, i.e. vegetables are sick man’s fare.]

82. Numquid vis? ‘is there anything more I can do for you?’ the usual formula in leave-taking. Cf. Hor. Sat. i 9. 6. So too, numquid aliud? Capt. ii 3. 88.

85. iri. For the pres. instead of the fut. infin. after verbs sperandi, promittendi, etc. (as in Eng. ‘I hope to do it’), cf. Trin. Prolog. 5 si quidem operam d-ure promittitis. Ter. Eun. iii 3. 14. The omission of the acc. before the infin., after verbs dicendi and sentienti, where the subject of the infin. is the same as the subject of the principal verb (as in Greek), is common enough in Plaut.: see the above quoted passage from the Trin., and compare iv 2. 114, Capt. ii 3. 5, Most. iii 1. 99, Pers. iv 4. 53, Pseud. i 5. 152, Asin. ii 3. 14, iv 1. 61. —dixeram, see line 17 (and note on Prol. 17). Hegio does not, however, actually go until the end of the first Act (Act ii) after the departure of Philocrates.—[iuro. For the sense of the future perfect, see on ii 2. 65.]

II. 1.

A Canticum.—As announced in the Prologue (38, 39), the prisoners appear from the first with changed names and dresses.

1. si denotes not a supposition but a fact, ‘since;’ cf. line 4 and iii 4. 13. So often siquidem.—exequi, cf. egestatem exequi Trin. iii 2. 60, mortem exequi Pseud. iv 2. 38.

2. On the scansion of decet see Introd. B, on the short final syll. of labos, Introd. A (i). [For the sentiment cf. Hor. Od. i 24,

Durum, sed lenius fit patientia
Quicquid corrigere est nefas.]

3. On domi see Intr. A (i); on the synzesis in fuistis Intr. C.

[5. No very satisfactory emendation of this passage has yet been proposed: that of Lamb. Atque herile imperium ingenii vestris leno reddere is somewhat too bold, but hits the sense.]

6. Indigna, digna, absolutely, cf. Trin. ii 4. 47.

[7. The meaning is, ‘No need to cry out; your eyes express your indignation sufficiently.’—Editis for -clitis of the MSS., which not uncommonly confound cl with d, owing to the resemblance of the two. Thus in ii 2. 99 J has perido corrected to -clo, in iii 5. 31 B has clucus (rightly), J ducus.]

9. quia, see note on i 2. 44.—There is the same antithesis of pudet and piget, ‘to be ashamed’ and ‘to be vexed,’ in Trin. ii 2. 67 seq.—cum catenis esse, ‘to wear chains,’ as Cic. Mil. iv 11 esse cum telo ‘to be armed with a weapon.’

11. emerit. Attractio modi, cf. Mil. ii 4. 17.

12. The shortening of a in anapaestic verse, may be illustrated by Most. iv 4. 20 quid? à Trínione seruo?

13. Scire officium, cf. Poen. Prol. 12.

[14. The line ends with a choriambus, a foot not unfrequently found in any place in the cretic tetrameter; we have it in the last foot again Pseud. v 1. 3; see Christ Metrik, p. 394.]

16. Dehortor with synzesis of Intr. C.—On the long final syll. erit see Prol. 65, Intr. B.

18. Sine hisce arbitris atque vobis. As Hegio only kept the two captives most recently purchased at his own house, the rest of them being at his brother's, hisee must refer to the domestic slaves of Hegio, who, out of curiosity, we may suppose, were standing about and watching the strangers.—arbitris (witnesses) belongs both to hisee and nobis.

20. abscedite to the house slaves; nos to the other lorarii. The two prisoners thus remain watched from two opposite sides.

[21. incipisse, imperative from incipisso.]

[22. concede huc is addressed to Tyndarus. Some commentators have given the verse to Tynd. on the ground that the supposed master ought to give the command; but in 26, it is Phil. who actually opens the conversation; and a great deal of initiative was allowed to slaves, who were the confidential advisers of their masters.]

23. abite ab istis to the two prisoners.—obnoxii, 'obliged,' cf. Trin. iv 3. 56.

[24. quom, see note on II 2. 106.—quae uolumus, i.e. eorum quae.]

26. nunciam, not nunc iam; the old form of nunc was nunci (cf. nuncine, Ter. Andr. iv 1. 59), as that of quom was quoni. Nunciam is exactly parallel to quonium, the -am in either case being an adverbial ending, giving an emphasis to the word to which it is attached. Similarly etiam is not from et, but from an obsolete eti, allied to ἔτι.

28. neu = et ne, 'and lest our trick so leak out,' i.e. if we are observed (the second thing to be guarded against is not an independent alternative of the first); Pseud. i 3. 103 Ne illam uentus neu me perdas hominem amantem.—arbitrari, 'observe;' cf. Aul. iv 1. 21 hinc ego potero quid agant arbitrarier.

30. id, referring in a general manner to doli 'what one is plotting.'

31. si, 'even though' the exchange of our dresses has been successfully effected.

34. For the parataxis, cf. note on III 2. 5.

35. ero ut, i.e. 'you may rely upon me.'—ut, cf. note on I 2. 11.

36. Nam, i.e. 'and rightly, for,' etc.

37. offerre uilitati, i.e. hold cheap (properly, 'sacrifice to cheapness'), i.e. if Heg. discovers the fraud.

[38. Scio with hiatus, justified by the change of speakers.]

39. maxima pars . . . homines, an apposition instead of the genitive.

40. impetrant, i.e. try to gain.

[43. nunc, etc. i.e. 'As I just now (line 35) promised to be as you would wish me to be, so now I tell you how I wish you to behave to me.'—uolo, the indic. for subj. in a dependent question, as so often in Pl.; see above I 4 and III 4. 25; Aul. i 1. 7 uide ut incedit.]—

[44 is corrupt; suauetam is perhaps traceable to si auetam in the next line; and meo patri is meaningless.]

45. patrem, because of his great readiness to sacrifice himself.

[47. audio, deprecating further compliments, 'Eh! trêve de douceurs!' cf. Ter. Phorm. I 3. 8, where audio is also used to cut short the speech of another.—te with hiatus.—ut meminervis. What Tynd. is to remember is contained in the following line, 'Non ego erus tibi sed servus sum.']

48. hoc unum, i.e. what follows in line 50.

49. animum, 'will.'

50. ut qui = quippe qui.—erum me tibi fuisse, 'that I should be your master no longer;' cf. fuimus Trois in Virgil and Capt. III 3. 1, III 4. 43, Most. IV 4. 10 moda cum uisisse uidebant, i.e. 'that he died shortly before.'—[esse is a pyrrhic.]

[51. quod antehac, cf. Introd. A (i). Quod means 'whereas.']

[53. The MSS. have perque; cf. on III 2. 5 and IV 2. 11.]

54. honore honestes again II 2. 106; cf. laudibus laudare II 3. 60, 62, memoria meminisse II 3. 33, lucē lucēbit Cure. I 3. 26.—[secus, 'Don't treat me with any more ceremony than I treated you when,' etc. This must be the sense, however harsh it is to supply (after quam) ego te.]

[55. qui fueris, i.e. in order that you may know how a slave is usually treated by his master.]

57. memoriter meminisse, cf. on I 2. 29, and add memorat memoriter Amph. I 1. 261, nitide nitet Truc. II 4. 3, properare prosperas Cure. IV 3. 3, cupido cupis Cas. II 3. 51, tacitus taceas tute tecum Epid. V 1. 44, multide mulere Pseud. V 2. 13.

II. 2.

1. Spoken by Hegio, as he is coming out of the house, to some one inside, iam with a future tense 'immediately' [cf. Hor. Od. I 4. 16 Iam te premit uox.—ex his, i.e. Phil. and Tynd., who had been, according to his orders, brought from within the house, where they had been guarded during the preceding scenes. He is surprised not to see them at once, not knowing that they have received permission to step on one side, in order to converse together.]

3. Tibi is not to be joined with cantum.—esse in quaestione alicui = queri (requiri) ab aliquo; so Pseud. II 2. 68; compare the Eng. expression 'to be to seek,' and the phrases nide ne sis in expectatione Mil. IV 6. 64, esse in mora alicui Trin. II 2. 3.

5. quom etiam = etiam (tuum) quom.

[6. cauisse without se, cf. on I 2. 85.—cautor captus est, again Epid. III 2. 24. Hegio does not know how well his words apply to the present case.]

7. causa est ut for cur; [ut is consecutive, as in Livy V 55. 5 est causa ut ueteres cloacae . . . privata subcant tecta (= ex hoc efficitur ut); comp. spes est ut (Bacch. III 1. 3), occasio ut (Mil. IV 1. 30), where ut introduces a substantival clause (object. genitive).]

9. quia, see I 2. 44.

10. fuat. The old forms of the pres. subj. of sum were fuam, fuas, fuat, and siem, sies, siet (contr. sim, sis, sit); comp. the parallel pair of forms duam and duim from duo, an old form of do.—[si is not elided: see Intr. D (iii).]

12. ita, 'yes,' generally without est; sometimes modified by another word, e.g. ita uero Men. v 9. 37 (Eng. 'so I did'), ita enim uero Asin. II 2. 72; also ita profecto, ita est (non ita est).—ignauī, i. e. as having allowed themselves to become prisoners of war.—frūmus. On the long quantity of the u see Intr. A (v), and comp. III 4. 23, 100.

13. Hegio leads Philocrates aside in order to converse with him privately; Tyndarus takes up such a position as to be able to hear all that is said.

[14. quarum rerum falsilocum, a free use of the objective genitive.]

15. quod sciam, i. e. eius quidem, quod sciam, cf. II 1. 24.—nescium in a passive sense, as Rud. I 5. 17 loca nesciū (= ignota) [and so in Tacitus. Or we might compare πάνθ' ὀρωῶντα λέξομεν (Soph. O.C. 74)].—tradam, as Curc. III 15 ego hoc effectum tibi tradam.

16. To shave or cut the hair is a familiar expression for to be fool, cheat, Bacch. II 3. 7.—tonstrina, sc. taberna, cf. the use of argentaria, medicina, as substantives.—adinet = admonet. [The reading in the last half of the line is not certain; to the reading of the MSS. it may be objected (1) that it involves a change of subject; (2) that we should expect cultrum not cultros. It may be answered to (2) that cultri may very well denote scissors (forficēs, κουρίδες μάχαιραι). Martial (VI 95. 11) speaks of the use of scissors to cut the beard 'rigetque barba, qualem forficibus metit supinis tonsor.' Seyffert proposes ingeniously 'cultro os,' but difficulty (1) re-appears in the next line.]

17. ne id quidem inuolucris, 'not even so much cloth (covering) as to prevent,' etc.

18. utrum strictimne . . . an. Ne is here an additional interrogative particle, which serves to bring out in stronger relief the exact ideas, between which the alternative lies.—attonsurum esse dicam is a lax, popular periphrasis for attonsurus sit, cf. Trin. Prol. 2 sed finem fore quem dicam nescio.—strictim (ἐν χοῦν κείρειν), i. e. shaving with the razor, is opposed to per pectinem, i. e. cutting with scissors and a comb.

19. admutilabit, 'crop close.'—probe, cf. the English expressions 'thresh soundly,' 'a good beating,' and Bacch. IV 3. 65 emungam hominem probe.

20. Hegio wishes to give the Pseudotynclarus a hint that his emancipation may depend on the frankness of his avowal.—memora = dic: [cf. Musa mihi causas memora, Aen. 1 l. 8].

21. longissime, i.e. absit.

22. seruitus, in Elis, under the father of Philocrates.

23. familiaris filius, 'son of the house'; cf. pater, mater familias; also filius familias, Cic. pro Coel. 15. 36. [Notice the equivocation in this statement of Phil., which is literally true, though it deceives Hegio.]

24. Thales proverbially for a wise man, in Bacch. 1 2. 14, Rud. iv 3. 75, Aristophanes Nub. 180, τί ἐστὶν ἐκείνον τὸν Θαλῆν θαυμάζομεν.—talento; we should expect a smaller sum, but talentum serves the purpose of a pun on Thales.

25. ad sapientiam; ad gives the standard by which two things are compared; cf. Cic. De Or. II 6. 25 quem coguominis uirum bonum et litteratum, sed nihil ad Persium: so πρός.

26. contulit, not 'has turned the conversation on to,' for this Hegio had done; but 'adapted his language to,' i.e. so spoken as though he had really been a slave.

27. Polyplusio, 'the family of the Goldfields.'

28. illi = illis, as in 73, 84, 91, as isti sometimes = istic.—unum pollens atque honoratissimum, 'powerful and respected above all others.' So Amph. II 2. 54 quam omnium Thebis uir unum esse optatum diiudicat.

29. ab, i.e. qui proficiscitur ab summis uiris.

31. sebum: he takes opimae in its original and material sense.—senex, the father of Philocrates, the mention of whom occasions the next question.

32. abimus; for the present cf. on Prol. 24.

35. Thensaurochrysonicochrysidēs. Perhaps we should read this phantastic name Thensaurocroesonicochrysidēs (lit. son of gold, that outdoes the treasuries of Croesus). As it stands, it means 'that outdoes treasuries of gold.'

36. quasi, with propter diuitias 'so to speak.'

[38. Brix thinks this line a gloss, on the ground that in III 4. 102 Hegio hears the real name Theodoromedes for the first time. It may possibly, as Geppert thinks, be an 'aside' to the audience.]

39. quid tu ais? as in Trin. 1 2. 156 Sed quid ais? to introduce another question, 'What do you say to what I am going to ask you?' Eng. 'Hark you.' perlinax here humourously = perquam tenax.

40. ut magis noscas, i.e. 'I will just tell you one fact about him, in order that,' etc.—quando = aliquando; so in the phrase si quando 'if at any time.'

41. Samiis uasis, 'earthenware,' i.e. of a cheap and common kind, cf. Men. I 2. 65 and Bacch. II 2. 22 seq.

43. eadem, sc. opera (cf. II 3. 90, where opera is expressed) 'at the same time.' Similarly una for una opera.—exquisiuero. For the fut. perf. see note on 65 (inf.).

46. ex re. The opposite idea is expressed by ab re, inf. 88.

47. An uncommon but perfectly natural combination of the relative and an imperative; so in Greek οἶσθ' ὄνν ὁ ἑρᾶσον.—tamen, i.e. whether you confess or not.

52. cum istoc for cum istius opibus (comparatio compendiaria); [cf. the use of the dative after idem, e.g. Hor. A. P. 467].

53. memini quom = μὲμνημαι ὄτε. Here the temporal clause plays the part of an object; so Poen. III 4. 13, Truc. I 2. 17, etc.—facto i.e. by betraying me to you.

54. humana fingit, 'moulds the fate of men.'—artat (the more special idea after the more general) literally = in angustias redigit 'narrows, abridges'; cf. Hor. Od. I 34. 13 insignem attenuat.

55. fueram = eram; see on Prol. 17.

57. proinde ut; so always in Pl., never proinde ac.

59. hoc, 'just this one point (that is about to follow).'—[For Volueram, the reading of the MSS., Brix proposes uoluerim, which would be a modest way of expressing a wish, as in the common expressions crediderim, dixerim (so uoluerim, Prol. 53). But uolueram might also stand, resembling the Eng. 'I could have wished,' with the indic. for subj., as so common.]—nisi forte ipse non uis; similar phrases are si tu non uenis (= non uis) Trin. II 2. 51, si tibi molestum non est Epid. III 4. 29.

[60. quam gnatus tuos. Even the speaker in this case is unaware of the further sense which these words would convey to the audience; cf. note on II 2. 5.]

64. habueris, curauerit. Curabit (fut. simple) would denote an action falling at a later point of time in the future than the action of habueris; by the use of the fut. perf. for both verbs, it is intended to mark their actions as occurring simultaneously.—[The meanings of habere and curare are very much the same; cf. the phrases in Lucretius, iucunde corpora curant (II 31) and iucunde corpora habebant (v 1394). Uss.]

65. cf. Asin. I 2. 3 bene merenti mala es, male merenti bona es.—[profuerit, erit. The parallel use of the two tenses in describing the same time shows how nearly they may approach one another in meaning; cf. Ter. Hec. IV 2. 23 et me hac suspitione exsoluam et illis morem gressero; cf. Madv. Lat. Gr. § 340, Obs. 4.]

66. tuom, with synizesis, one syllable.

70. auariorem, i. e. so as to demand an excessive ransom.

74. Probably an interpolation from Aul. II 1. 46; Heg would not have said nostrum, which is quite in place in the Aul., but ueorum; [and the three sentences beginning Ego, Non ego, Scio ego, hang very awkwardly together. A passage of similar sense occurs Trin. II 2. 69.]

[76 is considered spurious by Brix as destroying the simple antithesis of 75 and 77.—lutulentos, cf. Poen. I 1. 30 lenone istoc . . . non lutum est lutulentius. Uss.—The independent sentence with indic. mood reblidit, instead of an infinitive, subordinate to scio, is quite in the manner of the comic poets; cf. faxo uenies.]

77. Ter. Adel. II 2. 8 pecuniam in loco neglegere matrum interdumsit lucrum.—est ubi, ἔστιν ὅπου = interdum.

78. Cf. Prol. 44 and note.

79. Here Hegio first discloses his plan of an exchange of prisoners.—hoc probably = huc, as in the same phrase Trin. I 2. 28, Curc. II 2. 20, Pers. I 3. 36, Mil. III 1. 169.—sentio, ‘am intending.’—pariter, i. e. ‘as well as I do.’

80. Alide (without in, see on III 4. 41) goes with seruit; a general adverb of place, like illuc, is often followed by a phrase denoting more particularly the exact place where (apud nos Alide). Thus foris illic extra scutum (Prol. 60), illic sub aqua (Cas. II 6. 28).

81. ne duis [for the more common ne dederis; even in Cicero (ad Att. XIV 1) scribere ne pigrescere]. The subjunctive with ne is less emphatic than the imperative, cf. V 1. 26. So Aul. II 2. 61 ne duas ‘you need not give (a dowry)’, ib. 64 noui, ne doceas ‘I know it, you need not tell me’ (compare III 2. 20 scio, ne doce, noui, Trin. III 1. 5 ad tu edepol nullus credulus ‘there is no need whatever for you to believe.’—[The hiatus in the diaeresis of Troch. Septenarii is very common; see infra 99, II 3. 78. 89, III 4. 21, III 4. 73, IV 2. 66, IV 2. 80, 81, V 2. 23, 24.]

82. amittam, see note on Arg. 7.

83. orare in early Latin often = dicere; thus in Plautus orare cum aliquo, and even in Cicero (pro Rose. Am. 26) re inorata, [and Virgil (Aen. X 96) talibus orabat Juno (her speech had been anything but a prayer); cf. Aen. VII 446.]—hominum homo; this redundancy again, III 4. 8, Trin. V 1. 1 hic homost omnium hominum praeceptos. [On the quantity of es see Introd. B.]

84. seruitutem seruire; again Trin. II 2. 25. This ‘figura etymologica’ (cognate accusative) is very common in Plautus, e.g. dicta dicere Trin. I 2. 40, facta ficere Bacch. III 1. 12, statuam statuere Bacch. IV 3. 1, moenia moenere Mil. II 2. 75, speciem specere, certamen cernere Cas. III 1. 2, messam metere Trin. I 1. 11, sermones seruire Mil. III 1. 105, pietatem piare Asin. III 1. 3, prandium prandere Poen. III 5. 14.

[85. Pol hic quidem huius est cluens. If spoken by Tynd. (MSS.) this must be an 'aside,' huius referring to Philocrates, who is standing near (see 43 Sequere hac me igitur). In this case the next line must be explained as meaning that it would be easier to negotiate with a private person than with the state. No doubt it would be more natural to speak of Menarchus as the client of the father of Philocrates; but Theodoromedeas has not been alluded to since 68, and therefore huius can hardly refer to him; we must suppose that the erilis filius here represents his father. Lind. and Brix give the words to Phil., and make huius refer to Tynd., considering the exclamation, and the comparison of the next line as more in the style of the character which Phil. is assuming, and I have followed them, though if the words Pol—cluens are an 'aside,' they, at any rate, are an ejaculation of Tynd. 'in propria persona,' called forth by the piece of news which he hears for the first time. Ussing retains the words for Tynd., but explains huius as 'meus,' ἐμερικῶς, as in Cure. II 1. 33, etc. But this is very forced.]

86. Hoc i.e. the return of your son.—[esse in procliu expresses the idea of a facilis descensus, and the opposite of the Eng. 'uphill work.']

87. Fac, 'see to it.'—[sed te id oro. At this point Tynd. leads Heg. aside, in order to maintain an air of secrecy in making his proposition.]

88. ab re, see note on 46.

89. ille, Philopolemus.

90. hunc, Philocrates, disguised as Tyndarus.—aestumatum, i.e. a certain sum of money having been agreed upon as his price, to be forfeited to Hegio should he fail to return (meo periculo 99, tua fide 101). The aestumatio follows 103 seq. in the ordinary form of contract (stipulatio, see on I 2. 70). [Brix strikes out te and keeps ut verum quiesco, ut aestumatum), comparing v 1. 29; with te quiesco . . . des, cf. II 3. 72.]

91. misero, see note on I 2. 85.

93. iusseris, sc. perferri. On the quantity of uclis see Intr. A (ii).

94. nihil est, with an infin. following, 'It is no good;' cf. Cas. II 4. 7, Hor. Sat. II 3. 6.—operam luseris, Cist. II 7. 2, Pseud. I 3. 135, Ter. Phorm. II 2. 18; more commonly operam perdere, e.g. Aul. II 5. 15.

95. transactum reddet marks a completed state, transigit an action. Such periphrases formed of a transitive verb like facere, reddere, tradere, etc. combined with a perf. part. pass. are very frequent in the comic poets, (1) with facere, e.g. missum aliquem Amph. v 3. 2; (2) with reddere, e.g. lenitum Bacch. v 2. 31, perfectum aliquid Asin. I 1. 109; (3) with tradere, e.g. hoc effectum tibi tradam Cure. III 15; (4) with curare, e.g. factum et curatum Jabo Cas. II 8. 3; (5) with curare, e.g. inunctum tibi curabo Ter. Andr. IV 2. 1.

97. ex sententia an attribute to seruos ['a slave after his mind'].

98. neque adeo, 'nor indeed,' 'and what is more, not,' cf. III 3. 4, Trin. I 2. 144 etc.—[hodie with a negative gives the idea of 'ever'; so Cas. IV 1. 7 quin agitis hodie? . . . Properate, and Hor. Sat. II 7. 21 Non dices hodie, quorsum haec tam putida tendant, 'Are you never going to tell,' etc.]

[99. For the hiatus, cf. line 81 and note. Br., after Fl., transposes ego huius.]

100. ingenio, 'on his goodness of nature.'—me esse beneuolum, 'that I mean well by him.'

102. potest, impersonally.—cedere ad factum. If the reading is right, these words must mean 'be carried out,' lit. 'should pass to realization;' [cf. the Eng. 'come to pass.'—quam citissime . . . tam etc. For this construction, cf. Aul. II 2. 60 quam ad probos propinquitate proeunte te adiuueris, tam optimumst for quo propius, eo melius, and see Wagner's note, in which he refers to Ter. Haut. V 2. 44, Ad. III 4. 56, Sallust. Jug. 31.]

103. Compare the similar form of agreement in Amph. II 2. 232. Amph. Numquid causam dicis, quin te hoc multem matrimonio? Alc. Si deliqui, nulla causast. Amph. Conuenit. Trin. V 3. 13, Aul. II 2. 84, Pseud. I 5. 119 (553), compare too Capt. III 4. 92, Cas. V 4. 30—32, Most. II 2. 4.

104. soluite to the Iorarii, who have remained on the stage from the last scene, and stay till the end of the Act; for in the next scene (line 96) slaves are again addressed.

105. atque, 'aye, and what is more,' cf. III 4. 53, Amph. II 2. 133 Amph. Quid nunc, mulier? andin illum? Alc. Ego uero, ac falsum dicere.

106. quom . . . honestas. Where the later usage of the language employs the subj. with quom, thereby laying emphasis on the idea of cause, Plaut. prefers to make the idea of time prominent by the use of the indic. (especially the present indic.). Cist. I 1. 116 sine trahi, quom ('now that') egomet trahor, Cas. II 3. 16 sanus (sum) quom teo amo, Capt. II 1. 24, II 2. 30, II 3. 63, Most. V 2. 34, Men. II 2. 30, V 2. 78. Even after praesertim quom the indic. in Asin. I 1. 66. [Similarly even in Cicero (ad Fam. IX 14); see Madv. § 358, Obs. 2.]

107. haud molestum est, 'is not unpleasant,' litotes.—collus, cf. IV 3. 2. Similarly guttur is always masc. in Plaut. (accus. gutturum Trin. IV 3. 7); again hic dorsus Mil. II 4. 44. On the other hand, nasum (neut.) regularly, for nasus, cf. Men. I 2. 57.

108. bene fit beneficium, see note on 84.—gratia ea, i.e. gratia eius beneficii [cf. Virg. A. II 171 Nec dubiis ea signa (signs of that) dedit Tritonia monstris; so with hic, ibid. XII 468 hoc concussa metu (fear of this), IV 237 hic nostri nuntius esto.]

110. Ad patrem nuntiari. In this phrase (again II 3. 24) the thought is rather of an address to which a message is to be taken, in patri n. (II 3. 40) that of a person.

II. 3.

This is not really the commencement of a new scene ; for, as Lessing says, none of the characters have left the stage. Hegio now steps on one side to inform the Pseudotyndarus of the arrangement that has been made between himself and the Pseudophilocrates ; after line 12, all three take part in the conversation.

1. Quae res, referring to the principal clause that follows (uolt te erus).

[4. With hiatus in caesura. For the order te aestumatum cf. 19.]

5. nelle for nelle se, cf. on I 2. 85.

[7. nostris filiis. Probably abl. of instr. It might, however, be dat. commodi.]

8. rectum. Part. of regor, ‘guided, turned.’ So Bacch. III 3. 8 ego illum haberem rectum ad ingenium bonum.

[12. quom fers, ‘by bearing.’ So the German ‘indem du trägst,’ cf. note on II 2. 106. The line has hiatus in the caesura.]

[13. Gratiam and habeo form an hiatus, which Ussing considers as partly justified by the fact that the vowel is the same in the two words ; he compares Ter sunt conati imponere Pelio Ossum Virg. Georg. I 281, and capiti inhumato Hor. Od. I 28. 24.]

16. qui me quid agitem perferat, i. e. qui quid ego agitem perferat. Here the subject of agitem is taken out of the object clause, and brought prominently forward by a kind of prolepsis, as the object of the verb of the principal clause (perferat), as commonly in Greek. So often after scio (Trin. II 2. 96 Scia tu illum quo genere gnatus sit? Men. II 1. 21 Ego illum scio quam carus sit cordi meo) ; [and also after such other verbs as admit of being directly connected with the subject of the dependent clause, e. g. fluvi facio (Trin. IV 2. 150), quaero (ib. IV 2. 31), facio (Pers. III 1. 54 necessitate me, mala ut faciam, facis). Our instance above is a somewhat extreme one, as perferat cannot strictly speaking be connected with me. But the rationale of a usage must be sought in the simplest and easiest examples of it ; as such, none could serve better than Capt. III 4. 25, where the peculiarity is hardly noticeable.]

17. ordine, ‘in due succession,’ i. e. ‘point by point,’ ‘in detail ;’ so Livy XXXIX 14 omnibus ordine expositis (καθ’ ἕν ἑκάστων.—[omnem rem, an apposition to the clause quid . . . agitem, which it sums up, thus being the final shape which the object to perferat takes.]

20. rebitas, from the old verb biterere or bētere = ire (Mere. II 3. 127, Pseud. I 3. 31, Cure. I 2. 54, Stich. IV 2. 28), which appears in the following other compounds in Pl., abitere Epid. II 2. 121, Rud. III 4. 72, III 5. 35, albitere Capt. III 4. 72, interbitere Most. v 1. 47, perbitere = perire Pseud. III 1. 12, Rud. II 6. 11, praeterbitere Poen. v 3. 49.

22. pater, i.e. 'your father;' but there is an intentional ambiguity in the word.—[aliquem = alium quem, as in Virg. Aen. II 48 aut aliquis latet error.]

25. The longer and weightier trochaic septenarii introduce a passage of deeper feeling, the valedictio or parting.—[adhuc locorum, cf. inde loci Lucr. v 789.]

26. in rem conducatur = ex re sit.

[27. I have adopted the excellent emendation of Brix; something like semper seems to be demanded by adhuc locorum of 25, and this would hardly be conveyed by persequitur. Br. tells us that there is the same corruption of the text in Cas. I 1. 5 quoquo ibis tu te persequi, where A only preserves the right reading quoquo tu ibis te semper sequi.]

32. honore honestiorem, cf. on II 1. 54. [The phrase is intentionally ambiguous. Tynd. means 'Hegio treats me as a master, whereas I am really a slave.']

33. ne praecipias, a prohibition (ne is not 'lest'); cf. on II 2. 81.—memoria memini, cf. on II 1. 54.—tamen ['all the same'] at the end of the line and the thought; cf. line 44 and I 2. 78. So Amph. I 3. 44 ut quom absim me ames, me tuam absentem tamen.

[35. cum hoc with hiatus, cf. Prol. 24.]

36. mora merast, 'would be sheer waste of time,' cf. IV 3. 6. [For est cf. the phrases longum est enumerare, dicere, etc.]

37. uicem, an adverbial accusative, connected in Pl. with a possessive pronoun or genitive: 'in place of us both,' cf. eri uicem III 3. 11, uocis uicem Amph. I 1. 181, meam uicem Most. II 1. 8.

38. utrique is here prob. genitive; as also in Aul. II 1. 10; comp. Pers. III 1. 14 in uentris rem uidebitur, and Ter. Hec. I 2. 27.—[Poteris of the MSS. is probably an unskilful attempt to avoid the hiatus after primum, and makes the line too long. Lind. as well as Bent. strike it out. Gepp. reads poterit stue, and refers to Lachmann on Lucr. p. 197.]

41. The bracketed words must be considered to be a clumsy interpolation on account of the repetition (me hic ualere 31), the meaningless antithesis et tute, and the word aubacter, which is quite out of place here.

43. The reading of the MSS. me ad. tibi cannot be right, as te is required in the next line as acc. before the inf. gessisse. [The mistake may have easily crept in, owing to a confusion in the mind of some copyist, who forgot that Tynd. is here speaking in the character of master.]

[44—46. Here Tynd. is really speaking of himself, as also in 48 and 50—53; above (42) he reminds Phil. of the tender relationship which had subsisted between them, here of his own past services, and devotion to his master on the present occasion.]

44. tamen is explained by the words in tantis aerumnis, in which there lies an implied concession. [Tamen is closely connected with these words, though logically it must be taken with bene gessisse morem. Similarly we find tamen sometimes attracted into the relative clause, e.g. Lucr. v 1088 (coquantur) mutu tamen cum sint variis emittere voces, and iv 106, cf. Soph. O. C. 957 ἐρημία με, καὶ δίκαι' ὄμως λέγω, σμικρὸν τίθησιν.]

[45. te is accus. before infin., me accus. after infin.]

48. Numquam = non. Men. v 7. 23 Numquam te patiar perire. [Compare the Eng. 'Never mind.']—gratiis is always found as three syllables in the comic poets, as shown by Bentley (on Ter. Ad. iv 7. 26). [Uss. considers that it may be here pronounced as two syllables, and is thus able to keep emittat of the MSS. I have followed Geppert and Lind. in reading gratiis mittat. No doubt manu emittere is the more common expression in the comic poets for the later manumittere, as Br. says; but in Cur. iv 2. 11 B and J have manu mittitis, for which we should probably read mittitis manu.]

[52, 53. In these lines the speaker is really addressing himself to Heg., to whom his statements might seem to need justification.]

53. Quo pacto, 'and in this way.'

54. The same mistake that is here found in BJ (ista for ita) is made in A in Epid. v 1. 16, Pseud. ii 2. 62.

[57. nam si seruos mi esses. Phil. humorously uses words which bear an application to the real relation between himself and Tyndarus, yet without exciting the suspicion of Hegio.—The next words (nihilō setius fuisti) must be regarded as an anacoluthon; instead of saying, 'you would not have been more deferential,' the speaker substitutes the equivalent, 'you were not a whit less deferential' (imagine a slight pause between protasis and apodosis). Such changes of construction are common enough, especially in the free style of dialogue (cf. Ter. Hec. iii 1. 6), and there seems in this passage a special propriety in the apodosis (fuisti not fuisses), which is intended to be equivocal, reminding the audience of the fact that Tyndarus really had been as deferential as a slave. Brix conjectures nam quasi seruos meus sis, Ussing quasi seruos meus esses.]

58. Di uostram fidem, not an appeal for help, but an exclamation of surprise, like the French 'ma foi' [acc. of exclamation].

60. corde amare, so Truc. i 2. 81.

[61. Seruos conlaudauit. This must have raised a laugh.]

62. quam, κατὰ σύνεσιν; haud centensimum partem = multo minus; cf. Mil. iii 1. 167.

64. occasio cumulare for cumulandi, as in Pers. iv 7. 15, Cure. i 1. 60, Poen. iii 3. 46, v 4. 56; see note on ii 2. 7.—ut, ‘in such a way as to act,’ i.e. ‘by acting,’ so iii 1. 26, Pers. i 1. 38 To. Facere amicum tibi me potis es sempiternum. Sa. Quem ad modum? To. Ut mihi des nummos sescentos [cf. Ovid Fasti, i 1. 307 sic . . . non ut].

65. magis belongs to velle, non to possum, cf. iii 4. 46.—opera, ‘in deed,’ so Trin. iv 1. 7 [cf. ξργω], ‘my wish to see it done cannot be greater than will be my earnest endeavour to bring it about.’

[66. The MSS. read do for laudo, which leaves the verse too short. Laudo is from the grammarian Nonius, who says (p. 335, s.v. laudare) ‘Laudare est verbis esse ferre . . . Plautus Cyprius: id ut scias, Jouem supremum testem laudo Egio.’ The change of laudo into do is just such a one as a copyist, who did not understand the expression, might have made. Brix and Fleck. supply tibi after do.]

[67. That is, ‘I will be faithful to myself,’ as the audience would not fail to see.]

[68. quam memet, prop. quam ipse, but attracted into the accus., cf. Cic. Cat. M. i Suspitor te eisdem rebus, quibus me ipsum, commoueri.]

[69—85. There is a double meaning running through the whole of this passage; while seeming to exhort his slave not to run away, he is really addressing a passionate entreaty to his master not to be ungrateful (fidelis sis fideli); thus by operis et factis he means Phil. to understand, ‘Act up to the spirit, not merely the letter, of your promise’ (line 67); so the words pro te in lines 73 and 75 are meant for the ear of Phil. (‘in your place’), while to Hegio they would merely sound like a somewhat hyperbolical statement of the case (‘You will be the free man instead of me, I shall be the slave instead of you,’ 75). On the other hand, the words te aestumatum (73), te hinc aestumatum mittier, Nam pater faciet, etc. (80), are thrown in as explanations for the benefit of Hegio.]

69. operis. The plural again, Bacch. i 1. 11 (45), Asin. ii 4. 19, etc. So in other abstract substantives, e.g. opulentiae Trin. ii 4. 89, gratiae ibid. i 1. 14, parsimoniae ibid. iv 3. 21, perfidiae Capt. iii 3. 7, irae Mil. ii 6. 100, industriæ Most. ii 1. 1, superbiæ Stich. ii 2. 27, paces Pers. v 1. 1.

70. quo minus, lit. ‘in proportion as I have said less,’ i.e. ‘in so far as I have not said.’ So Ter. Eun. iv 5. 11 correxit miles, quo intellexi minus (where quo, the reading of A, has been corrected to quod, which also stands in the other MSS.).—[de te, ‘about you.’ Tynd. desires Phil. to understand, ‘If I have not said all the good of you that I could have wished (since in appearing to praise you, I was really praising myself), reflect upon the cause (animum aduortas) and do not take offence.’]

73. pignori, sometimes pigneri, with weakening of the o of the stem, as in foederis, sceleris; cf. temporis with the adv. temperi.

74. quom extemplo (iv 2. 6, Trin. ii 1. 20) = ἐπει τάχιστα.

[75. Te. Ritschl (Neue Pl. Exc. I p. 36) proposed ted in order to avoid the hiatus. Fleck. and Brix bracket the verse as an interpolation, the latter on the ground that pro te is meaningless and out of place; see note above, on the whole passage.]

[76, 77. The verbs in these lines (ducas, deseras, des) are all subordinate to quom, and therefore not co-ordinate with ignores; it was probably from a misunderstanding of this that atque got introduced into some of the MSS. for neque, 77.]

[78. This line is considered by Brix to be a gloss, originally written in the margin as an explanation of 72, and then incorporated into the text.]

79. This verse is quoted by Nonius (p. 512) as follows: Fac fidele sis fidelis, and this would be a thoroughly Plantine turn (cf. impudenter impudens Rud. iv 3. 49, misere miser Cist. iv 2. 21, etc.); the MSS. agree in fidelis sis fidele; and the adverb fidele (for fideliter) is not attested by any other example. In another place Nonius quotes simile est for similis est, misunderstanding similist.

81. hunc, i.e. Hegio.—inuenum inueni, cf. Cic. Fam. xiv 1. 5 uide ne puerum perditum perdamus, and the common expression acta agere. [para tibi Hegionem, iam paratum et quaesitum, si officium tuum facies, Lambinus.]

83. Obsecro governs both haec and the following subordinate clause.

[84. Tu hoc age, ‘Mind what I say,’ more generally ‘Give me your attention,’ as Hoc age sis, Olympio Cas. II 6. 49 and Asin. Prol. I; cf. Capt. III 1. 20. I have kept the reading of the MSS. in spite of the hiatus after tu; all the changes proposed are unsatisfactory, e.g. nunc hoc age (Müller), followed by erus nunc es; and the hiatus may result from the emphasis on the word tu; at any rate there are other passages in which tu in a command stands with hiatus in the MSS.; see Asin. II 2. 112 tū hunc interea hīc tene, Pseud. I 1. 31 tū hinc ex ceri cita.—tu erus nunc es. Literally true also in a sense which Hegio did not understand, cf. 67.]

86. Satin habes, ‘are you content.’—facta [‘faits accomplis’], cf. Asin. v 2. 63 mandata dicam facta ut uoluerit.

87. The first tua is addressed to Hegio, the second to Tyndarus. Bentley (on Ter. Haut. v 2. 24) makes a remark applicable here, ‘uolū et nutu haec aguntur.’—[ornatus, i.e. instructus, neupe Philopolemmum reducens, Lamb.]

90. eadem opera, see note on II 2. 43.—syngraphus, ‘passport.’

92. bene ambulato, ‘bon voyage!’ When one returned, it was customary to ask ‘benene ambulasti?’ Truec. II 4. 18.

95. Hosce. The MSS. have hos, but hosce is the proper form before a vowel or h; see F. Schmidt in Hermes VIII pp. 478—487. On the other hand, we should write hos before a consonant; see Mil. IV 2. 2.

96. sultis = si uoltis, cf. sis = si uis; still here distinctly a command, so III 5. 9.

97. The verse is imperfect in the MSS. ; Camerarius added Iam, and Bothe ingeniously proposed custodela for custode; [cf. Rud. III 3. 35, where Lind. thinks the same change should be made.]

[98. Brix and Fleck. insert ad before captiuos (metri gratia); but, as Ussing remarks, the verse seems to have a further corruption, as inniso (present) is very harsh standing between two futures (adparabo, percontabor). He proposes Ad fratrem ibo; dum e. etc.]

99. eadem, of. note on II 2. 43.

100. praeuorti, cf. Merc. II 3. 41 mandatis rebus praeuorti uolo, Cist. v 8 praeuorti hoc certumst rebus aliis omnibus. The word means literally, 'to turn oneself to something (rei; or, with pronouns, id, hoc, illud, etc.) in preference to other things (prae),' cf. Livy II 24. 5.

III. I.

2. quaerit, sc. quod edat.

[3. The climax must be sought in quom esse cupidus est, 'at the time when he is hungry.' Br. and Uss. strike out the line.]

[4. Nam here gives the reason of the speaker for making the statement ('I say this, for'), not the proof of the statement made.]—Die. The contracted forms of the gen. and dat., die, īdie, īdie, are common in Pl., and found also in later Latin, e.g. Hor. Od. III 7. 4, Sat. I 3. 95, Virg. G. I 208 (acc. to Servius).—The Parasite regards the hostility of the day as the cause of his mortifications; cf. Men. v 5. I edepol ne hic dies peruorsus atque aduersus mi obtigit, Hor. Sat. I 9. 72 huncine solem tam nigrum surrexe mihi.

[5. malignitate oneravit, 'omnes homines reddidit in me illiberales et malignos,' Lamb. For the sense of malignitate 'stinginess,' cf. Virg. A. VI 270 sub luce maligna, 'beneath the scant light (of the moon).']

6. ieiuniosus, as well as what follows, is an attribute of the 'evil day,' and not to be referred to me. With this expressive word, which Plaut. humorously coins from ieiunus, compare the similar formations inopiosus Poen. I 1. 2, helleborosus Rud. IV 3. 78, impendiosus Bacch. III 2. 12, repuliosus Pers. III 1. 56, obmoriosus Trin. IV 3. 31, factiosus Bacch. III 6. 13.—fame ecfertus, 'crum full of hunger,' oxymoron, of Aul. I 3. 6 aces inaniis oppletae.

7. uidi, 'I experienced' (ἐπειδὴ).

8. resident = quiescunt with accus. governed on the notion of agere, which it contains.

9. arti, governed by licet in ilicet (= ire licet). Malam orucem ire (accus. of motion without in); so Poen. II 48, III 6. 4, Men. II 2. 53, Ter. Eun. III 3. 30 malum rem hinc ibis? where Donatus compares domum ire; see too Bentley on Ter. Phorm. v 8. 37.—Mala crux is to be regarded as a single expression = malum, hence another adj. (maximum) may be added; so Aul. III 5. 48 aliqua (mala crux), IV 4. 4 Quae (te mala crux agitat ?), Bacch. IV 1. 12.

10. ridiculos (subst.) ‘jesters.’

11. uni subselli uiros. Favoured slaves and people of inferior rank such as parasites were not admitted to the lecti at meals, but sat on benches (subsellia) placed at the foot of the lecti, Stich. III 2. 33, ibid. v 4, 21.—uni = uius, that is solius, the ‘bare’ subsellium being opposed to the lectus cum subsellio.—Lacones. He proudly calls the parasites ‘Spartans,’ as being a hardy race of men, who could endure blows with heroism, and did not mind having pots of ashes thrown at them.

12. Plagipatidae, i.e. qui plagas patiuntur, again Most. II 1. 9. The patronymic termination (-idae) characterizes the parasites as descendants of a noble line like the Scipiadae, the Memmiadae, etc. Compare for a similar humorous name Collicrepidae ‘collar rattlers,’ Trin. IV 3. 14.—uerba, ‘witticisms’ (Fr. ‘mots’), so dicta (inf. 22), or logi ridiculi Stich. II 1. 68.

13. reddant, ‘return the invitation.’

[14. prouincia parasitorum, see Ter. Eun. II 2. 24.]

15. aperto capite, i.e. in the most open and barefaced manner.

16. In tribu, i.e. in the Comitia Tributa. [Possibly we should read, with Ritschl and Brix, tribud, to avoid the hiatus.]

18. The unmetrical reading of the MSS. Nam ut was formerly corrected to Namque ut (Lind.), or Nam uti (Fl.); Seyffert shows that in similar cases Plaut. always adds ego to nun.—dudum, ‘a short while ago,’ often in the comic poets and sometimes even in Cicero [cf. παλαι]. So Trin. II 4. 29 (Br.), Merc. IV 4. 13, 18.—abii, i.e. after the conversation with Hegio.

[20. Nearly all editors accept the correction Quis ait ‘hoc’ (i.e. ‘huc’), but the reading of the MSS. may very well mean ‘who is paying attention,’ cf. note on II 3. 84.]—profitetur, ‘volunteers,’ here with short first syllable (so Ter. Eun. Prol. 3); on the other hand, prō- is long in Men. IV 2. 85; we find similar vacillation in prōphēcisci, prōphēscisci (Trin. I 2. 112). Again in Plaut. and Ter. we find only prōteruos, in later times prōteruos.

21. ridere aliquem, ‘to laugh at a person’s jokes,’ cf. Ter. Eun. II 2. 18.—abnuont, ‘shake their heads.’—[illi—abnuont, see Wagn. Pref. to Trin. 2nd ed. p. vi, who defends the hiatus ‘before a cretic word at the end of a line’ (caesura minor), adding that a short pause should be assumed after illi, ‘to express the ἀπροσδόκητον of the ensuing word.' Müller, who is followed by Br., proposes illisce, an old form of the nom.; cf. hisce Prol. 35.]

22. unum. Unus is often scarcely more than the indefinite article in English [which indeed is itself merely another form of the numeral 'one' (compare the German 'ein'), Pseud. iv 1. 46 Lepida ibidem una uiderit tibi mulier, Cic. Phil. ii 3. 7].

23. menstrualis epulas, 'free board for a whole month.'

24. sciui = intellexi, animaduerti, so Most. i 2. 65 cor dolet quom scio ut nunc sum atque ut fui.—conpecto. From conpescor comes conpectus (Pseud. i 5. 126, 129), from conpingere, conpactus (Men. v 5. 39, Rud. ii 6. 62).

26. Dentes restringere is properly 'to lay bare the teeth by drawing back the lips,' cf. stringere gladium. The phrase is here intentionally ambiguous; he means, 'I should have been glad if they had shown their teeth, even if it was only to snarl at me.' The order of words is ut, si non ardirent, saltem d. s.—For ut restringerent, 'by showing,' cf. note on ii 3. 64.

27. postquam uideo, see on Prol. 24.

28. una, cf. note on Prol. 20.

29. The Velabrum, situated to the north of the west end of the Circus Maximus, was the market where delicacies for the table were sold; cf. Hor. Sat. ii 3. 229 cum Velabro omne uicellum. [Between the Velabrum and the river were the forum Boarium (cattle market) and the forum Olitorium (vegetable market).]

30. This verse is otiose after 27; Gepp. places it after 31, before which it is certainly inadmissible. It is probably an interpolation.

32. Barbarica lege, i. e. Romana lege. The parasite speaks from the point of view of a Greek; so in Trin. Prol. 19 Philemo scripsit: Plautus nortit barbare, i. e. latine. Thus Capt. iv 2. 104 barbaricae urbes, Stich. ii 1. 39, mores barbari, Cas. iii 6. 33.—ius. 'The parasite regarded himself as a perpetual guest of the state, entertained in several private houses successively instead of in the Prytaneum.' Geppert.

33. concilium iniere. The parasite charges the young men with having formed a treasonable conspiracy to deprive a class of citizens of the means of livelihood, and threatens them with an action at law.

34. Is = eis.

[35. sic egero, cf. note on ii 2. 65.]

[36. spes. Br. explains this as the hope that Philopolemus may have returned; but Erg. can hardly have thought of that even as a possibility. The hope alluded to is rather that he may pick up an invitation in the portus, though he has been disappointed in the forum.]

III. 2.

[1—11. In the arrangement of these lines I have followed Brix, who has succeeded in reducing them to a system with only one slight departure from the MSS.]

2. bono publico, an ablative of attendant circumstances ['to the public weal,' as peissimo publico (Livy II 1. 3) is 'to the detriment of the public']. It is not quite clear how the public interests have been forwarded by the purchase of Philocrates; perhaps Hegio is congratulating both his own country and Elis on the recovery of the two young men of position, Philocrates and Philopolemus. Lessing translates, 'amid general approval;' but the words cannot possibly bear this sense.

3. ubi quisque uident. κατὰ σύνεσιν, as Men. III 2. 56 satin ut quemque conspicio ita me iudificant! Pseud. v 1. 15 alter ubi alterum . . .prehendunt, etc.

5. The second syl. of Ita was originally long (see Corsen II p. 454) and sometimes appears in cretic and bacchiac verse as an iambus. [The MSS. have retinendoque; but que (q:) is a very common interpolation in MSS., and it is not at all a violent change to strike it out.]

7. uix . . . eminebam = ut uix eminerem: paratactically instead of syntactically, cf. II 1. 34, and Mil. IV 2. 57 ita me occurrunt multae: meminisse haud possum, Men. I 1. 18, Most. I 2. 62.

9. The lively movement of the verse, and the short, disconnected sentences, seem expressive of placid self-satisfaction.

[13. Praeuortor domum, the reading of J and minor MSS., must mean, 'I make the best of my way home;' more literally, 'before anything else (as my first care) I turn myself (my steps) homewards,' as in Horace (Sat. I 3. 38), illuc praeuertamur 'let us pay attention to that point first of all;' and this corresponds to what Heg. had said in II 2. 97 (iam ego adparebo domi). He does not here say that he actually returned and entered the house; instead of that, he says he went right on (eo protinus) to his brother's. We should certainly expect a more explicit statement, that he did not enter the house; but the apparent inconsistency between praeuortor domum and eo protinus may perhaps be explained as above: we must allow something for the garrulous and disconnected style of the old gentleman.—Hermann explains praeuortor as praeterreo, and Lind. quotes in support Virg. Aen. I 317, praeuertitur Hebrum; but there the meaning is 'outstrip,' and it seems very doubtful whether the word could mean simply praeterreo. Brix and Uss., taking the reading of B (reuortor), regard it as corrupt, and cancel the clause (inde . . . reuortor).]

[15—20. Many editors have exercised their ingenuity in arranging these lines in a more symmetrical form, but have been driven to introduce many changes in the text in order to effect this result. I have therefore been content to give the passage as it stands in B and J. Where the MSS. fail us as they do here, the problem of restoring what Plaut. wrote seems to be a hopeless one.]

[15. inde abii seems to be an interpolation; Br. transfers the words to 19 (after exsolui.)]

17. hic, i. e. Aristophontes.

III. 3.

1. nunc illud est, quom, 'now the point of time has arrived, at which,' cf. Ter. Ad. III 2 1 Nunc illud est, quom si omnia omnes sua consilia conferant . . . auxili nil adferant.—fuisse, cf. note on II 1. 50.

2. spernunt = secerant or sejungunt (old Latin). For this rare sense, cf. Ennius in Non. p. 399 ius atque accum se a malis spernit procul.

4. neque adeo, cf. on II 2. 98.—metum, 'danger,' the subjective for the objective idea, cf. Trin. IV 3. 2.

[5. A versified gloss on the next line.]

6. [fucis for trickery, cf. Cic. ad Att. I 1 sine fuce et fallaciis.]—ob uiamst = in promptu est, adest.

7. perfidiiis. For the plural, cf. on II 3. 69.

8. hospitium; cf. Most. II 1. 3 nusquam stabulumst confidentiæ.

10. negotiumst. With the humour of despair he says, 'there will be no difficulty,' instead of non dubium est; hence quin in next line. [The line is unmetrical.]

11. malam pestem oppetere (cf. mortem opp.), again Asin. I 1. 7.

13. Philocrati may be either dative or genitive, as v 2. 22, and Euripidi Rud. I 1. 4, Herculi Rud. III 5. 42, etc.

14. Salus seruare, a proverbial expression (again in Most. II 1. 4, —In si uolt, si = etsi, as Amph. IV 3. 17, Rud. I 2. 70.—copia, absolutely for 'help,' Epid. III 1. 4 seq.

15. machinor. On the long final syll. see Introd. B.—cor, of the intellect, cf. egregie cordatus homo, Ennius (in Cic. Tusc. I 9. 18), and Pseud. III 1. 3 quantum ego nunc corde conspicio meo.

16. malum, 'interiectio irascentis.'

[17. Incipisso and haereo form a hiatus; cf. note on III 1. 21, and Introd. D. ii. The line is a senarius, and corresponds to 15. Ritschl has turned both 15 and 17 into septenarii, by adding Me expediundi to the former, and writing the latter

haereo

Nisi nugas ineptiasque iam incipisso maxumas.

But Tynd. has already said Nisi si aliquam machinor astutiam, and in the next scene he says nisi reperio aliquam astutiam (7). The introduction of the same thing a third time would be monotonous.]

III. 4.

1. dicam ; cf. on II 2. 18 (attensurum esse dicam).

[2. Ei mihi, Lind., taking mihi from the next line,—where it cannot in any case stand.]

5. perderent. The Imperf. for Pluperf. Subj. (in the jussive signification). So Rud. II 6. 10 utinam te prius quam oculis uidissem meis malo cruciatu in Sicilia perbiteres.—periisti e patria. So Rud. IV 4. 67 quibuscum parua Athenis periit (disappeared from) : Poen. Prol. 86, v 2. 27.

10. aspernari me, in its strict sense of ‘turn (yourself) away from me ;’ later auersari aliquem.

15. Tynd. tries to invalidate the evidence of Arist. by declaring him raving mad and subject to epileptic fits, in order to excite the fear and disgust of Hegio.—hic and istic (next line) of the same person.

[16. auris inmittas. Uss. compares Lucr. I 117 an pecudes alius diuinitus insinuet se for the accus. without in.]

18. Spitting was regarded as a charm against disease, and especially epilepsy. Even at the present day among the common people in Germany it is customary to spit, on the mention of illness or misfortune ; and spitting is regarded as an empiric remedy in cases of jaundice. [Compare the habit in England of spitting upon money “for luck.”] But we have no mention in ancient medical treatises of actually spitting upon the patient, as here (lines 21, 23).—sputare morbum, ‘to spit at the sight of (to ward off) disease’ ; hence qui sputatur morbus, ‘the disease at the sight of which one spits.’ [But perhaps qui is abl., as Ussing says, in which case qui sp. = ‘on account of which one spits.’ In any case the disease meant is epilepsy, the ‘morbus comitialis’ (see Ramsay, Antiq. p. 114), a case of which occurring at the Comitia was regarded as so ominous as to put a stop to the proceedings.]

19. On the shortening of the final syll. of procul see Intr. A (i).—ultra prop. ‘to yon (the other) side ;’ hence ‘away, off,’ Amph. I 1. 167 ultra istunc qui exossat homines. Cas. II 8. 23.—istum se. apage.

21. qui, an old asseverative particle, in common use in the word atqui, and found in Plautus joined with other expletives, e.g. with hercle Pseud. I 5. 58 etc., with edepol Amph. II 2. 154, with quippe Aul. II 5. 22, Ter. Haut. 538, with ut, as here, Bacch. II 3. 49, etc.

23. quibus, not dependent on inspuitari.—atque is (= et) profuit. It is not uncommon in Latin as in Greek to find the second member of a relative clause thrown into a demonstrative form ; so Cic. Tusc. v 3. 8 quem firant Phliantem uenisse cumque cum Leonte disseruisse.

25. See note on II 3. 16.

29. hand uidi magis, i.e. hand uidi qui mortis meus sodalis sit,

ironically [like the English 'very likely,' 'I dare say,' or the French 'Il en a l'air']. So Poen. I 1. 13, AGOR. Ignoscere id te mi aequum est. MILP. Haud uidi magis! sc. aequum, 'Oh, of course, bare justice!' and Amph. II 2. 57, AMPH. Expectatusne alienio? Sos. Haud uidi magis expectatum, quem salutat magis haud quisquam quam canem; and Merc. IV 3. 24.

30. In order to excite Arist. to a pitch of fury which should resemble real madness, Tynd. compares him with three celebrated madmen. The last, Lyeurgus, King of the Edoni of Thrace, was punished with madness for his attack upon the worship of Dionysus. [Alcmaeo, Ἀλκμαίων. Alcmaeon was a celebrated person on the tragic stage, as Gepp. says, and it is hardly likely that Plaut. would have rechristened him Alcumeus (so O. Ribbeck)]—postea, 'in that case.'

31. una opera . . . qua, 'just as much as,' cf. on II 2. 43.

35. uero, 'in reality,' modal abl., not the adversative particle, so Most. I 3. 21, maius uituperarier falso, quam uero extolli? Merc. IV 1. 19, Truc. II 2. 47. Sometimes joined with serio, Amph. III 3. 9 (equidem serio ac uero ratus), Pseud. IV 7. 96 (responde hoc uero serio). So in the phrases ain uero? itane uero? itu hercle uero, etc.

36. [Ironically, 'It was reserved for you, I suppose, to prove your superiority to Phil. in exactness of statement.' Tynd. desires at the same time to give Arist. a hint that his superior information as to the person of Phil. is rather inopportune.]—enim is often found in Plaut. as an affirmative or asseverative (not illative) particle, especially in the combinations at enim, quia enim, non enim, nil enim, nunc enim, certe enim, immo enim, and enim uero (thus Trin. III 2. 79, non enim possum quia exclamem), but also in other connections, e.g. Cas. II 4. 2, Te uxor aiebat tua me uocare; St. Ego enim uocari iussi cf. Trin. V 2. 10.

37. ut rem uideo, 'to the best of my judgment,' cf. Truc. V 70, ut rem natam uideo.—uanitudine = mendaciis [cf. Virg. A. II 80, neque . . . uanum etiam mendacumque improba finget.—uera conuincas, 'put truth in the wrong'].

41. Alidem without a preposition only in this place, cf. II 3. 19, III 4. 56. So Alide without in only in II 2. 80. The simple acc. and abl. (without a preposition) of names of countries seems to have been a peculiarity of early Latin; for Alis is not to be regarded as the name of a town; so nequimont Grucium redire (Livius Andronicus), and even later Nep. Milt. I Chersonnesum mittere, Dat. IV Aegyptum proficisci. But at the time of Plaut. it was becoming usual to insert the preposition.

42. According to old Roman law the slave is a chattel, possessing neither father nor the rights of contracting a legal marriage and holding property, in a word, without 'caput' or 'status.' [See Ramsay, Rom. Antiq. p. 83.]

43. fuisti, cf. on II 1. 50.

46. non belongs to Liberum in spite of the intervening words equidem me, which are quite unemphatic, cf. IV 2. 45, II 3. 65.

47. ludos facere aliquem, common as Bacch. v 1. 14, etc. Rarer is ludos facere alicui, Most. II 1. 80; cf. ludos alicui reddere, Ter. Andr. III 1. 21.

48. praeter se, 'excepting his own person.'

51. ut . . . inuideant, cf. on II 2. 7, so Pers. I 1. 47 hoc meumst ut faciam sedulo.—bonis in a political sense, 'the richer (upper) classes.'

53. atque, cf. on II 2. 105.—aliquid pugnae dedit, 'has played you a trick.' The same expression in Pseud. I 5. 111.

60. enim, cf. note on 36.

[65. Pix atra. An allusion to the 'tunica molesta,' or shirt smeared with pitch, wax, and other combustibles, in which slaves were sometimes burnt; the Schol. on Juvenal (l. 155) says that it was a mode of putting Christians to death employed by Nero. Lucretius, too, mentions it among other kinds of punishment (3. 1017).]

66. deliramenta loqui, 'talk wildly;' so Men. v 5. 21.—laruae, 'the evil spirits' of Roman popular superstition, properly the departed spirits of bad men (as opposed to the Manes), which, like furies, torment the dead as well as the living; they were held to be the cause of madness. See Aul. IV 4. 15, Cas III 4. 2. Hence luruatus (mad).

69. concinnat = reddit, cf. IV 2. 38.

70. uolo, sc. colloqui.

72. Namque elliptically, 'Yes; you are right for, etc.'—ad bites, see on II 3. 20.—os denasabit, 'will bite the nose from your face,' cf. malas edentare Rud. III 2. 48, caput exoculare id. III 4. 26, os exosare Amph. I 1. 165. seq.

77. te, cf. on II 3. 16. The MSS. omit the word.

79. abnutas, 'signal to me to be silent.'—quid agat, 'what would he do?' i.e. he would openly bid me be silent. [The MSS. continue the words quid agat . . . longius to Tynd. In this case they must mean 'what would he not do (or say) if you were not standing by me?' an expression of pretended fear lest H. should leave him. Lessing (note to Trans.) gave the words to Ar.]

80. Hegio begins to be somewhat shaken in his belief in the madness of one who can talk so rationally.—nugas, sc. apis.

81. quoi neque pes neque caput compareat, 'which you can make neither head nor tail of,' lit. of which neither foot nor head is visible, can be made out. cf. Aesin. III 3. 139, nec caput nec pes ser-

monum adparet. [So ratio non comparet, 'the account is not correct;' lit. intelligible, clear at a glance.]

82. ornamenta absunt, 'All that is wanting is the get up (dress); there you see the mad Ajax himself,' etc. [A particular dress and exterior came to be associated on the stage and in pictures with each of the various heroes or celebrated characters of history or mythology. But the direct allusion to the conventionalities of the theatre is curious. Similarly Virg. A. iv 47, in comparing Dido to Orestes, speaks of scenis apitatus Orestes where we should expect him to speak of the real Orestes.—orn. absunt in parataxis, whereas the more ordinary mode of expression would be syntactically by a subordinate clause, 'if (although) the exterior were not (is) wanting.' Similarly Lucr. 3. 935 Nam gratis anteacta fuit tibi vita. . . . Cur non ut plenus vitæ conuiuia recedis? where the first sentence means 'supposing that,' 'if,' cf. Madv. § 442. Obs. 2, and on Capt. III 2. 5.]

84. inter sacrum saxumque stare; Tynd. compares himself to a victim about to be sacrificed at the altar (sacrum), by a blow of the flint stone (cf. Livy I 24, porcum saxo silice percussit); Eng. 'the knife is at my throat.'

85. do operam, see on Prol. 6.

86. audibis, old fut. of the 4th conj. (for audies); cf. ibo from ire.

87. expurigare. Plaut. uses side by side the old forms purigare, iurigare, and the later purgare, iurgare; the former are not compounds of agere but are formed directly from nouns, exactly as navi-gare from navis.

88. tenere, of a disease. [cf. captus oculis.]

92. cf. II 2. 103 and note.

93. deliquio, an ἀπαξ λεγ. formed like contagio, obsidio, parallel to deliquium, contagium, obsidium respectively.

95. nugas agit, 'he is trifling with you.'

98. em rursum tibi, 'take that for an answer.'

100. Fuitne, with long u, cf. II 2. 12 and note.

102. Philocrati, see on III 3. 13.

103. quin quiescis. He addresses his heart, which by its violent beating might betray him.—i diirectum, 'to the gallows with you.' The Plautine word Dierectus comes from dī asunder, and erigere; hence 'stretched out and raised aloft,' of a delinquent on the cross; cf. dispersis manibus (Mil. II 4. 7).

104. subsultas, as though dancing with joy at his misery; cf. Anl. IV 3. 3, Continuo meum cor coepit artem facere ludicram atque in pecus emicare.

105. exquisitum, nearly the same as certum, exploratum (inf.).

[106. tam satis quam. ‘Proprie dicendum erat quam quod maxime.’ Uss.]

108. sed uide sis,—‘consider if there be no mistake.’—hoc, i.e. that Tynd. had been a slave in Elis.

109. magis certius, as magis dulcius Stich. v 4. 22, magis multo patior facilius uerba Men. v 6. 13; the double comparative for the sake of emphasis.

111. deruncinare, from runcina (a plane), means ‘to cheat, trick;’ deusciare (prop. to rough-hew with an axe) is used in the same sense; cf. Mil. iv 4. 6, ut lepide deruncinauit militem.—deartuare prop. ‘sever limb from limb,’ cf. III 5. 14.

114. corpore, ‘complexion.’

115. subrufus aliquantum, cf. the Eng. ‘somewhat reddish,’ and Ter. Andr. II 6. 16, subtristis uisus est esse aliquantum mihi. Aliquantum repeats and emphasizes the idea of sub.

116. ut quidem, dependent on conuenit, cf. Trin. II 4. 28.

123. sursum uorsum, ‘upwards.’ For this tautological expression (sursum = sub uorsum) cf. utroque uorsum II 3. 8, rursum uorsum (backwards), Amph. v 1. 63. Sursum deorsum has a different meaning (topsy-turvy), Ter. Eun. II 2. 47.—os subleuere (cf. Trin. II 4. 157), ‘to befool,’—offucia, ‘trickery.’

124. nunquam = non, cf. on II 3. 48.

125. num lignatum mittimur, ‘are we to go and fetch wood?’ as though the lora might be wanted to bind up fagots. Speng. proposes to read ligatum, ‘to bind (some one),’ either a newly-purchased slave, or one who was to be punished.

III. 5.

3. sator maxume (adj.), ‘the sower-in-chief’: maxume belongs also to sartor (= sarritor ‘weeder’) and messor. By the last word Heg. means ‘as you have sowed, so shall you reap.’

[4. audebas. “Audere pro posse, itemque pro uelle, Truc. iv 3. 44, Men. I 2. 40, Asin. II 4. 70.” Pareus. An old correction in this passage was debebas, which is accepted by Br.

6. Attat expresses surprise; the final syllable is long.

[7. After seruom Fleck. inserts hominem to avoid the hiatus. But where every emendation is so uncertain as here, it seems best to keep the MSS. reading, and notice that it is probably corrupt. There are two verses very similar to 7 and 8 in Pseud. I 5. 45, 46.]

9. sultis, cf. on II 3. 96.

12. quod is the word quoad, pronounced as a monosyllable, ‘in so far as.’ Mil. iv 4. 24 imputabis, quod (so the MSS.) ego potero, quod noles. Epid. v 1. 32 Ep. Non me nouisti? VIR. Quod quidem nunc ueniat in mentem mihi. In a few cases the MSS. vary between quod and quoad.

14. deartuauisti, 'in articulos dissecuisti, διεμέλισας,' Bosius.

23. cum denotes manner or attendant circumstances; here the result in the future is regarded as a concomitant of the action, and the modal approaches to the consecutive sense: Eng. 'to.' In the case of bono and malo joined to an attribute like publico (see III 2. 2) or tuo (Amph. I 1. 213, Truc. v 31), the simple ablative is used in the same sense.

[24. Hiatus before a cretic word at the end of a line. Ritschl proposed existumo (comparing Most. I 1. 73 flocci existumati.)]

25. si non redit is the condition to peribo (cf. II 2. 10). Tynd. assumes that Heg. will not kill him, until time has shown that Phil. is not likely to return.—ut dixit, sc. se rediturum esse.

29. periculo ponere, on the model of pignori ponere (cf. II 3. 73 and III 4. 122).

[30. Praeoptauisse, without synizesis, see Intr. C. Ritschl proposed praedoptauisse (Neue. Pl. Exc. I p. 99.)—quam is periret, Potius quam (and similar phrases) with the subj. denote 'in preference to,' and introduce the less choiceworthy alternative. As in hypothetical sentences, the action is thus marked as purely imaginary, as a possibility, which might conceivably have been, but never actually was. Thus Asin. IV 2. 2, emori me malim quam haec non eius uerori indicem. Aul. I 1. 12, utinum me diu adaxiat ad suspendium potius quidem quam hoc pacto apud te seruiam. [Livy commonly uses either the subj., or the subj. with ut, in this sense: e.g. cur quod in sinu uestro est, exenti iubetis potius quam ponatis (VI 15. 12); multi ex plebe, potius quam ut cruciarentur trahendo animam, se in Tiberim praecipitauerunt (IV 12. 11); so in Cicero, 'depugna' inquis 'potius quam seruias (ad Att. VII 7. 7), uir bonus stultit omnem cruciatum perferre potius quam ut officium prodat' (Acad. II 8. 23).]

31. Acherunti, locative ablative, like Karthagini (Poen. v 2. 78) Sicyoni, Cist. I 3. 8.—clueas in the sense of bene audire: cf. Trin. II 2. 32 uictor uictorum cluct.

32. per, very nearly = propter.

33. exemplum is a typical instance. Heg. means that he intends in the punishment he inflicts on Tynd. to supply a sample of what he will do in future cases; i.e. to make the punishment exceptionally severe [cf. lines 94, 95 (documentum dabo, etc.).] cf. Bacch. v 1. 6, omnibus exemplis crucior. Most. I 3. 35, di me pessumis exemplis interficiant.

34. sutelae, 'dolosae astutiae a similitudine suentium dictae,' Fest. p. 310. So Cas. I 7; cf. consutis dolis Amph. I 1. 214, and the Homeric metaphor δόλους καὶ μῆτιν ὑφαίνειν, and the Eng. 'a tissue of lies.'—morti mittere, cf. "Αἶδι προΐάπτειν, and Hor. Sat. II 5, 49, siquis casus puerum egerit Orco. Virg. A. 2. 85, demittere neci.

[36. Interdico, of the MSS. is simply a mistake caused by the succeeding word.]

38. adfore, sc. eum.

41. ad, cf. note on Prol. 49.—bene est = καλῶς (εὖ) ἔχει, 'I am glad of it'; so Trin. I 2. 14.

42. melius adaeque. The two distinct phrases, nemo aequè miser and nemo miserior are here combined, for the sake of emphasis, just as in Merc. II 3. 1, homo me miserior nullus est aequè; cf. magis certius, Capt. III 4. 109.

45. Votuin, see II 2. 14; but this was said to Philocrates.—notare for uctare as often in Plaut.

50. custodem, 'companion.'

52. sorsum = seorsum.

[54. faxit . . . haberes; for the unusual sequence of tenses, cf. Mil. IV 8. 46, si ita tibi sententia esset, tibi scriuire mauelim (converse order).]

56. Essetne, for nonne esset.

58. Mihi, an iambus, cf. Prol. 46.

60. nuperus, ἄπ. εἶρ.—nouicius, a technical term for a newly-purchased slave.

61. Te perdocere; for the acc. with inf. after postulare, cf. line 81, and Trin. II 1. 15.

65. inde ibis porro, 'thence you will go on to.'—latomias lapidarias, called in 78 lapicidinæ; in Poen. IV 2. 5, we have the genuine Roman form luttumiae.

67. cotidiano, adv. for cotidie.

70. Perduis may mean either destroy or lose; Heg. answers, 'Oh, I will take great care of him' (ironically), as though Arist. had meant to beseech him not to lose Tynd.

71. custodibitur, cf. on III 4. 86.

72. interdius (again Most. II 2. 14, etc.) is an old adv. = interdiu. The form dius ('by day') appears in the derivative diur-nus; cf. nudius (in the phrases nudius tertius, quartus, etc.).

73. absoluam, 'let him off.'

80. nequi (μῆπως) as siqui (εἴπως); qui is the abl. of the indefinite pronoun.—ne deterius huic sit, 'that he may not get a shorter allowance,' ironically, as though mala were something desirable.

82. tuo periculo stat, lit. 'costs a risk to you' [cf. multo sanguine ea Poenis victoria stetit, Livy XXIII. 30. Tynd. means that Phil. would avenge him].

86. Construe meres ut aliter dicam; cf. II 3. 62.

91. Peristis, 'you are dead men,' is more threatening than peribitis; [as in Eng. the command, 'Begone,' is more peremptory than 'Go away.']

92. The lorarii lay hold of him somewhat roughly. Caesar's words as the conspirators pressed round him were, 'ista quidem uis est.' (Suet. ch. 82); Lessing remarks that the cry haec uis est was at the same time an appeal for help.

96. Absque in the comic poets is a conjunction (= si sine), and used only with the impersonals esset and foret. Hence absque hoc esset = si hic non esset. 'If it had not been for Arist. here.'—quod before absque has the same force as before si.

97. offrenatum, 'bitted and bridled,' i.e. at their mercy.

[99. satis sum semel deceptus, cf. Soph. O.T. 1061 ἀλὶς νοσοῦσ' ἔγωω.]

104. quod hoc est scelus = quid est hoc malum infelicitatis (Ter. Ad. IV 2. 5) cf. Eun. II 3. 35, quid hoc est sceleris?

[105. in orbitatem, 'in order to be childless.']

[107. mis is an old form of the gen. of ego, as tis of tu. The latter is supported by the MSS. of Plaut. in Mil. IV 2. 43 (quia tis eget), Trin. II. 2. 62 (Fl.); the former occurs nowhere else in Plaut., but is quoted by Priscian (xiii. ch. 2) from Ennius. Pareus (Lex. Plaut.) mentions it as occurring in our passage; and the omission of mei in the best MS. (mis being regarded by the copyist as a mere repetition of the first syll. of miseret) makes this a probable emendation: see A. Luchs (Hermes VI. p. 274).]

108. exauspicauī, 'I came out with good prospects';—redauspicandum = redeundum, and is formed here on the analogy of exauspicauī.

IV. 1.

3. laudem, i.e. as the first to bring good tidings:—festiuitatem, 'feasting.'

4. pompa; cf. Plaut. fragm. Baccar. quoniam haec uentri portatur pompa? The convoy of a large purchase of provisions home from market is compared to a solemn procession.

5. supplicare, as he had done, according to his own account in Act III Scene 1.

6. prodesse, i.e. my influence will be able to get invitations for my friends.

7. For the repetition, cf. IV 2. 45 and Amph. I 1. 125, optumo optume optunam operam das.—onerare, 'overwhelm,' cf. IV 2. 47 and III 1. 5.

8. sine sacris hereditas is synonymous with 'pure gain.' Properly it means an unencumbered legacy, one which did not involve as a condition the obligation to maintain the sacra domestica or privata (see Cic. de Leg. ii 9, SACRA PRIVATA PERPETVA MANENTO). The same expression in Trin. ii 4. 83. Cena hac annonast sine sacris hereditas.—ecfertissimus. Participles sometimes receive the terminations of the comparative and superlative degrees. Thus Trin. ii 3. 6 factius (from factus), id. i 2. 185 occlusior. The later literary language employs scarcely any except auctior, emendatior, accuratior.

11. certa res est, 'I have made up my mind.'

12. coniiciam, in order to free the body for running the pallium (ιμάτιον) might be gathered up and thrown over the shoulder or round the neck in the way in which an undergraduate sometimes disposes of his gown; thus Epid. ii 2. 12, age nunciam orna te, Epidice, et palliolum in collum conice; Ter. Phorm. v 6. 4, umerum pallio onerare. But, except for slaves, a hurried pace was considered scarcely respectable. Poen. iii 1. 19, liberos homines per urbem modico magis par est gradu ire: servuli esse dico, festinantem currere. [After me hiatus; Ritschl proposed med (Neue Pl. Exc. I. p. 36), Fl. inserted ille after me.]

[13. After nuntium hiatus in the diaeresis. Fl. inserts esse; Bosscha and Lind. read aeuiternum]

IV. 2.

1. Join quanto magis.
2. auctior. On the long quantity of the final syll. see Intr. B.
4. An independent sentence, instead of the acc. and inf., as the last line.
5. scibitur, see on iii 4. 86.
6. Quom extemplo, see on ii 3. 74.
7. doctus, 'clever,' Pers. iv 4. 45, uide sis: ego ille doctus leno puene in foueam decidi.

[8. The line is not a complete tetrameter. Bosscha supplied ire after quem.]

[10. Lind. remarks that omnem, written om̄—in the MSS. would easily fall out after moram. Hiatus after omnem.—age hanc rem, devote yourself to the business before you.]

[11. Que which the MSS. give after interminor is a common mistake, see iii 2. 5: Eminor interminor is an expression like dico edico (vobis nostrum esse illum erileu jilium), Ter. Eun. v 4. 40, and other formulae (dico interdico). Most modern editors reject em̄nor, a word which certainly occurs nowhere else, but which is not only in itself unobjectionable, but strongly supported by em̄natio (19). The supposition that the E came from the margin, where it stood to indicate the speaker Erg. (preceding line) is improbable in the face of eminatio (19), and the fact that if we read Minor here the line becomes too short. (Fl. adds hodie after mi, Br. hic.) For the long syll. -or cf. III 3. 15 and Intr. B.]

13. ore sistet, intransitively, lit. : 'shall stand on his head,' as Curc. II 3. 8, (nemo sit) tanta gloria quin cadat, quin capite sistat in uia de semita. Mil. III 2. 36, capite sistebant cadi. [In the sense of to 'halt, stop' sistere is not uncommonly intrans., e.g. Virg. G. 1. 479 sistant umnes.]

14. [ut. So Bentley quotes the line on Ter. Haut. II 3. 30 ; Fl. substituted ita, and is followed by Br. and Uss.]—insistant itinerā 'go their ways.' Cist. IV 2. 10, utrum hac an illac iter institerit, Epid. III 3. 35, rectam institit (sc. uiam).

16. Ballista, catapultā ; with chiasmus. 'Duplex instrumentum priscis, quo in hostes emitterent et iacularentur, altero tela vel grandiores sagittas, altero lapides et saxa. Id prius catapultam dixere veteres, hoc posterius ballistam. Plautus hoc ipsum discrimen palam hic ingerit. Pugnum enim, qui rotundus, cum lapide ballistario comparat, cubitum, qui longior, cum telo catapultae. Ita dico telo. Nec aliter in his versibus utraque vox capienda quam pro eo, quod catapultā emittitur aut ballista.'—Lipsius.

[17. ad quemque icero, 'against whomsoever I strike my knee' (lit.), genu being acc. not abl. So Lind.]

18. Dentilegus, lit. 'a picker up of teeth ;' d. faciam, i.e. 'I will knock out their teeth' [a highly elliptical expression] ;—quemque = quemcumque. So Mil. II 2. 1, 5 etc.

20. die ; see on III 1. 4.

21. obstiterit is fut. perf. 'he who stops me, will be found to have put a stop to his own existence,' as in Aul. III 6. 42, ego faxo et operam et uinum perdiderit simul. Men. III 2. 55, faxo haud inultus pandium comederis.

25. mira sunt ni. Mirum est ni (44) or mira sunt ni (Trin. IV 2. 19) lit. : 'I should be surprised, if . . . not' always in an affirmative sense, 'I suppose that.' On the other hand, mirum (est) quin (e.g. Trin. II 4. 94) 'It is a wonder that . . . not' is always used ironically (Eng. 'it is a pity that . . . not'), and the meaning is a negative ; cf. Trin. IV 2. 125.—in uentrem, humorously for in animum.

26. Vae misero illi, i.e. Erg. will have been an expensive guest.—Imperiosior, cf. 31.

27. Pistores, 'millers.' The word meant later 'bakers' ; but we are expressly told by Varro (in Nonius, p. 132) and the learned jurist Ateius Capito (Pliny, H. N. XVIII § 107), as well as by Pliny himself, that there was no special trade of baker at the time of Plautus. Pliny's words (ibid.) are 'Pistores Romae non fuere ad Persicum usque bellum annis ab urbe cond. super DLXXX. Ipsi panem faciebant Quirites mulierumque id opus erat." Furfuribus. The singular furfur denotes a 'husk, scale,' the plural 'bran,' as has been shown by A. Luchs (in Studem. Stud. i. p. 56) from passages in Varro, Columella, Pliny, and Phaedrus. In line 30 the MSS. preserve the plural furfures.

28. odore = propter odorem.

30. Dominis, substituted, παρὰ προσδοκίαν, for scroffis.—[exculcabo pugnis, a mixed metaphor.]

34. qui (sc. piscatores) aduehantur, 'ride to market.'—crucianti, i.e. jolting.

35. quorum odos, i.e. that caused by their rotten fish. [sub-basilicani, 'those under the porticoes of the basilica.' We are expressly told by Livy, xxvi 27. 3, that in the year of the fire which destroyed a great part of the Forum (210 B.C.), there were no basilicae at Rome; and the first mention that we have of the building of one is in the censorship of M. Porcius Cato, B.C. 184, the year of Plautus' death (see Livy, xxxix 44. 7). Hence Brix infers that the present passage (and Cur. iv l. 11) which make mention of a basilica, must be of later date and not by Plaut. himself; and the 'Dict. of Antiq.,' p. 198, asserts that the Basilica Porcia was the first erected at Rome. But, as Ussing remarks, this is nowhere stated by Livy; and it is quite possible that during the twenty-six years (B.C. 210—184) some other basilica may have sprung up.]

36. 'I will throw their fish baskets in their faces.'

38. concinnant (cf. III 4. 69), see on 39.

39. locant. We must suppose that the lanii were not butchers, but rather dealers in cattle and meat; in some cases they may have contracted to have their own cattle killed in slaughter-houses for them. Hence concinnant (38) 'who bring about the destruction of young lambs,' not slaughter them with their own hands. Hence, too, dupla, 'who sell lamb at double its proper price.' [The MSS. read duplum, which might possibly mean 'lamb twice as old as it should be,' i.e. mutton. Ussing suggests dubiam, i.e. de qua dubitetur, utrum agni an ovis sit, as in Ter. Phorm. ii 2. 28, cena dubia.]—Agnina (sc. caro) cf. porcina (69) and bulbulina, vitulina.

40. petro, 'old wether,'—ueruex sectarius, 'gelded sheep' [seco].

[41. Eorum Br.; on the model of 29.]

42. mortalis. He humorously classes the lanius and the sheep together as mortales.

43. To the aediles belonged the charge of superintending the traffic in the markets. [The seventh foot is a dactyl, which is strictly inadmissible in this place, cf. Christ Metrik, p. 296 and cf. p. 279. Br. accordingly considers the line an interpolation.]

[44. Sibi, with hiatus, being an iambic word in the arsis, with second syll. shortened by the accent.]

45. Non. For the position of this word cf. III 4. 46.

46. Tantus cibus is subject, and commeatus meo uentri is an apposition.

48. [Qui, i.e. quo. Uss.]—adaeque joined with a comparative.—uiuuit, a more vivid way of saying est.

[52. The origin of the mistake uel assultatim in BJ, is clearly shown by one of the minor MSS. (Leid. A), which has assultatim uel assulatim; the gloss was only partially removed from the text by the corrector; see Lind. The line is quoted by Nonius (p. 72) without uel.]

54. respice, in two senses, first (literally) 'to look back at,' second 'to have a care for.' Fortuna was worshipped under the name of 'Respicens' on the Palatine and the Esquiline.

56. Quantumst hominum, cf. Ter. Phorm. v 6. 13. O omnium, quantum est qui uiuunt, hominum homo ornatissime; and Rud. III 4. 1. [In the arrangement of these lines I have followed Studemund (Hermes VI. p. 268).]

60. The words Noli irascier, which are given to Erg. in the MSS., are simply repeated by an oversight from v 65, and make no sense where they stand. The original reading has been driven out by these words.

61. ex corpore, humorously for ex animo.

63. bene facis, "non iudicantis est [which would be recte facis, cf. Trin. i 2, 160] sed gratias agentis." Donatus on Ter. Eum. i 2. 106. Cf. Hor. Sat. i 4. 17, di bene fecerunt quod etc., and facis benigne Capt. v l. 29.—feri, with first syll. long, see Intr. A (v).

66. aulas, cf. i l. 21.

67. fōculum [fōuiculum = that which keeps warm] was a kitchen utensil for warming meat; it is a different word from fōculus dimin. cf. fōcus (=a little fire-place). In Pers. i 3. 24, nam iam intus uentris fumant fōcula, the word seems to be used in the sense of nutrimenta (that which keeps warm).

70. esse, not 'to eat,' cf. Men. III 2. 20, minore nunquam bene fui dispendio.—ophthalmias 'river lamprey.' [The reading pernam is certainly strange, both on account of the hiatus and because it occurs conjoined with the names of various kinds of fish, although the speaker goes on to casens in the next line, and was speaking of meats in the preceding one. Fl. boldly reads muraenam: Br. suggests, but does not himself adopt, percamque.]

71. horaeum scombrum (ὄρατον), 'pickled mackerel'—trugonus, 'sting ray.'

72. nominandi istorum copia, for nominandorum istorum or nominandi ista, doubtless partly to avoid the unpleasant sound of the former; we must explain the genitive plural istorum as co-ordinate to nominandi and thus independently and directly governed on copia. So Ter. Haut. prol. 29, nouarum qui spectandi faciunt copiam. Another possible explanation of the construction, i.e. that the governing substantive and the genitive of the gerund together form a single idea, which then governs the other genitive case, cannot be applied to the great majority of instances without violence. The construction occurs not only in Plaut. and Ter., but also in Lucretius (v 1225 poenarum graue tempus soluendi), Varro, and several times in Cicero.

74. frustra as a trochee, see Intr. A (v).

75. cotidiani uicti, 'every day fare.' In the sixth and the greater part of the seventh century (A.V.C.) the termination of the genitive of the 4th Decl. was -i, or sometimes -uis. So in Pl. we find only the forms sumpti, quaesti, tumulti, uicti, geniti, senati; the last occurs even in Cicero.—adferas. For the subj. cf. 85 facias.

76. uotem, cf. III 5. 45.

77. tu ne, 'yes you'; cf. Trin. III 2. 8.

[80. Hiatus in diaeresis.]

[81. Hiatus in diaeresis.]

[82. propritim. This word is only known to exist in one passage in Latin literature, Lucr. II 975, where its meaning is 'specifically' 'in particular.' Here the meaning seems to be 'specially.' In MSS. propritim, if written carelessly, would look exceedingly like proprium. Br. reads propere unum, after Bothe and Lind.]

86. mi equidem esurio, as though Hegio had meant to join esurire mihi instead of mihi uidere.

88. Te hercle. Erg. begins his sentence as though he were going to say perdant, but checks himself, and gives it a different turn.

90. nunc tu mihi places, with reference to the invitation given in I 2. 66, which he was only half inclined to accept cf. III 1. 37. cenam asperam.—sero, after the trick played him by the prisoners, Heg. is in no mood for a feast.

91. Igitur is used by Plaut. and Lucretius to mark with emphasis the entrance of the apodosis, and may sometimes be translated by 'then,' 'thereupon.' Thus Mil. III 1. 175, quando habebō, igitur rationem mearum fabricarum dabo, and Cas. II 2. 41. So Lucr. II 677, cetera consimili mentis ratione peragrans (= cum peragrabis), inuencies igitur multarum semina rerum, etc. Sometimes we find igitur joined with tum, as Most. III 1. 156. Igitur tum accedam hunc, quando quid agam inuenero, and Trin. III 2. 50.—olim from ollus or olus (= ille) means prop. 'at that (you) time.' Here 'earlier, before,' i.e. before I could have brought you news of your son.—istuc, i.e. that my visit was inopportune.

94. illum adulescentulum, i.e. Philocrates, of whose escape Erg. is supposed to be aware. [celoz, 'naugium modicum et breue; a celeritate sic dictum; cf. Asin. ii 1. 10.'—Pareus.]

95. tuom Stalagmum seruom. This order of words, which at first sight seems strange, is the usual one; so tua Bromia ancilla, Amph. v 1. 28, meus Muesilochus filius, Bacch. ii 3. 112.

[97. Sancta Saturitas. cf. Ὁν ὁ θεὸς ἡ κοιλία, Philippians iii 19.]

98. condecoret cognomine, i.e., faciat ut dici possim Saturio. Lambin.

101. The fact that Κόρα (Proserpina) is at the same time the name of a town in Latium (Cora), suggests to the parasite the idea of going on swearing by the names of other towns in Latium, Praeneste, Signia, Frusino, Alatrium, [all of which he makes feminine, as though they were so many goddesses]. [Schröder (Programm, Marlenwerder, 1853) suggests καὶ τὰν Κόραν; cf. Ar. Vesp. 1437.]

[102. The reading of the MSS. Im diu ('was it long since?') is quite out of place; for Erg. had a moment before said Tuom modo Philopolemm uidi (93). Heg. takes up the various points of Erg.'s statement one by one; here he should ask 'What, just now?' or something of that kind; Wagner accordingly conjectures tammodo, which seems to have been a provincialism for modo, see Trin. iii 1. 8, 'Tammodo, inquit Praenestinus;' and Festus (p. 359, 5) says 'tammodo antiqui ponebant pro modo.' Supposing Heg. to have used a provincialism, the answer of the Parasite 'Yes, by Praeneste!' comes in with great effect: see Wagner in Jahn's Jahrb. for 1866, p. 113. Tammodo, however, scarcely suits the metre, as the final o would probably be short; and the word is far removed from the MSS.]

104. Barbaricas = Italicas, cf. iii 1. 32 and note.—quia enim 'because, to be sure,' see note on iii 4. 36.—asperae: i.e. of rough or harsh speech. [The Latin language is supposed to grate upon the Greek ear. But apart from this, Plautus is very fond of ridiculing the people of Praeneste, and especially their dialect; see Truc. iii. 2. 23 (ut Praenestinos "coniū" est ciconia). The Praenestines seem to have held themselves aloof from intercourse with Rome; and in the year 216 B.C. (not so very long before the Captivi was produced) refused to accept the offer of the Roman franchise (see Livy xxiii 20. 2). It is not surprising if they were unpopular.]

105. uae aetati tuae, periphrasis for uae tibi. Vae is elided, though an interjection.

106. Quippe, elliptically, 'Of course ill will betide me (uae mihi erit), since you refuse to believe what I say, and I have no chance of my reward for the good tidings.'—sedulo, 'in good earnest.'

107. Sed. He interrupts himself suddenly.—abit, cf. on Prol. 22, and II 2. 32.

108. Boia is a pun, meaning both a Boian woman, and a kind of collar worn by slaves. Erg. says Stal. must be a Boian, because he is wedded to a "Boia." The Boii were a powerful and warlike people of Upper Italy, who had on several occasions caused the Romans much annoyance, especially in the Second Punic War; their complete subjection by Scipio Nasica and incorporation in the province of Gallia Cisalpina (B.C. 191) was an event still fresh in the memory of the audience.

116. Nam, see note on III 4. 72.—mantiscinatus, a humorous word formed from μάντις on the analogy of uaticinatus. [No doubt mantiscinor is a very barbarous formation; but perhaps it would have been less intelligible to a Roman audience, if formed on more scientific principles. Some commentators read manticinatus, but have to add a word like ego or tu in order to scan the line. Erg. likens himself to a προφήτης Διός (cf. Pindar N. I. 91), one who with full knowledge reveals to the uninspired what is hidden from them. An oracle did not necessarily relate to the future; and the modern idea of 'foretelling' does not quite correspond.] —pectito, cf. pugnis pectere Men. v 7. 30, and the similar metaphor, fuste dolare, Hor. Sat. i 5. 22.

118. In order to secure his position, Erg. binds his host by a formal contract (stipulatio). [The question might be put by the stipulator either as above or by any one of the following words, Dabis?, Promittis?, Fide promittis?, Fide iubes?, Facies?, and the answer of the promissor would correspond, Dabo, Promitto, etc.]

119. respondeo here in its original and etymological signification [which thus makes a sort of pun].

120. potes, cf. II 3. 88.—ambula, cf. II 3. 92.

IV. 3.

2. collos, cf. II 2. 107.—tegoribus, the form of tergoribus which is supported by A in the next scene (7) and again by BC in Pseud. I 2. 64 [defended by Turnebus Advers. xxii ch. 6.]

3-5. Observe the alliteration.

4. absumedo, an ἄπ. λεγ., to repeat the sound of sumen, but correctly formed on the analogy of uredo, intercapedo.

6. morast, cf. II 3. 36. For the indie. cf. Trin. v 3. 11, nam si pro peccatis centum ducat uxores, parumst. Poen. iv 2. 99, nunc si eulem hic iterem, inscitiust, [and the phrase longum est, Madv. § 348. c. obs. 1].

7. Praefectura; similarly provincia Cas. i 15. abi directus tuam in provinciam. A praefectura was an Italian township, governed by a praefectus iuri dicundo, who was sent out annually from Rome.

Erg speaks of himself as such a governor, cf. Cas. I 11, quid rures in praefectura tua? (of a 'vilicus'). [The restoration of this verse is due to Geppert, who discovered traces of the lost words in the Ambrosian Palimpsest.]

[8. indemnatae "quasi rei, qui indemnata causa suspensi iudicium expectent." Uss.]

IV. 4.

[The grammarians and editors who divided the play into five acts ought clearly to have begun the fifth here, and not after this scene. For some considerable interval of time is necessary, if the account given by the boy in lines 6–10 of the doings of Erg. is not to appear grossly improbable; whereas no pause is needed at the end of this scene. But it would be better to give up the division into five acts altogether.]

[4. This line lacks some syllables; but all the conjectures hitherto proposed seem liable to serious objections. Lind. supplies si sit after quasi, but the present is the wrong tense; C. Rothe (Quaest. Gramm. p. 36, Berlin, 1876) proposes esset; but in such expressions, as Br. remarks, it is not the custom of Plaut. to use the verb esse at all, cf. Poen. v 2. 74 quasi proserpens bestia.]

[5. The fragment of this verse, which Geppert has been able to read in the Ambrosian MS., is found nowhere else. I have given his conjectural restoration in the text; but it need hardly be said that the reading cannot be considered certain.]

7. deturbavit, 'he pulled down meat hook and all,' instead of cutting off a portion of what was hanging on it.

8. glandium, a glandule of the throat; the glandulae in a pig are what the tonsillae are in a man.

10. seriae, 'preserving pans;' the saucepans he did not consider large enough for his purpose. [The scansion cocūm p̄er. is defended by Müller Pl. Pros. p. 93. At the beginning of the verse some licence is allowed; see Christ, Metrik, § 400, cf. § 346.]

11. omnes, for there were several, e.g. olearia, uinaria, penaria.—reclisit. The long syll. rē- is to be explained from the old form of the prefix red- (as in redimere, redire, redintegrare, reddere, etc.); the forms recludo, reclido became first, by assimilation of the consonants, reclulo, reclido (redduco required no change), then, with a long vowel to compensate for the loss of a consonant, rēclulo, rēclido, rēduco, and finally with a short vowel, rēcludo, rēclido, rēduco.

13. sibi, an iambus see on v 1. 19.—Construe: si quidem uolet sese uti sc. penu.

[14. The verse is unmetrical as it stands in the MSS.; adopting Lind.'s correction, we must scan nam without elision.—iam erit; for iam with the future cf. Aul. II 2. 26, iam ad te reuertar.]

V. 1.

2. Quom, see on I 2. 48.—[reducem, adj. The quantity of the first syllable of the verb reduco is always long in Plautus, where it can be determined by the metre. Sometimes the spelling redduco is preserved in the MSS.]

5. istunc, i.e. Stalagmus, whom Philopolemus had found during his stay in Elis, and had compelled to accompany him home.

7. ex animo, cf. miser ex animo (from the bottom of his heart), Trin. II 3. 6; whereas the phrases doleo ab animo, doleo ab oculis, doleo ab aegritudine, Cist. I 1. 61, (literally on the side of the mind, from the quarter of the eyes, etc.) is a more external description of feeling. After maceravi the MSS. insert hoc, evidently from the commencement of 9.

9. Hoc agamus, see on II 3. 84. By Quid nunc Philoer. hints at his claim to some return.

12. Proinde ut, see II 2. 57. The reading of the MSS. Immo potes, Pater, et poteris, et ego potero etc. creates a false antithesis between potes and potero, and suppresses the tu which is wanted for the real contrast of persons.

13. Scan 'Dĭ ěām pŏtĕstātem,' and see Intr. A (i). [This is an extreme case, as potestatem is not a combination of words; but cf. dedisti, Men. IV 3. 15, innĕntute Most. I 1. 29.—eam, for eius rei, see on II 2. 108.

14. nostro bene merenti = nostro benefactori, cf. the substantive use of benevolens, 'a well-wisher,' Trin. I 2. 8. [nostro, however, might be taken with merito, 'by a service on our part.']—muneris = munereris: a good many verbs, afterwards exclusively Deponent, are in Plautus used both as Dep. and also in the Active: thus insectabit III 4. 61, minitas III 5. 85, exauspicavi (never Dep. in Pl.) III 5. 108; so, arbitrarem Pseud. IV 2. 57, contempla Mil. IV 2. 39, etc.

17. Postulo; he now openly demands the favour hinted at in 9.—reliqueram = reliqui, see on Prolog. 17.

[18. For the long final syllable of sibi, see Prolog. 46, v 2. 19, v 3. 4, 11.

19. pretium = mercedem, as in Trin. II 1. 58.—ei, a Spondee or Iambus, according as eius is taken for a monosyll. or dissyll.

20. Quod bene fecisti (= eius quod), a Relative clause, cf. v 2. 8, Quod ego fatear pudeat; v 3. 19, Quod male feci crucior. For similar instances of the omission of the Demonstr. Pron. see Mil. IV 2. 86 (quis for ex iis quas); Amph. I 1. 296, non ego illi obtempero quod loquitur.—[id quod postulas 'per appositionem vel epexegetisim quandam ad superiora sunt explicanda.' Liud.]

22. quod, not Conj., but Pron., 'at what,' see 20.

25. Propter meum caput, 'for my sake': caput = person, personality, self; so in ii 1. 36, iii 5. 29, and Pseud. ii 4. 33 (hoc caput = ego). Mil. iii 1. 129 (O lepidum caput), Epid. iii 2. 33, Aul. iii 2. 11; espec. in the imprecation Vae capiti tuo. Even in the normal usage of later times we find liberum, noxium, uile caput, and so on.

26. libella, one of the smallest silver coins, equal in value to one as. — ne duis, see on ii 2. 81.

28. Licet, literally, 'you have (my) leave,' hence 'with all my heart,' as in Trin. ii 2. 95, ii 4. 116, Amph. i 3. 46, Men. i 2. 48; sometimes a mere form of assent, 'Yes, yes, just so,' used with a comical effect in Rud. iv 6. 4—15.

30. statua, because he stands speechless; and uerbera, as though verbera were the material of which the statue was made, see Pseud. iv 1. 7.

31. factum filio, 'what has become of my younger son' [without the usual de], cf. Truc. iv 3. 25 quid eo fecisti puero?, Pseud. i 1. 86 sed quid ea drachuma facere vis? The Abl. in this construction is simply an Abl. of the Instrument, extended from things to persons; sometimes used even with Intrans. verbs, e.g. Trin. i 2. 120 si quid eo fuerit (= si quid ei acciderit, εἴ τι πάθῃ).

V. 2.

1. bone uir, 'fine fellow' ironically as in Mil. ii 4. 11 (ὦγαθέ). — The nick name of Stalagnos (drop) was given by the Athenians to a μικρὸν παντελῶς ἀθρόπιον, see Fragm. of Anaxandrides in Athen. vi p. 242 d.

2. quid me oportet, 'What can you expect me to do when a man like you tells such lies?' [i.e. as to call me lepidus.]

3. frugi: Corssen (Vol. I. p. 729 Obs.) takes this as a Dative of purpose (= for use) on the strength of five passages of Plautus, cf. Truc. i 1. 13, Cas. ii 4. 5, Trin. ii 2. 43, Pseud. i 5. 53; but Bergk ('Auslaut. Dim alt. Latein' p. 78 and 98) is more correct in regarding it as a Genitive (with the loss of a final s, as indeed Corssen himself had previously thought, Krit. Nachtr., p. 83), since Mar. Victor. i 4. 8 expressly quotes bonae frugis as well as bonae frugi, and even the lover of archaisms, Gellius, uses the form (vi. 11. 2), and must therefore have had authority for it.

4. ne in spem ponas = ne speres, as in metu ponere = metuere in the senarius quoted by Cic. Top. xiii 55, and ad Att. xii 51, xiv 21; but ponere (imponere) in aliquid (Aec.) is not unfreq. in Plautus: see Trin. iii 3. 11, Mil. iii 3. 54, Rud. iv 7. 11, Cure. iv 2. 20.

5. Prope modum, 'pretty well,' as in Trin. iii 1. 14, iii 3. 51; its sense repeated, after the intermediate clause, by facile, as that of videlicet by quasi II 2. 36.

[6. Bracketed by Br. as a mere repetition of 15.]

7. loquere, imperative.

8. quod ego, etc. Construe: credin puleat me, quom autumes, eius quod ego fatear? (see on v 1. 20), puleat being Subj. Potent. joined in parataxis to credin; quom autumes = ‘because you say it.’ The Subj. fatear is a case of Attractio Modi, as attigisset for attigit in Bacch. II 2. 19, and contraerim for contraei in Amph. III 1. 11.

9. in ruborem dabo, i.e. virgis, with a gesture imitating the action of flogging; cf. Asin. II 4. 20 iussu in splendorem dari bullas has foribus nostris?, Pseud. IV 1. 24 illum in timorem dabo; so ad languorem dare Asin. III 2. 28.

10. The meaning is: ‘your threats are lost on one so plagarum peritus; so drop that’ (istae aufer). Cf. Aul. IV 4. 11 aufer cauillam, Truc. IV 4. 8 aufer nugas, Hor. Sat. II 7. 43 aufer (save yourself the trouble) me uoltu terrere. The ironical credo should be taken with inperito.

11. fers = adfers, while feras = auferas.

12. fieri dicta compendi uolo, ‘cut your speech short.’ Bacch. II 2. 6 compendi verba multa iam faciam tibi, Pseud. IV 7. 44 operam fac compendi quaerere; so Most. I 1. 60, Asin. II 2. 41, etc. For the predicative genitive cf. lucri facere and praemii, mercedis or dotis dare [by way of].

13. puer, as (or, when) a boy. [An aside; deceat, sc. eum esse.]

16. quid dignus siem, ‘what I deserve’; so Asin. I 2. 23 uiden ut ne id quidem me dignum esse existimat, Ter. Phorm. 519 di tibi omnes id quod es dignus duiut.

[23. me et form hiatus, see Intr. D (iii.). Speng. supposes hiatus after supreme, in the diacresis; Br. accents et.]

[24. genium, hiatus in diacresis, Intr. D (i.).—For the position of te cf. II 3. 82, Hor. Od. I 8. 2, Epod. 5. 5.]

V. 3.

6. Quid. In this question Plautus regularly uses the subst. quid, not the adj. quod (nomen), cf. II 2. 35, Trin. IV 2. 94.

7. Paegnium, a Greek diminutive, Παίγνιον [from παίζω]. like Ἐρώτιον, Στρούθιον (sparrow), Ναυάριον, etc.;—indidistis, sc. ei nomen.

9. nihili . . . gratia, whose favour is worth nothing.

10. Construe: ‘Was that (istū) the one (is) whom you, etc., and who, etc.’ The two Rel. clauses are co-ordinate, both of them referring to is,—istic, with ref. to 2nd person, 'he whom you have just mentioned, Paegnium.'

12. nil Adv., an emphatic non.—ceterum, 'the rest,' Obj. to curaui, as in Men. I 4. 6 ceterum cura.

14. argumenta, facts regarded as evidence. Rud. IV 4. 136.

18. quom after eheu introduces the reason for the exclamation: 'alas! that . . .'. So Poen. III 5. 46, cheu quom ego habui ariolos laruspices, Mil. IV 8. 47 hei mihi quom, Men. II 2. 29.—me, sc. facece as in Aul. III 2. 10 ctiam rogatus? an quia minus quam equom erat feci?

19. Quod is not a Conj., the sense being crucior propter id quod male feci, see v 1. 21.—modo si, 'if only,' nearly the same as utinam.

20. ornatus, alluding to the chains still on him; cf. Ter. Adel. 176 ornatus esses ex tuis uirtutibus, and Rud. III 4. 25 ita ego te hinc ornatum amittam, tu ipsus te ut non noueris.

V. 4.

1. Acherunti, see on III 5. 31.

2. nulla, the only passage in Plautus from which the gender of Acheruus can be determined; an older poet quoted in Cic. Tusc. II 16. 37 has altae Acheruntis. [nulla A. is not so much 'no Acheron,' as 'Ach. in no wise, in no degree;' cf. nullus ego='I don't a bit,' so totus ego='I wholly.']

3. illic ibi: the twofold designation of place (as of time in tum ibi) is emphatic; Cic. pro Rosc. Am. 5. 13 hic ibidem. [Compare the Eng. vulgarism 'that there.']

5. monerulae for monedulae; so in the best MSS. both here and in Asin. III 3. 104.

[7. upupa, note the pun on the two meanings, that of the bird (hoopoe) and that of a pickaxe].—delectem for delectarem, from metrical necessity, as in Pseud. III 2. 6 noluit ut esset qui mortuis cenam coquat, Mil. II 1. 53 qui ad illum deferat, ut is huc ueniret, Cist. I 3. 20 obseruauit, quis in a dis huc puellam deferat; Amph. II 2. 124.

8. eccum, eccos, eccas, eccillum, eccistum, etc. (i.e. ecce eum, and so on); these words, in a sentence already provided with a finite verb, are thrown in as interjections, and have no influence on the construction; so in the latter half of this verse, and in v 3. 20; see Cas. II 1. 15 atque ea ipsa eccam egreditur foras, Rud. III 2. 49 sed eccas ipsae huc egrediuntur . . . mulieres, Bacch. IV 1. 39 Maesilochus eccum adestus progreditur foras. We have eccum incedit, eccum adest often used in this way, but never eccum est, a simple est being always omitted as in the former half of this verse, and in Rud. IV 4. 130.

9. quid gnate mi? 'What do you mean by gnate mi?' The words that excite surprise are usually repeated without alteration: Bacch. I 2. 39 Pl. Omitte, Lyde, ac caue malo. LY. Quid 'caue malo'? So in Mil. II 3. 45, Rud. III 4. 31, Cas. II 8. 18 seq., II 5. 41.

11. lucis: during his brief term of punishment he has had to break stones sub terra. The word lux is generally masc. in Plautus, as Aul. IV 10. 22 [cf. Wagner's note]; Cist. II 1. 58 (also Ter. Adel. 841); fem. only in Amph. I 3. 49 luce clara et candida. [The present passage, however, might be explained differently, as containing the same construction as nominiandi istorum, IV 2. 72. In both cases the genitive depends on the word copia.]

12. Et tu = you also.

17. Illic, i.e. Stalagmus, 'the slave,' in order to distinguish him from is (15), Theodoromedes.—[una. The MSS. have hunc; but this would not be Latin; see on Prol. 2.]

[18. intus eccum, cf. I 2. 60 (eccum hic) and note. In neither case is the person alluded to on the stage.]

19. ais. For the long final syll., see Intr. B.—The MSS. here, as often, transpose the last two words in the line; so even the Ambrosian MS. in one passage.

[21. Br. considers that lines 14—20 are an interpolation, made by some person who thought greater detail was necessary, and that the end of 14 and the beginning of 20 were altered to suit the insertion.]

25. Probably an alternative reading (suggested orig. in the margin) for the next line.

26. In memoriam regredior, cf. Cic. Verr. II 1. 46 redite in memoriam iudices; the memory is regarded as something objective, or external to the subject.

27. Quasi per nebulam; the same phrase Pseud. I 5. 48. [The words must here be joined with in memoriam regredior, which is equivalent to 'I recollect.' The pause in the sense thus gives a ground of justification for the hiatus, which also precedes a proper name: see Intr. D (ii).—There is nothing impossible in this recollection on the part of Tyndarus of a name not heard since the age of four years, though the passage has been objected to as an improbability, see in Lessing (Kritik, etc.).]

29. id praeuorti, cf. II 3. 100, III 2. 14. The acc. of the pron. id (so hoc, illud) represents a dative of a subst. Sometimes the idea of prae- is strengthened by the addition of primum.

31. recte feceris, sc. si quid mihi dederis. The company of actors, or one actor in their name, speaks the Epilogue, which bears traces of the same hand that composed the Prologue. [cf. ad publicos mores with neque spurcidici insunt uorsus inmemorabiles Prol. 56.]

EXCURSUS.

AN EXAMINATION OF THE CRITICAL VALUE OF THE CODEX BRITANNICUS.

This MS., which scholars have agreed since Ritschl to designate by the letter J, is at present little known, and its value a debated question. Ritschl, in his Prolegomena to the Trinummus, p. xli (1848), accorded it an equal rank with the Codex Vetus (B); Wagner, who first published a collation, for his edition of the Aulularia (1866), expressed an adverse opinion, and challenged the position which Ritschl had assigned it in his stemma. Since Wagner's Aulularia was published, several writers have discussed the question, and arrived at various results. I propose to give some account of this controversy, and to state the conclusion to which I have been led from a consideration of the arguments advanced on both sides, and my own examination of the MS.

For a description of J and its history I will refer the reader to Wagner's Introduction,* to which the following remarks may be regarded as supplementary. It is neatly executed, apparently by more than one hand; few contractions are employed, and the writing is on the whole easy to read, excepting where it has been damaged by the fire. It has, however, been so severely burnt all round the edge, that nearly the whole of the margin is destroyed, and the beginnings of lines on the left, and ends of lines on the right hand pages, and sometimes a line or two at the tops of pages, are more or less illegible. The MS. thus injured has been repaired or inlaid, the parts destroyed having been replaced by new parchment, so as to complete the original size of the pages, and to preserve the whole from further injury.

The facsimile specimen, containing a passage from Capt. III 1, is taken from the bottom of a folio, and will serve to give some idea of the appearance of the MS.: the heading of the new scene is in red letters, and also the capital letter M. On the right hand side the

* I would at the same time point out a slight mistake into which Wagner has fallen. The quotation which he gives from Casley (p. 316), to the effect that the MS. 'was preserved,' refers to an entirely different volume—one in the Cottonian Library. There can be no doubt that our MS. was injured in the fire which burnt the Cottonian and part of the Royal Library (Oct. 23, 1731). The MS. bears every appearance of having suffered by fire; and Casley's words, 'lacerata sunt aliqua folia in principio codicis,' apply sufficiently well to it, being intended to mark the different state of preservation of the beginning and end of the book. All Casley's descriptions are somewhat vague and general.

traces of the fire are visible ; but this folio has suffered far less than the average amount of damage, and therefore gives no idea of the trouble which it costs to decipher the writing in some of the worst places. Of the first folio, for instance (the commencement of the Amphitruo), nothing remains but a small fragment of parchment from the centre. The general character of the writing points to the end of the 11th century ; our MS. is therefore probably somewhat younger than the Codex Vetus, and somewhat older than the Codex Ursinianus.

That so ancient a MS. could not be valueless a priori probable ; and indeed no doubts as to its importance seem to have existed among scholars until recent years, though it was at no time widely known and apparently never collated. That Bentley both knew and valued it, has been sufficiently proved in my Preface ; if further proof were needed, I might cite a passage from his edition of Terence (Haut. i l. 20), in which he quotes a reading of a MS. which he calls ‘Codex Regius 800 annorum,’ doubtless meaning J, which has the reading in question.* Our MS. appears, however, to have been known long before the time of Bentley. In his interesting article on the ‘Plautine Studies of Camerarius’ (Opusc. iii p. 117), Ritschl conjectures that J is the MS. which Camerarius hoped would be sent to him from England. He quotes a letter of Melancthon to Camerarius, June 10th, 1538, from which it appears that the former had been in correspondence with an English bishop on the subject. “De Plauto accurate scripsi ad Episcopum quendam Anglicum, et ad Franciscum nostrum, qui cum tuo vetere amico Bammelbergio in Britanniam missus est, ut audiant Regis voluntatem de religione.” It is supposed that the ‘Episcopus quidam Anglicus’ was Thomas Cranmer. Camerarius’ hopes were doubtless disappointed ; for his ‘Epistola Nuncupatoria’ makes no mention of his having received the MS. : had it actually been sent, he would certainly have expressed his obligations to the senders. But that J is the MS. in question is sufficiently proved by the fact that there neither is nor ever was, so far as is known, any other MS. of Plautus in England which can date back further than the 15th century.

Ritschl, too, was originally inclined, as has been stated above, to place J upon an equality with B and D. His words are : “ex illarum codice δ (the supposed archetype) repetendi B et D, quorum binas partes ex eis quae supra attulimus intelligitur seorsum scriptas esse : repetendus J, qui est membranaceus Musei Britannici 15. c. xi, rectius autem ut opinor undecimo quam decimo saeculo tribuitur.” With this passage should be compared his Stemma, p. xxxvii. He seems, however, never to have seen the MS., and to have had little knowledge of it at this time ; for in the article quoted above (Opusc. iii p. 119) he admits that he has changed his opinion as to its importance since receiving a collation of it by Emil Braun, and becoming better acquainted with it from other sources ; and he adds, that had Camerarius been able to use it, it would have been of little use to him by the side of the Codex Vetus.

* That Bentley was mistaken in the age of J has been pointed out by Wagner (Intr. 1p. iii, iv).

It was Wagner, however, who first controverted the traditional opinion of this MS. His line of argument is as follows : firstly, he points out the frequent agreement of J with late MSS., such as the ‘Pall. Sex’ of Pareus, the Langiani, etc. ; secondly, he charges J with the fatal defect of being a “corrected copy ;” that is to say, he maintains that the copyist did not confine himself to copying, but emended the text as he went on, according to his own judgment. This would of course seriously impair the value of the MS. ; for however faulty the archetype may have been, its errors would, as Wagner says, have been “more welcome to us than the emendations of an ignorant mediæval grammarian.” In proof of his statement, Wagner relies upon two arguments : (1) a number of passages which he quotes from the Aulularia, in which he maintains that such corrections have been made in J ; (2) after quoting the barbarous verses which are appended to the MS. on the last folio, and which run as follows,

Exemplar mendum tandem me compulit ipsum
Cunctantem nimium plautum exemplarier istum
Ne graspicus mendis proprias idiota repertis
Ad deret. et liber hic falso patre falsior esset,

he adds, that they must be admitted to “contain truth :” and he seems to understand them to mean that the scribe emended the text in order to improve an ‘exemplar mendum’ or faulty archetype. I shall have to return to these verses ; but will not discuss their meaning here, in order to bring up the sketch of the controversy to the present time.

Wagner’s attack was followed up by an anonymous writer in the Philologischer Anzeiger (1872, p. 391), who maintained that even the opinion of Wagner was too favourable to J, and that on the ground of the “fatal agreement” of J with minor MSS., it must be classed together with them, and all referred to one and the same source.

Our MS., however, has found a defender in G. Götz, one of the editors who is continuing the edition of Plautus commenced by Ritschl. His view of its value is based upon an accurate collation,* and is stated in his Analecta Plautina (Leipsic, 1877), his Preface to the Epidicus (Leipsic, 1878), and an article in the Rheinisches Museum (1879, p. 52 seq.). His position is shortly this : that the evidence produced by Wagner to prove that J is a corrected copy, by no means bears out such an assertion, although a passage may here and there be found in which the hand of a corrector can be

* I may state that I have examined the passages in which he notes a divergence between this collation and that of Wagner (Anal. Pl. p. 73) ; in all of them the collation of Emil Braun is quite accurate.

detected. But the passage on which Wagner laid chief stress, the line (Aul. 241, Wagn.), ni mirum occidit, nisi ego intro huc prope propero currere, in which the word propere is omitted in J, admits, he thinks, of another and simpler interpretation. This line, which is really a trochaic septenarius, is misplaced in all the MSS., which give it after 390 (II 8. 23) among iambic senarii; and Wagner considers that the copyist of J omitted the word propere in order to make it scan as a senarius. But, Götz retorts, the verse will not scan even so, unless nisi be also changed to ni; what then is more likely than that propere was simply an accidental omission before the similar word propero? The opinion which Götz himself has of J may be summed up in the statements, that it belongs to a family the common source of which must be referred to the same archetype from which B and D sprang; and that accordingly, while J cannot be neglected in those plays which are contained in D, its importance where D fails us and J is left as the only MS. that can be set by the side of B, is exceedingly great. He adds that the chief reason of the inferiority of J to B is, that the former was the work of a very careless scribe ("quod a librario saepissime dormitante scriptus est"). This position he supports by quoting a number of lines from the Epidicus, in which J helps to restore the true reading against a mistake of B; and in several of them he shows that the reading of J agrees with the Ambrosian palimpsest (A).

I now proceed to discuss the verses quoted above from the last folio of J, which I translate as follows: 'An imperfect copy (archetype) at length drove me after too long delay to make this copy* of Plautus with my own hand, in order that an ignorant scribe might not add imperfections of his own to those he found (there), and this book be so less faithful than its unfaithful original.' If this be the meaning, there is no hint of correcting or emending the faulty archetype; the emphasis is on the word ipsum, and the writer adds that his motive in copying the original with his own hand was, that the duty might not fall to one whose imperfect knowledge might lead him still further to pervert the faulty archetype. This imperfect knowledge would just show itself in the attempt to improve upon corrupt readings: if exemplarier meant 'to emend,' the last two lines would lay the writer open to a very easy retort.† Mendum refers doubtless both to corruptions of the text and to the lacunae, some of which, e.g. in the Casina, extend over several lines; the writer of the lines wishes to say that in every difficult passage he has been absolutely faithful to the copy before him, and that he is competent to the task. The preservation, so characteristic of J, of the old way of writing enclitics and proclitics, namely, as part of the word to which they belong, confirms the belief that these statements are true.*

* Du Cange (Glossarium mediae et infimae Latinitatis) explains exemplare (active) as 'exemplar exprimere;' and idiota as 'illiteratus, qui propriae tantum linguae notitiam habet.' Iste is used loosely, as often in late Latin, for hic.

† It would no doubt be possible to make the clause ne esset dependent on conscientiam, and to refer idiota graphicus to the writer of the verses. This would lend some colour to the translation of exemplarier as 'to emend,' and is possibly the way in which Wagner translates the lines. But the above translation seems preferable, as giving a simpler and more natural thought to the writer.

But the faults in these lines make it evident that the MS. is not the copy made by the composer of them. J cannot claim to be more than a copy of that copy, and may be even a still later reproduction. This is a fact which seems altogether to have escaped Wagner. Yet nothing can be clearer than that graspicus for graphicus, and ad deret for adderett, are the mistakes of just such an "idiota graphicus" as the versifier feared to entrust with the task of copying Plautus. The traces of the carelessness and ignorance of the scribe of J are visible on every folio of the MS., which seems often to have been written with utter disregard of sense and metre—indeed in total indifference as to whether the letters put down formed a Latin word or not. Thus we find such combinations of letters as inuunt (i 1. 13) for uiuunt, to which when written it certainly bears a certain resemblance, lanā (i. e. lanum) for lanii (iv 2. 38), luberitius for lubentius (i 2. 10), & for ce two or three times, utilitati for utilitati (ii 1. 37), duellares for duellatores (Prol. 68), cur aquam for cura quam (iv 2. 120), and so on in almost every dozen lines; in ii 3. 54, the MS. reads Fecisti for Feci, copying the first word of 51, and owing to a similar mistake it omits altogether a line, Aul. iii 2. 12, which ends with the same words (caput sentit) as the line before. Many other instances of such omissions, sometimes of one, sometimes of two, once of four lines (Epid. i 1. 84 seq.), are quoted by Götz (Anal. Pl. p. 73 seq.). Again, the marks or contractions indicating a change of speakers are thrown in with the greatest carelessness, and in such a way as to make the dialogue often quite unintelligible (see note on p. 17); thus in v 1. 32, it assigns the words Sequere—intro to Philocrates, making him the speaker and the person addressed at the same time. All this negligence no doubt renders J a less perfect MS. than it would otherwise have been; but at any rate we are safe from the hand of a corrector here; and, as I have tried to show, there is no reason to suspect it in the first copyist. The MS. we at present possess is therefore a bad copy of an exact copy of a faulty archetype.

In using J we must therefore be prepared to find the text frequently disfigured and distorted; but we are also entitled to expect from a MS. of the 11th century that it should afford us some real help in constituting the text; and this, I think, it does. In spite of the general and marked superiority of B, J in not a few passages

* Traces of the same spelling are found also in B; see Ritschl, Proleg. Trin. cxv; we must therefore suppose it to have been employed in the common archetype of B and J.

† See Anal. Plaut. p. 73.

preserves the true reading, which B has lost. Thus in 1 1. 15, J has suo suo, B suo suo; in 11 1. 9, J cum catenis, B cum catenatis; in 11 1. 56, J potes, B potest; in 11 2. 19, J admutilabit, B admutila labit; in 11 3. 15, J ad parentes, B adparentes meos; in 11 3. 33, J praecipias (written with a contraction for prae-), B¹ precius, B² precipias; in all these passages J is not only clearly superior, but is supported by the Codex Ursinianus (D)*, which has the same reading in each case (11 2. 19, D has admutilabit).

But further, J frequently has the superior reading, where B and D agree in an error. This will be seen from the following table :

	J	BD
Prol. 36	is sernos	hic seruus (B¹)
„ 42	seruabit	seruauit
1 2. 11	non uidere	Noui dere (nouidere)†
1 2. 18	quippiam	quipiam
1 2. 26	misera macritudine	miser amacritudine
1 2. 46	dixti	dixit
1 2. 68	Contentus	Contemptus
1 2. 69	me assiduo	meas si duo (meas siduo)
11 2. 16	intonstrina	intostrina‡ (bitostrina)
11 3. 27	atque uiribus	atque (atq.) auribus
11 3. 71	horum	horunc
111 1. 7	nec cui minus	nec qui minus
111 1. 13	cum ederit	comederint (comederunt)

To these instances, which are all taken from the first 500 lines of the Captivi, others could doubtless be added by any one possessed of a complete collation of D. I have noticed many other passages where J is inferior to B; the following instances are taken from the latter half of the Captivi, which is not contained in D: in 111 3. 6, J has Nec, B Ne; in 111 4. 32, J Male loqui mihi, B Male mihi loqui mihi; in 111 4. 48, J has ei, which B omits; in 111 4. 75, J uincimri, easily recognizable as uinciri, B uincire; in 111 5. 84, J peruiuo, D superuiuo; in 111 5. 108, J exauspicau exuinculis, which words B omits altogether; in 114 2. 20, J huius, B eius; in 114 2. 21, J is obstiterit, B is extemplo obstiterit; in 114 2. 107, J hinc, B hic; in 114 3. 4, J cullo, B collo; in 114 3. 8, J indempuatae, B indenate; in 114 4. 9, J confregit, B confringit; v. 1. 20 is misplaced in B: in v. 2. 9, J has roborem, in which we can easily detect ruborem, B ru.orem; in v. 2. 17, J potis es, B potisses; in v. 4. 6, J aut coturnices, B acoturnices. I have noticed a few isolated cases of a superior spelling in J (e.g. Prol. 36, J seruus, B seruus).§

* By the kindness of Prof. Studemund I am enabled to bring the testimony of D to bear upon many passages in which J differs from B; wherever D is quoted in this Excursus, the reading has been communicated to me by him.

† The readings in brackets are those of D.

‡ The syllable in is a correction (Studemund).

§ It is curious that in one or two passages J preserves a reading which originally existed in B, but which has been corrected. Thus in 11 3. 60, B has laudibus where laudauit appears to have stood (S), and J reads laudauit. In 111 4. 60, the same is probably the case, as the words Hecus audin qui^d ait qu- are a correction of B² after erasure (S).

In the latter instances we may safely pronounce J superior, without the support of D. Who then can deny the importance of J in those parts of Plautus in which it is the only means of controlling B? So far from its being true, as the reviewer in the Philologischer Anzeiger says, that, in the absence of the support of D, a reading of J carries scarcely any authority, it appears that it is precisely in these cases that the importance of J is greatest; though of course it would come with even more authority if supported by D.

On the other hand, there are limits to the claims of J. On the whole, the passages in which help is given by J are those in which the corruption in B is not very serious. If we compare these passages with some of those in which A throws a flood of light upon a hopelessly corrupt passage in B, we see at once the immeasurable distance which separates the two cases; whereas in passages in which B presents a deep-seated corruption, J (and I may add D) usually gives no help. The following references may serve as instances: Prolog. 22, 58, i l. 17, i l. 34—39, ii l. 7, iii l. 19, v l. 7. These identical errors must be ascribed to the common archetype of BD and J, and prove conclusively the close relation in which they all three stand to one another. We must accordingly not expect from J the sort of help that comes from a MS. representing an altogether older tradition, such as A; but the help given by J is similar and equal to the help given by D. From a comparison of B with D and J, we may sometimes be able to infer the reading of their common archetype (δ), which, if we possessed it, would perhaps be of equal value with A.

It remains briefly to consider the question of the similarity of J to the later MSS., upon which an indictment against the former has been founded. This similarity is in general, no doubt, striking; but it in no wise diminishes the authority of J, the only legitimate inference being that all these MSS. belong to the same family.* Accordingly, where they contain a reading superior to B, the agreement of J simply lends the authority of age to the reading of the later MSS. It is doubtless true that, owing to this close relation, early editors were in many passages enabled to correct the reading of B from the minor MSS., independently of the help of J; but this does not really detract from the value of a MS. of the 11th century,† though I venture to think that it has been one of the causes why J

* Positive evidence has recently been produced by Götz of the existence of two older MSS. of the family of J: (1) a MS. of somewhat earlier date than the 11th century, of which a fragment only (Capt. ii 3. 40—iii 4. 22) has been preserved in the Codex Ottobonianus (see Anal. Plant. pp. 86, 87); this fragment exhibits a great similarity to J both in its readings (see effractum, iii l. 6, for effertum) and in the contractions and spelling employed, though enclitics and proclitics are not so frequently joined to their respective words as in J; (2) a MS. of the 13th century (E), now in the Ambrosian Library, containing the first eight plays, and presenting a close resemblance to J, though clearly not copied from it (see an article by Götz and Löwe in the Rheinisches Museum for 1879, p. 52).

† For example, the reading which J preserves in iii 5. 168 and iii 2. 13 is not any less valuable because other and later MSS. also preserve it.

has been sometimes underrated : critics have never felt it to be indispensable, because the minor MSS. were known first. Had J been collated by Camerarius or Pareus, it would long ago have taken the place which its age claims, as one of the chief authorities next to the Codex Vetus, and therefore, in the parts of plays omitted in D, of the greatest importance to the critic in controlling B.

It must not however be supposed that there is a uniform identity between J and the later MSS. On the contrary, there are many passages in which J agrees with B against them ; thus in III 4. 62, BJ have fît opus, and the true reading (funè opus) must be sought in the minor MSS. ; in III 4. 50, BJ have inuenire, the minor MSS. inueniri ; so again in II 2. 47, BDJ have scio, the minor MSS. alone scito, and the same is the case in II 2. 92 (convenit, conveniat). These instances might easily be multiplied, and the result that we arrive at from them is, that J cannot be traced to the same immediate source as the minor MSS., but on the contrary forms a sort of link between B and them, belonging as it does to the same family from which they sprang, but often preserving traces of the readings of B.

APPENDIX.

Bentley's emendations of Plautus are made upon the text of Pareus* (2nd edition, Frankfurt, 1623, a re-issue of the 2nd edition of Neustadt, 1619), and in ink of two distinctly different periods and colours. The notes in fainter ink are far less frequent, occurring chiefly at the foot of the page, and generally with the word leg. (legendum) or fo. (fortasse?) or an (an legendum, cf. Pseud. i 5. 144, III 2. 92) before them, and are frequently identical with readings also suggested in darker ink in the text and margin on the right and left of the page. It seems that Bentley made his first few corrections at the foot of the page, and on a later and more complete study repeated some of them among his maturer thoughts in the margin. Besides these emendations of the text, which are found in greater or less number in all the plays, Bentley has added in the so-called first eight comedies the chief variants of the Codex Britannicus (J), to which he generally appends the letters MS.; contrary, however, to his usual wont, he nowhere states what MS. it is that he is collating. In these eight plays all conjectural emendations are enclosed in brackets with the word leg. In other plays he as a rule omits this word, which is not necessary where there are no MS. readings from which his corrections are to be distinguished.

Of these corrections the large majority are his own conjectures though he draws freely from previous editors and commentators, and does not indicate specially which of the corrections are taken from them. But by no means all of Bentley's own conjectures are new to the world at the present day; many have been independently made since his time by Lindemann, Bothe,† Ritschl, Fleckeisen, Brix and others: indeed, it is surprising to find how much of the Plautine criticism of the present century is anticipated in this unknown copy of Pareus. After deducting the corrections which belong to the two classes just mentioned, there remain a considerable number which are entirely new and often of the highest value and interest; it is precisely the more recherché thoughts of Bentley which others have not had the good fortune to light upon independently. But whether new or not, all Bentley's corrections have a value; it is worth while to know which of the emendations of previous editors he approved; and some of the suggestions of more modern scholars receive a new and important confirmation from the fact that they were long ago made by the founder of conjectural criticism. The general reader, too, may acquire fresh confidence in the methods of conjectural emendation of ancient texts from so convincing a proof that in a large number of cases they lead independent critics to identical results; and possibly even the general impression current in England, that Bentley was in the habit of dealing somewhat recklessly with MS. authority, may receive some modification when it is found that his criticism anticipates, as it were at a blow, much of the results of modern investigation.

* A few other emendations by Bentley, from his copy of Camerarius (Basle, 1558; Brit. Mus. 682. c. 11), are added, p. 165.

† There is a remarkable coincidence in the Menacchmi between Bothe and Bentley.

In extracting Bentley's emendations, I have proceeded on the plan of interpreting his signs and giving the result; thus, where Bentley writes 1 2 in the margin, and indicates by a curved line the words to be transposed, I have written the words in the new order; where Bentley writes del. in the margin, and puts dots under the letters to be deleted, I have given the word as he meant to read it. In all cases the word or words of Pareus which he corrects are given on the left of a square bracket, his correction appearing on the right. But I have so far as possible avoided making any change, even of the minutest character, which Bentley's signs do not warrant, even though it is perfectly clear that Bentley himself would have made some further alteration had he written the word or sentence out in full, instead of merely indicating the correction to be made. Thus where Pareus prints a substantive with a capital, apparently following the usage of German, and Bentley, in making some other correction in the word, does not take the trouble to correct the capital, I have allowed it to stand on the right of the bracket also. In certain cases, indeed, it has been impossible to carry this out with absolute consistency; where Pareus for instance gives ajebat, and Bentley deletes the e, I have of course written aibat, not ajbat; so where he corrects elavi by deleting the a, I have given clui, not clvi. Again, when a capital in Pareus indicates the beginning of a new sentence or line, and Bentley changes the order of the words without expressly altering the capital, it seemed best for the sake of clearness to make the slight further change; thus Ego te would, if transposed, appear as Te ego. Where Bentley removes a whole word from the text, my plan has been to write the word, together with that immediately preceding or following it, on the left of the bracket, and to repeat the latter alone on the right. Thus in Epid. i 2. 23, where Bentley deletes sum, I have indicated the correction by writing Erum sum] Erum; in Trin. i 2. 14, where Bentley deletes bene, I write bene valere] valere. In choosing between the word that precedes the one to be omitted and that which follows it, I have preferred the mode of indication which seemed to give the most information, and to make the correction, so far as possible, explain itself. Much insight may be gained from a mere study of lists drawn up in this manner, into Bentley's methods of conjectural emendation. Thus in the latter passage it would also have been possible to give tibi bene] tibi, but this would have done little, apart from the text, to teach one how such emendations are made. Similarly with additions made by Bentley to the text. Here the word after or before which the insertion is to be made appears on the left of the bracket, and on the right the same repeated, with Bentley's addition; sometimes it seemed worth while to give the two words between which the new word was to be inserted; thus in Rud. ii 3. 6, is est] is ipse est. Occasionally I have added a remark or explanation of my own, which then always appears between another pair of square brackets.

The signs which Bentley employs are the following. In deleting he either writes d (i. e. del.) in the margin, and puts dots under the letters to be removed, or sometimes simply strikes them out in the text, with or without the addition of d in the margin. The latter less elaborate method he usually follows in words in Roman type (which are conjectural additions adopted by Pareus, the rest of his text being in italics); sometimes he employs it to remove italics. In making additions he employs the caret, and writes the word to be inserted in the margin; in transposing words he uses figures, sometimes in the margin with a curved line in the text (thus transmitteres [Bracchium] 12), sometimes in the text itself. In correcting a word or part of a word, he underlines the part to be corrected, and writes the correction in the margin; thus Epid. i 2. 27 mandasti] aristi, ii 2. 116 Jubeas] tubens.

To indicate the end of a verse, he employs an upright line, which he introduces into the text. This I have simply reproduced, as the simplest way of representing the correction, adding the word after which it stands on the left of a bracket: thus Cas. iii 5. 48 Pardaliscu] |, or, Epid. iv 2. 26 ratus] lep. |. Occasionally we find a word underlined, apparently for correction, but without any emendation being suggested. Finally, Bentley employs a sort of tick in the margin, sometimes applying to a whole line, sometimes to a part of it, which is then underlined also. The precise meaning of this sign is not quite clear; for long I took it to denote approval of the line or word as it stands in the text of Pareus, and this interpretation seems to be borne out by Epid. iv 2. 33, where he puts his tick to the word equidem in the text, adding in the margin a second tick and the letters MS.: this should mean that equidem is the reading of J, and so in fact it is. In order, however, to avoid the danger of reading my own inferences into Bentley's corrections, I have simply represented the tick by a † on the right of the bracket. If it applies to a part only of the line, I have added that part on the left.

The numbers of the lines in this Appendix are those of Pareus; wherever the Vulgate (Gronovius, 1669, 1684) has a different number, I have added it in square brackets. In order to facilitate reference to modern editions, I have also given, throughout, the numbering of Ritschl in the plays which he edited, and of Goetz, Fleckeisen, Geppert or Wagner, in the rest. It is no doubt best to study Bentley's emendations in connection with the text of Pareus; but if this book cannot be obtained, the text of the Vulgate is generally sufficiently near to it to make Bentley's corrections intelligible. Pareus, on the whole, follows the Codex Vetus (B) very closely.

Another part of the Appendix contains the words which I have restored to J from Bentley's collation of the MS.; see note to Pref. p. vi (x). On the whole, the result to be arrived at in this way is somewhat disappointing, except in the Amphitruo. This is no doubt partly due to the fact that Bentley's collation was never intended to be complete; at the same time I think I have noticed that precisely where the MS. is now destroyed, Bentley's collation becomes meagre or ceases; and I am inclined to conjecture that the MS. had suffered some other injury before Bentley collated it, and was partly illegible in his time. Another and more serious objection may be made to any results arrived at in this way—that Bentley is not entirely accurate. I have noticed the following passages in which his collation is misleading or wrong: in Amph. Prolog. 95, J has nunc, not, as Bentley says, nunc vos; in Aul. III. 5. 11 illic, not illuc; iv 8. 11 ego non, not ego modo non; in Cure. i 2. 13 doctum not doctum; in Epid. i l. 66 ipsius, not ipsus. Again, in Aul. iv 4. 23, where Pareus reads Delectram, Bentley says that J has Delecteram; but a point is added under the e, denoting that the letter is to be expuncted, so that Bentley's note is unnecessary; in iv 9. 18, where Bentley says that J has palam'st res, pala res is legible, but no est—the MS. is here scorched; in v l. 10 it has clauitout pueri, with dashes over the words to indicate transposition ; Bentley, however, says that it reads clamitant pueri.

I have indicated Bentley's statements about J in the same way as his emendations : to the left of the bracket appears the word as it stands in Pareus ; to the right, the reading of the MS. according to Bentley. I have admitted some words into this list which may with difficulty be read or partially read, but which are very indistinct ; in such cases it seemed possible that Bentley's authority might help a future collation, or decide the question in cases of doubt.

Bentley's Emendations on Plautus extracted from his Copy of Pareus.

AMPHITRUO.

I.

1. 14 (Fl. 168) versus Sotadicus
72 (227) canunt contra] leg.
contra canunt
73 (228) clamoremque] leg. cla-morem
75 (230) hortari] leg. hortarier
80 (235) volumus] leg. vouimus
92 [93] (249) illic] leg. illi
202 [203] (359) familiae] leg.
familiaï
210 [211] (367) audaciae leg.
audaciaï
221 (377) Eloquere] leg. Loquere 254 [255] (411) eментitus] leg.
es mentitus
2. 28 (490) suspicio] leg. consuetio, vide Donat. ad Adel.
iv, 5, 32.

II.

2. 1 (633) Vita] |
2 [3] (634) Molestum'st] |
3 [5] (635) placitum] | consequatur] |
4 [6] (636) adsit] |
71 [73] (705) obsequaris] leg.
obsequare

- 84 [86] (718) parituram] leg.
parturam
115 [116] (748) Audivistin'] leg.
Audistin'
144 [145] (777) larvarum] leg.
laruiarum

III.

2. 13 (894) ille] leg. illi
22 (903) verecundaes AL. Potin' es ? ut] leg. iracunda, et es del [i. e. after Potin'].

ASINARIA.

I.

1. 25 [27] (Fl. 41) Illic insere v.
40 [28] (Fl. 42)
50 (65) obsequellam] fo. obseq-uentiam
96 (109) volam] |
2. 17 (143) magnas] leg. magnam
gratias] leg. gratiam
20 (146) quid] leg. quod
3. 31 (183) pedissequae] leg. pedisequae
38 (190) gratIs] gratiis leg.
42 (194) gratis] leg. gratiis

II.

1. 13 (261) Consuadent] leg. Consident
 2. 12 (278) occasione tempus sese] leg. sese occasione tempus
 42 (308) negotij'st] est negotij leg.
 60 (326) derogita] rogita leg. vides:] vides
 76 (343) me med] me leg.
 81 (348) sese] leg. se
 102 (369) ut] leg. uti
 105 (372) caveto] leg. caue tu
 106 (373) si me] leg. si
 3. 6 (386) conservas] |
 7 (387) nostris aedibus] nostris leg.
 10 (390) morata'st janua] morata janua'st
 25 (405) incedit] cedit leg.
 4. 14 (420) et] leg. ac
 22 (428) dedi] dedo leg. [absens om. J, and so Bent.]
 26 (432) ut] leg. uti
 53 (459) credidit] leg. credit
 65 (471) ni isti] isti [withdrawn]
 77 (483) maledictis] leg. maledicis
 78 (485) nosmet] nos leg.
 85 (492) neque me Athenis est alter hodie quisquam] leg. neque me alter est Athenis hodie quisquam.
- III.
1. 6 (508) Matris] Matri leg.
 13 (518) una pars] pars leg.
 21 (524) an tu] tu leg.
 26 (529) moritur] moriatur leg.
 27 (530) periculum magnum] periculum leg.
 3. 19 (609) si] si te leg.
 23 (613) Mihi certum'st] leg. Mi est certum
 59 (649) Oscultate] leg. Jam oscultate
 76 (666) tuum Passereulum] Passereulum leg.

- 104 (694) Putillum, Passereulum] leg. putillum passerillum [J om. pusillum, and so Bent.]
 106 (696) Circumdatoque] Circumdato
 120 [119] (709) Tum postea] Postilla leg.
 125 [124] (714) amoves abs te] abs te amoves leg. adgredere] adgredire leg.
 127 [126] (716) Deum] Deorum leg.
 136 [135] (725) quos] quas leg.
 140 [139] (729) sermonis] sermoni leg.

IV.

1. 1 (746) eonscripsisti] conscripti leg.
 47 (792) perplexibile] leg. perplexabile
 2. 7 (816) tu haec] haec

V.

1. 21 (850) devinxisti] leg. devixiti
 2. 45 [44] (894) Nauteam] leg. Phu! Nauteam
 71 (921) odio] leg. suo odio Age! surge] leg. surge
 86 (936) hodie, ut te dignum'st, magnum malum] leg. hodie, ut dignus es, magnum malum
 92 (942) voluptatis] volup
 97 (947) posse, si PLAVSVM clarum datis] leg. posse, plausum si clarum datis; also, leg. pote, si plausum sic clarum datis

AULULARIA.

I.

1. 26 (Wagn. 2nd ed. 65) estne] sitne leg.

II.

1. 9 (128) item esse] esse item leg.
 33 (153)] Versus Sotadici
 44 (164) nostrorum] leg. nostrum
 49 (169) Novistin'] leg. Nostin'
 2. 10 (185) acquustibi] leg. aequus
 20 (195) onerat] leg. ornat
 41 (216) FILIAE] leg. Familiae
 57 (232) me mordicus scindant] mordicus me se.
 58 (233) me ab] leg. ab
 79 (255) Istuc Di] Di leg.
 5. 9 (333) detrusisti] leg. detrâsti
 6. 11 (358) Cenaeve] leg. Cenaene
 7. [8] 2 (370) bene haberem meae me filiae in nuptijs] leg.
 b. me hab. filiaî nup.
 7 (375) iratus] leg. irritus
 19 (387) strepitus est] leg. strepitu'st

III.

1. 1 (403) Optati] Pro Attici
 7 (409)] versus Sotadici
 3. 8 (453) Heu] leg. Heus
 4. 2 (458) opulento pauper homine] leg. opulento pauper
 3 (459) Velut] leg. Veluti me
 7 (463) Anui] leg. anu
 5. 8 (478) minore] leg. minus
 17 (487) Quo jubeant] Quo lubeat
 27 (497) pedissequos] leg. pedisequos
 44 (513) quom stant] leg. circumstant
 56 (523) plus ipse] ipse leg.
 6. 2 (530) audivisti ?] leg. audivistin'
 3 (531) e meo] leg. meo
 47 (575) FIDEI] leg. fideii

IV.

1. 17 (595) amat filiam] filiam amat leg.
 4. 7 (626) rogatas] leg. regas

- 12 (631) ergo] leg. ego
 15 (634) Larvae] leg. Larviae
 22 (641) rursus] leg. rursus
 7. 3 (677) cum Avoneulo] leg.
 Avoneulo
 14 (687) oras, efficiam tibi] leg.
 oras
 15 [16] (688) Jam] leg. Jamjam
 10. 41 (764) tecum otiose] leg.
 tecum
 42 (765) Bona] | leg.
 54 (777) exornatis] leg. ornatis
 57 (780) benedice] leg. benedic
 60 (783) nullus est] nullu'st leg.
 64 (787) filiae fecisse] leg. fecisse filiae

V.

1. 2 (802) divitior] leg. ditior
 5 (806) Video] leg. videon
 13 (813), inquam, Aulam] Aulam

BACCHIDES.

I.

2. 54 (Rl. 160) haut] aut

II.

1. 2 (171) Ephesum] Epheson
 2. 11 (188) nempe] num
 3. 65 (299) Postquam nos vidimus] Quoniam videmus
 70 (304) extemplo] extempulo
 72 (306) deposuimus] deposivimus
 74 (308) Theotimus est] Theotimu'st
 78 (312) conditum'st] concreditum'st
 120 (354) Ephesum] Epheson
 132 (366) Filio ejus] Filio

III.

3. 7 (411) perdidit] perdit
 9 (413) factu'st] factus est
 33 (437) equidem] quidem
 41 (445) attingas] attigas
 55 (459) morae] mori

- 67 (471) Atque] Quae
absorbet vivos] absorbet
- 75 (479) potest] potis
- 91 (495) Servo] Serva
- 95 (498) amicos atque] amicosque
4. 1 (500) INMITIOREM] leg.
Inimiciorem
- 19 (517) subblanditur] subblandibitur
- 28 (523) Iudificatu'st] iudifica-tus est
6. 41 (570) parum] parvam
- IV.
2. 4 (586) penes] pene
4. 6 (647, 648) obtuli] | quae-reret] |
- 7 (649) Syri] |
- 77 (729) jubeo] jubebo
6. 27 (797) agitur] agitur
9. 45 (969) Militi] |
- 46 (970) dabit] | (clausula)
- 119 (1042) perjuret] pejeret
- 146 (1069) incederem] cederem
- V.
2. 16 (1134) lactem] lac
-
- CASINA.
- Prol.
- 45 facit] leg. fecit
- I.
1. 18 nisi] leg. si
- 25 Mea] O. Mea
- 41 Jejunium] leg. Jejunum
- II.
2. 22 ingratis] ingratijs leg.
postulat] |
- 23 educata] leg. educta
suo se] se suo leg.
3. Versus Aristophanei.
- 16 amo] |
- 17 enecas] |
- 18 tibi] |
es] |
- 35 potius quam] leg. quam
- 49 Egon] Egone leg.
5. 30 habeat] habet leg.
6. 3 vellet] leg. velle
- 9 Eo dico corculum adsudascit] leg. Fodico corculum. adsudassis
- 10 istunc] leg. istum
- 12 mecum] leg. me
- 21 neque] leg. nec
- 34 amabo] leg. ambo, et sic 41.
- 60 Vxor mea] uxor
- 68 scio. St.] |
8. 1 eveniat] leg. veniat
- 21 licet] |
- 38 te posse] leg. posse te
- 42 omnem amorem] leg. amorem omnem
- 71 noxa] leg. noxia
- 73 publica re-] leg. pulcre
- III.
1. 1 Alcesime] |
- 3 exime] leg. eximere
castigare id,] castigare, id
2. 31 litigij] leg. litigi
4. 4 ego hercle] hercle ego leg.
11 arcersivisse] leg. arcersisse
[withdrawn]
- 23 Abi et] leg. Abi
5. 19 dispercutiam, Execrata] leg.
disperctiam, excetra
- 34 repente] |
- 35 credo PA] | hodie] |
- 36 Exspecto] leg. expeto [and so J reults]
- Audi] |
- 37 Dejuravit] |
- 39 volebam PA] |
- 40 degredere St.] leg. degredire
- 45 Amator] |
- 46 facete] |
- 47 dixi] | protulerunt] |
- 48 Pardalisca] |
- 49 te] |
- 50 mororem] |
- 51 gladium] | te] |

- 52 hodie Sr.] | vivont] |
 53 opinor] |
 54 ademit] |
 55 orat] | profecto] |
 56 se] leg. sese
 ingratIs] leg. ingratijs
 57 Non volt] Nevolt

IV.

1. 18 incenem] leg. incenatum
 3. 10 Hymen Sr.] |
 11 licet] |
 12 copia] | indomabilis] |
 13 tenax es] leg. sternax es |
 14 uspiam]
 15 foras] |
 16 procul] |

V.

1. 7 fecit] |
 8 nobis] |
 2. sunt versus Aristophanei

CISTELLARIA.

I.

1. 67 (Benoist 67) tibi cor dolium] leg. tibi cor [beginning the line with At mihi of 66, as J]
 72 (73) Gustu] leg. Gustui
 97 (98) Silenium Sr. Quid est]
 Silenium
 103 (104) subegit] subigit leg.
 121 (122) Vale] bene vale [withdrawn]
 2. 2 (124) nunc] hunc leg.
 13 (135) amore eum] amore
 3. 2 (153) Satine] Satin'

II.

1. 2 (206) foras] foris leg.
 15 (226) memoratu? ME.] |
 16 (227) Lemnia] |
 17 (228) sumus] |
 18 (229) Verumtamen] |
 19 (230) Culpitet] |
 25 [26] (237) Abi quaerere] Alibi quaere leg.

- 30 [31] (242) responsa] leg. re-sponsas
 39 [40] (251) patruus] pater leg.
 40 [41] (252) me delenis] leg.
 Melaenis
 56 (268) leget [-et underlined]
 3. 8 (285) filiam nostram] nostram filiam leg.
 39 (316) (sicine) Agis nugas?
 perlsti mehercle, hoc ni
 edisseris. (Instare)] leg.
 sicine agis Nugas? perijsti ne hercle hoc longe. haud destiti Instare

III.

1. (364) sequere me] sequere leg.

IV.

1. 18 (402) subvenit] subveni leg.
 2. 38 (444) volunt te] te volunt
 65 (470) Cistellam] Cistellulam

CURCULIO.

- Arg. 1 missus] leg. missu

I.

1. 27 ille sinit] ille sinit
 39 eveniat] leg. eventit
 90 pulpamentum] leg. pulmen-tum
 2. 51 (Goetz 140) monumentum] |
 52 (141) bitet] |
 54 (142) aerumna Pr.] |
 55 (143) adventurum] |
 51—55 versus Aristophanei
 3. 1 (158) forum] leg. forium
 13 (169) morigerus] leg. morigeras
 17 (173) clam hero] clam
 49 (205) utimur] leg. utemur

II.

3. 16 (295) exciam] leg. exentiam
 19 (298) Proin] leg. Proinde
 32 (311) Viden] leg. Vide
 67 (346) annulo] leg. |
 68 (347) daret] leg. |

73 (352) memorari] leg. morari
80 (359) poculum] leg. poclum

III.

12 (382) aliquem emere] leg. aliquem mi emere
31 (401) non] leg. haud
43 (413) omnes] leg. homines

IV.

2. 11 (497) manu mittitis] leg. mittitis manu
14 (500) Uti muscaeque, culicesque, pedesque, pulicesque] leg. Ut muscae, culices, cimices, pedesque, pulicesque
43 (529) vendidit illam] leg. illam vendidit
44 (530) quid id] leg. quid
46 (532) bene me] me bene
3. 5 (537) te mediocri macto infortunio] leg. mediocri macto te infortunio
13 (545) mihi tabulas] leg. mihi
17 (549) tui honoris] leg. honoris
4. 15 (571) dabo] leg. |
16 (572) minitatur] leg. | [Par. reads mihi min.]
18 (574) Cassida] leg. |
26 (582) esse ajebat sese] sese ajebat esse

V.

1. 5 (595) hunc habere] leg. habere hunc [agnis quae ubi me habere hunc]
2. 27 (626) istunc tibi] tibi istunc
29 (628) tamquammet] leg. tamquam et 40 (639) fecit] leg. facit
42 (641) ego] leg. ergo [Par. reads ego istuc]
56 (656) ego tibi] leg. tibi ego
75 (675) unum] leg. una
3. 27 (705) Quodne] leg. Quod
38 (716) huius] leg. huic illius] leg. illi
46 (721) me nescias] leg. nescias

EPIDICUS.

I.

2. 12 (Goetz 115) datur] detur leg.
21 (124) idem] fidem leg.
23 (126) Erum suum Stratippoclem] Erum Stratippoclem leg.
27 (130) mandasti] leg. mandavisti
28 (131) est ancilla] leg. ancilla est
48 (151) de illa] leg. illa

II.

2. 38 (222) ornamenta] ornata leg.
71 (256) callidi] calidi leg.
79 (264) Consilium] leg. Consilio reperitote] leg. reperi tute
98 (283) sapis] |
104 (286) Filii] |
116 (301) Jubeas] leg. lubens

III.

2. 1 (337) tu tuum] tuum [Bent. also brackets jam]
3. 25 (406) tempore] leg. tempori
46 [47] (428) hominem quam doctum] leg. hominem doctum

IV.

2. 5 (574) nata'st] leg. nata sit
26 (596) ratus] leg. |

V.

1. 7 (613) sciunt] |
18 (624) Estne? considera. vide signum] leg. Estne. conspicare. signum [sic]
2. 19 (685) quid conligas] leg. quin
34 (699) ad] leg. da

—

MENAECIMI.

Prol.

54 qui non] qui; Poen. Argum.
80
75 Modo enim] Modo

I.

1. 6 (Rl. 82) accidit] accedit
 9 (85) conpediti] conpediti aut
 25 (101) Mensam] Mensas
 2. 3 (112) hunc] hunc
 8 (117) duxit] duxi
 9 (118) necesse] necessum
 61 (174) jubeo] jubebo
 3. 2 (184) ad Legionem fieri] fieri ad Legionem
 3 (185) ME.] P.
 18 (201) Haut Hercules] Hercules haut
 22 (205) ego emi] emi ego [Quat-tuor Minis emi ego istanc anno jam uxori meae]
 25 (208) nobis tribus] tribus
 nobis
 31 (214) quoquitur] quoquetur
 4. 1 (219) tris eccos] eccos tris
 6 (224) cura tu] cura

II.

1. 4 (229) Quam si] Si
 9 (234) eire hinc] rei huic
 19 (244) Operam praeterea] an,
 Operam postidea
 28 (253) nequeo me] nequeo
 2. 3 (275) videon] video 6 (278) seis? quis ego sum]
 quisquis es | Ego sum
 7 (280) Non hercle] hercle
 16 (290) Nummo uno MEX.
 En!] Nummis v. (quin-que) [withdrawn; with a reference to v. 37]
 24 (298) me meo] me
 26 (300) habebas] habeas
 27 (301) hercle] hercule
 34 (308) illos] eos
 35 (309) equidem] quidem
 41 (315) hercle] hercule [Heu!
 hercle Hominem multum et odiosum mihi!]
 43 (317) ridiculu'st] ridiculus
 est
 46 (321) Quas tu] Quas
 51 (326) ergo] ego

- 65 (340) qua] quae
 69 (344) Non] Nunc
 portu stat] portu'st 75 (350) si voltis] sultis [also at foot of page; leg. sultis]
 3.82 (437) Solis] solem

III.

1. 2 (447) atque] neque
 4 (449) hieto] inhieto
 6 (451) Quem illum Di omnes perdiunt! qui primus com-mentu'st] Qui illum Di
 deaeque omnes perdiunt!
 primus qui commentus est
 14 (461) datum noluisse] voluisse datum
 2. 6 (471) hercle] hercule
 27 (492) meo absenti] med absente
 28 (493) aeque ac] aeque
 32 (497) Postea] Post
 34 (499) nomen non] non nomen
 49 (515) indutum fuisse] fuisse indutum
 3. 2 (525) hoc nunc] hoc Aurificem] Aurificinam
 24 (548) Numquid me] Numquid
 27 (551) equidem] quidem
 32 (556) sequantur] sequitur censeant] censeat

IV.

- 2.33 () optimum] opimum
 59 (611) Mv. nugas] Mv. nunc nugas
 62 (605) tibi nunc] tibi
 82 (645) tibi] [underlined]
 91 (654) nos defessi] defessi
 100 (663) MEX. Tgo] Eo
 104 (667) Namque] Nam
 105 (668) fecisse] facere, vel fexe, vel se fecisse [the two latter suggestions in darker ink]
 3.17 (691) Vxor] [the letter x struck out: by Bent.!]

V.

1. 48 (748) Calchante simul] Calcha simul
 2. 51 (802) samnam] sanam
 82 (836) Evoe!] MEN. Evoe!
 83 (837) MEN. Audio] Audio
 101 (854) prognatum] prognatum patre
 106 [105] (858) Senem] |
 111 (864) Getulum] vetulum
 [also at foot of page leg. vetulum]
 117 (870) me capillo] capillo me
 119 (872) hercle morbum] morbum hercle
 4. 1 (889) esset] esse
 5. 6 (904) mea sit] mea'st
 29 (929) curans] cubans
 47 (950) faxo, aliquos] faxo hos aliquot [with very small t, as though doubtfully]
 56 [57] (960) cupio] caepio
 7. 2 (991) quaeque] quae
 4 (993) nihil] nihili
 9. 7 (1064) MEN—SUR.] MEN. SOS.
 26 (1085) MEN—SOS.] MEN. SUR.
 27 (1086) MEN—SUR.] MEN. SOS.
 43 (1102) Frater] Fratres
 59 (1118) meminit] memini
 100 (1162) clare clare] clare

MERCATOR.

Prol.

- 6 (Pl. 15) Humanas]†
 10 (6) Accij] [a cross for reminder; he suspects the word]
 13 (9) Abij; amare] leg. Ibi amare
 16 (3) Amatorum] [underlined]
 40 (40)]†
 65 [64] esse] esse se
 67 [66] positum]†
 74 [(73)] recessit vitā] recesset vita

- 76 [(75)] Navim] Navem
 77 [(76)]†
 81 [80] (81) me] me esse
 87 [86] (87) Navim] Navem gerariam [underlined]
 92 [91] (92) eijsce] [underlined] Navim] [underlined]
 106 [105] (106) opu'st] opus est emi] emi eam

I.

2. 4 (124) enicato suspiritūs] enicat suspiritus
 5 (114)]†
 7 (116)]†
 9 (118) jurgandum'st] jurigandum'st
 12 (121) maxime resisto, tam] restito tam maxime
 17 (126) balneae] balineae
 19 (128) lubet scire me] lubet
 30 (141) pol] ego
 31 (142) ego pol] ego
 35 (146) aut] ut
 39 (150) ob-esse-sequentem] esse obsequentem [and † to whole line]
 44 (155) sim] sum
 47 (159) Quid est] Quid id est
 53 (165) Quid] CH. Quid ne] Ac. ne
 67 (179) uti tu malum mihi] ut tu mihi malum
 70 (185) interrogo] rogo
 72 (183) I hinc hodie dierectus a me! nugare] In' hinc dierectus nugaris
 75 (187) Navim] Navem
 78 (190) abstrudebas] eam abstrudebas
 79 (191) nos nostris.] nostris nos
 80 (192) et componendis] componendis
 84 (196) esse] me esse
 89 (202) visu'st] visus est
 90 (203) sed eam]†
 102 (215) visu'st] visus est visu'st] visus est
 104 (217) visu'st] Visus est

105 (218) Navim] Navem
107 (220)]+

II.

1. (225) Rudens III, 1.
3 (227) nocte hac] noctem hanc
[withdrawn] proxuma] proxumam [withdrawn]
4 (228) In somnis] Insomnis
[joining the words]
9 (233) custodiam eam] custo-delam
24 (248) Hoedus ad me visus
est] ad me Hoedus visu'st
31 (255) luce] luci
32 (256) id quod] quod
33 (257) Navim] Navem
heri est] est heri
35 (259) Navim] Navem
36 (260) Illam] [underlined]
2. 4 (275) castres] castret
12 (283) et tu Demipho] Demipho
15 (286) tibi] tibid
29 (300)]+
35 (306) rutilium] rutilum
37 (308)]+
41 (312) auctor sum uti] sum auctor ut
49 (321)]+
55 (327) valet] vale
59 (331) potissim] potis siem
61 (333) praecauto'st] cauto'st
3. 1 (335) Homó me misérior nullú'st aequé, opínor,
8 (342) meum] me meum
45 (384) sed] se
51 (388)]+
58 (392) mea sententia] mea
quidem sententia
61 (395)]+
81 (416) flagro] |
104 (441) animi] mei animi
130 (468) sed me] me
4. 4 (472) me ibi] ibi me
10 (478) Rem] omnem rem
13 (481) satin] C*h.* satin'

19 (487) Vnde at erit id?] Vnde erit ?

III.

1. 3 (501) plora nimis ;] plora,
nimis
4 (502) Quid] Quin
8 (506) te velle] velle te
13 (511) illic] illi
26 (524) Ovum etiam] Ovum
30 (528) sis] sies [withdrawn]
32 (530)]+
Page 455 AMPHITRUCO] MERCATOR
2. 10 (553)]+
3. 13 (574) Jam aetatis] jejunitatis [-itatis added in darker ink. A caret before animaque is deleted, also with darker ink]
animaque] anima
4. 33 (619) ocepisti] ocepisti

IV.

3. 20 (720) Quia] Quoaia
5. 9 (824) familiae] familiai

V.

1. 5 (834) familiaeque] familiai
6 (835) Parentum meum]
meum Parentum
2. 42 (884) Porrige] Porge
prende] prehende
43 (885) facere vis] facere ?
44 (886) sis] sies
82 (923) Mater] Ev. Mater

—

MILES GLORIOSUS.

I.

1. 8 gestit fratrem] leg. gestit offam
30 os] ossa
transmitteres Brachium] Bra-chium transmitteres 41 praevolet mihi] leg. praeuouolam [mihi del.]
49 monent] me monent
55 quod] leg. quem

- 66 me] ne
67 te hodie] te
- II.
1. 6 (Rl. v. 84) Comoediae, quam nos modo] Comoediai,
quam modo
8 (86) huic Nomen est] Nomen huic [est del.]
10 (88) est Erus] Erus
12 (90) perjuri] . . . adulteri]
periuri . . . adulteri
14 (92) deridiculu]st] deridicu-lo]st
22 (100) amabat] amat
25 (103) gratia]si] gratia
26 (104) ut hic] hic
32 (110) et Matri] Matri
39 (117) id, quod volunt] leg.
id, quod di volunt
53 (131) Mercatori, qui ad illum] leg. Mercatori, qui illas ad illum
69 (147) Et nos] Ei nos [repeated at foot of page]
2. 1 (156) Nisi] Ni
3 (158) Mihi] Mi
8 (163) mulcassitis male] male mulcassitis
15 (170) fuerit] foret
18 (174) vostrarum] vostrum
20 (176) Conservos est] Con-servos
22 (178) inquam, in] in 45 (200) abs tete] abs te leg.
59 (214) perficit] perfecit
73 (228) incipis et] incipissis
74 (229) recipere hoc] recipere
76 (231) ego impetrare me] ego impetrare
87 (242) sit] siet
Milem] Milem hic
88 (243) Hic meus] Meus
90 (245) immo ut] immo
96 (251) abiit] iit
98 (253) quantum] quanta vis or quantum vis
104 (259) equidem] Et quidem
105 (260) At quem] Atque
- 112 (267) res est] res
115 (270) voce moderabo me]
voci moderabo meae
116 (271) atque it] it
3. 3 (274) alium] malam rem
4 (275) audij] audivi
9 (280) nihil hic] nihil
10 (281) facinus est] facinu]st
11 (282) scis solite] sci soli
19 (290) Profecto] quod ego
[and +]
25 (296) id dicam] dicam
33 (304) juvenis] leg. juveni
37 (308) se] sese
39 (310) tollat atque] atque
42 (313) interim]st autem alter] in terris te alter est
45 (316) Quid nusquam] nus-quam
emam ipse] empo
46 (317) negotij] . . . negotij]
negoti] . . . negoti
47 [] (318) Non tute] Non tu
49 (320) ajebas] aibas
51 (322) Vae! Verbero] Verbero
52 (323) quidem illa] uide]n illam
61 (332) -terruerit]†
64 (335) ut] uti
fateare] fatearis
face. volo] face.
66 (337) Erilem] Eri
69 (340) Neque] P. Neque
70 (341) ut eam hinc exire] ut exire hinc
73 (344) pedes] [underlined]
80 (351) Neque] Neque fit in nostra] nostra
4. 2 (355)]†
3 (356)]†
5 (358) adstas tu] adstas
10 (363) perpropere] praepropere
11 (364) propudij] probri
13 (366) Fute] Tu te
17 (370) ego vero] ego
24 (377) transire potuerit] potuerit transire

- 29 (382) somniavisti] somniasti
 31 (384) meo] suo
 32 (385)] *Bent. reads: Hic hospitio in proximum huc divorti mihi sunt visi
 36 (389) familiaris meus mihi]
 meus mihi familiaris
 37 (390) nunc est, osculatam esse] nunc esse osculatam
 40 (393) in vigilantis] vigilantis
 41 (394) comprecare]†
 44 (397) gesserim hic] gesserim
 45 (398)]†
 46 (399) ubi isset]†
 48 (401) suspicatus es] suspi-catu's vidisse te] vidisse [withdrawn, and suspicatu's substituted]
 49 (403)]†
 50 (404)]†
 51 (405) prius ob oculos mihi]
 mihi ob oculos [prius del.]
 52 (406) planum] planum'st
 53 (407) eloquar] loquar
 54 (408) perdidit] perdidisti
 55 (409) absumptus es] absumptu's
 5. 1 (411) latas] laetas
 12 (422) immo! immo] immo edepol nunc] edepol
 13 (423) nihil est] nihil
 adloquar] adloquor
 14 (424) vaga's] vagas
 17 (427) si tu] si
 36 (446) quid detines] quin tenes
 46 (456) fecisti] fexti
 6.12 (492) magno malo] malo magno
 22 (502) Virgarum] leg. virgeum
 31 (511) tibi] mihi
 dedatur] de te datur
 35 (515) postulare prius tecum]
 prius tecum postulare
 39 (519) similis] consimilis
 67 (548) Hospitae ajo] Hospitai
 71 (552) aquae] aquai
 73 (554) fateare] fatearis
 75 (558) Ratusne] Ratu'n
 pretij] preti
 89 (572) NESCIVERIS] ne sciveris
- III.
1. 9 (601) catelocos] cautela locus
 10 (604) si resciverint] enim si rescivere
 23 (617) est id] id est
 26 (620) ex opibus] opibus
 44 (640) Nam qui ipse haut amavit] Nam nisi qui ipse amavit
 45 (641) meo etiam] etiam
 48 (644) neque ego] ego neque
 51 (647) aliena oratio 'st] alie-na'st oratio
 53] (654) del.
 55 (656) equidem] eum quidem
 61 (652) odiosus est] odiosu'st
 64 (660) contra emptos] contra
 66 (658) quid Amicus Amico siet] qui Amico Amicus sit 79 (673) es] est
 80 (674) quaestu'st] quaestus est
 82 (676) ut Transeuntem] et mea unde
 84 (678) uti] [underlined]
 89 (683) LIBERUM] Liberum med
 93 (686) numquam hoc] hoc
 Eme, mi Vir] Eme mi, mi Vir
 97 (690) Da mihi,] Da, mi
 99 (692) Praecantatrici] Praecantrici
 106 (699) serant] serat
 107 (700) hercle nam] nam hercle
 108 (701) te in eundem rusum]
 te in eum rursus, vel del.
 te in

* The italics are the words of Pareus.

 It is not clear what Bent. means by this stroke which stands opposite lines 49 and 50; possibly he means to approve of both.

- 115 (709) somnium] somnum 116 (710) habeo quom mittunt] habebo qui mi mittunt
 121 (715) ideo] me
 123 (717) habent] habes
 124 (718) cepisse] cepissem
 Liberis] e Liberis
 125 (721) Censerem.] Censerem
 134 (729) mercedis] mercis
 143 (738) velut] ut
 149 (744) id patitur] patitur
 153 (748) odiosè'st] odio'st
 155 (750) Cum modo dum] Com-modulum
 157 (752) Nam proletario] Pro-letario
 176 (771) usu'st] usus est
 179 (774) perpurgatis] purgatis operam] operas
 181 (776) Fuisse] Nec fuisse
 202 (797) FAMESAE] famulo
 207 (802) adulterio] adulteri,
 3. 1 (874) mea] unà
 2 (875) ORDINE] in ordine
 25 (898) et e quo] et quo
 36 (910) res haec] res
 52 (926) lepidus] lepidius
 65 (940) Mulieri] Mulier

IV.

1. 9 (955) nequis] nequi
 12 (958) aut unde'st] unde'st
 23 (970) illoCipit] illo eupit
 2. 1 (991) Ludificandi] ludi faci-endi
 11 (1001)] versus Aristo-phanei
 66 (1058) Meam] Meas
 polliciteris operam] pollici-tere operas
 81 (1073) admoderari] admoderari
 86 (1078) qui vivont] vivont
 87 (1079) sacco] sacco
 88 (1080) minus] minu'
 93 (1085) abeis] abis' [i.e. abi'].
Also † to lim]

- 94 (1086) Quam propter] Prop-ter quam
 95 (1087) Ita mea] Ita me mea
 101 (1093) jam nos] jam
 3. 11 (1104) Quid] Qui
 13 (1106) Omnia] |
 42 (1135) exoptabam me] me
 exoptabam
 4. 2 (1138) nisi hunc] nisi
 12 (1148) tum dedi] dedi
 29 (1165) summe Ordinis Nup-tiarum] nuptiarum. Pa.
 omne ordine
 43 (1179) sic] hic
 50 (1187) inponunt] inponi velit
 56 (1193) protinus] protinam
 57 (1194) Triduum unum] Triduum
 62 (1199) Hilarius] Hilaris
 5. 2 (1201) Quidnam te] Quidnam
 6. 1 (1216) ubi is est] ubi est videto] video
 2 (1217) limis oculis] limis se videre sentiat] videre sentiat se
 3 (1218) tempu'st] tempus est
 5 (1220) secuta] locuta
 6 (1221) otiose meo] meo
 16 (1231) illum] eum
 20 (1235) flagrantia] elegantia
 22 (1237) Metuo] Ac. Metuo
 23 (1238) sies] sis
 24 (1239) ducere nolet] nolet ducere
 Genua] ejus Genua
 28 (1243) largi Vere] largiere
 30 (1245) -movere istam] †
 33 (1248) illine evoca sis] illunc evoca
 35 (1250) non es: simula inquam] non es
 36 (1251) hic habet] habet
 37 (1252) animo mihi] mi ani-mo
 40 (1255) scio] [underlined]

- 41 (1256) siet] sit
 43 (1258) hu! hu! olet] olet
 7. 6 (1289) occidi.] occidi
 19 (1302) Preciosam] [underlined]
 25 (1308) Moris] Maris
 26 (1309) Amore] amare
 8. 2 (1312) viden'] vide
 3 (1313) audistin'] audin'

V.

- 4 (1397) sit aetus] siet acutus
 8 (1401) equidem Pr. perii.]
 quidem [del. perii]
 25 (1418) amitte-dum] amittendum

MOSTELLARIA.

I.

1. 42 (Rl. 43) Si tuo] Si tu
 47 (50) maneat] mantat
 63 (66) Piraceum] Piraeum
 70 (73) Venire] Venit
 2. 17 (100) Simul autem] Simul
 45 (126) jura et] jura
 73 [74] (153) haut volupe] volupe
 3. 15 (171) amantium] amantum
 16 (172) decet amiculum] decet [del. amiculum] 19 (175) gratis] gratijs
 mihi] mi
 21 (178) vituperari] vituperarier
 23 (180) aut] et
 28 (185) quod jam] quod
 29 (186) doctam te et bene eductam] doctam et bene
 te eductam
 30 (187) stultam tam] stultam
 quin mone] mone
 32 (189) alios omnis] alios
 33 (190) unum uni] unum
 37 (194) plane] |
 41 (198) credas.] credas
 42 (199) dicta] dicta, nosce. rem] nosce rem.

- 45 (202) credo] crede
 47 (205) illi meo] ei me
 48 (204) suo quom] suo sumtu
 [i. e. sumptu]
 53 (210) nisi amabit] ni amarit
 54 (211) Capite tuo] tuo capite
 56 (213) Phile. Illa] Illa
 57 (214) Numquam] Phile.
 Numquam
 60 (217) quaerere] querere
 65 (222) Di] Di deae
 67 (224) acceptum] hoc certum
 69] (226) Rud. II, 3, 46
 77 (234) me bonis] bonis me
 80 (237) principium] principie 81 (238) ijsdem diebus] leg. his decem diebus

- 84 (243)]+
 85 (244) conlocassem] locassem
 [and + to live]
 88 (245) Philolachete] Philolache hominis] homines

- 91 (248) mihi] mi
 107 (264) ullam aliam] aliam ullam
 121 (278) oleas] olent
 127 (284) Philolachenis] Philolachem: is 130 (288) occultanda'st: Aurum]
 occultanda et auro

II.

1. 9 (356) viri] |
 15 (362) summe ille] summe
 23 (370) mentirer] mentiar
 26 (373) ut bibam] bibam
 49 (396) animo ut sis] ut sis animo
 52 (399) tu jam] jam tu
 53 (400) Aedes] aut aedes
 61 (409) nulla'st. in pectore]
 nulla in pectore est
 66 (413) nequitia] nequiter
 67 (415) patiatur] potiatur
 68 (414) cuncta et] cuncta
 72 (419) tute] tu
 73 (420) Erus iussit] iussit
 75 (422) adest] aedes

2. 4 (434) inposuisse in undam]
 in undam inposuisse
 19 (449) Vsquene] Vsquen'
 23 (453) hasce ambas] hasce
 44 (475) Quid est? non] non 47 (478) est? sceleste] est sce-lesti
 54 (485) redivit] redijt
 68 (499) in Acheruntem] Acheruntem
 77 (509) ad Acheruntem] Ache-
 runtem
 90 (523) atque operi] operi
 94 (527) fugies] fuge
 95 (528) invocabis] invoca

III.

1. 1 (532) locando Argento] Argento
 3 (534) totum usque] usque
 70 (599) Hinc luxatio fit. vide notas
 2. 50 (738) nec] ne
 73 (760) Architectorem] Archi-tectonem

IV.

1. 41 [III 2. 127] (814) atque te] teque
 42 [III 2. 128] (815) perspectas]
 perspecta
 43 [III 2. 129] (816) denique]
 benigneque
 61 [III 2. 147] (832) ludificatur]
 ludificat
 4. 27 [2. 50] (966) copiam] quopiam

PERSA.

I.

3. 2 (Rl. 82) libertatem] libertam

II.

5. 5 (306)]+
 21 (322) VoBis] boves
 23 (324) ego omne] omne ego

III.

1. 34 (362) Tamenetsi] Tametsi
 3. 5 (409) Pecunia] Pecunia

IV.

4. 38 (587) erat] orat

POENULUS.

Prol.

- 47 ignarures] gnarures
 71 abiit ad] abiit
 80 amandare] mandare. Men-aech. Prol. 53.
 97 ea] ea sit
 98 Sit neque] Neque

I.

1. 6 (Gepp. 132) multas] et multas
 9 (135) atque edepol λῆροι λῆ-ροι] MS. haec collyraelire
 14 (140) Et ego nunc] Et nunc ego [Bent. first thought of deleting ego]
 17 (143) sine] sino
 58 (184) totum] totam
 71 (197)]+
 81 (207) hoc obtulisti] obtulisti hoc
 2. 2 (209) NAVEM] Is navem
 4 (211) eas forte] forte
 14 (221) Ab gerundaque] Adge-rundaque
 55 (262) servilicolas] servilico-las
 57 (264) dixit] duxit
 58 (265) duobolaria] diobolaria
 61 (268) En monstrum] Monstrum
 73 (280) exornatae] ornatae
 147 (356) multa ex multis.] multa, ex multis [punctuation corr.]
 148 (357) Nam liberare] Liberare
 deciens] centiens
 175 (381) Savium], huius Savium
 184 (389) ac] ac te 195 (400) hoc etiam] hoc
 3. 13 (415) promisisti] promisti
 23 (424) Aqua'st] Aqua est
 Abiturusne es] Abiturum'

- 24 (425) Pergin' vero] Pergin'
 27 (428) Mi. Quid] Quid
 29 (430) Ag. Neque] Neque
 39 (440) me obedientem esse] obedientem me esse

II.

- 15 (453) advii] avidi
 29 (467)] fo. An obsecro, unquamne hom. s. v. [with- drawn]
 30 (468) verum] verum ego, vel, verum eos
 34 (472) perjuras] pejeras
 35 (473) indebant] indebam

III.

1. 18 (512) Servos tuos] Servos
 30 (524) At] Ain'
 35 (529) intu'st] leg. non tuumst
 49 (543) satiu'st] satius est
 56 (550) deferet] deferret
 63 (557) herele] herecle
 64 (558) properate] properè
 67 (561) femina] flemina
 71 (565) velim; vos] velim vos,
 74 [73] (567) Villicus] |
 2. 11 (579) commendo: quiqui
 tamen] quomodocumque,
 qui tamen
 26 (594) heu!] eu!
 3. 9 ()] del. cf. 27 [i. e. 26]
 22 (626) ID BENEFICIUM] BENE-FICIUM
 26 (630) leviter] leniter
 28 (632) damus tibi] damus
 79 (683) huc item] irem
 94 () ergo intro] ergo
 98 (701) dare] dari
 4. 14 (715) scimus] scivimus
 17 (718) meminimus] meminimus
 20 (721) censetis? Hominem]
 Ad. censeo Ag. Hominem
 21 (722) venerit] venit
 27 (728) sed] sese
 31 (732) crepuerunt] concrepu-erunt

5. 1 (737) nunc jam se] nunc iam se [first proposing nunc jam sese, and afterwards striking sese out]
 28 (764) adlegaverunt] adlegarunt
 33 (769) ravit] ravio
 36 (772) ad] ad te
 6. 1 (787) ut Testes] ut
 2 (788) mehercle] herecle
 16 (801) sunt] sunt omnes: vel, ingenio

IV.

1. 5 (811) Attate!] Attate!
 Syncerastum Veneris] Syn-cerastum
 2. 6 (818) latera forti ferro] catulo
 forti ferreo
 19 (831) equidem] et autem vel, atque idem [but the latter
withdrawn]
 30 (842) amice facis] amice
 31 (843) reddam] reddibo
 38 (850) aliquem] aliquem Mil-phio,
 39 (851) Lepidum eloquere]
 Lepide loquere
 40 (852) manifesto deprensi] manifesto
 42 (854) illum non] illum
 45 (857) domi'st] domi sit 47 (859) dignu's] dignus es
 53 [54] (865) Rectius] tectius
 54 [55] (866) Tacitus] Tacitius
 malae Mulieri] Mulieri malae 55 [56] (867) istuc tibi] tibi istuc
 70 (882) volet] volt
 71 (883) ergo] ego
 73 (885) altera Anterastylis Mi.
 Sed] altera Mi. esse
 88 (900) Conlibertus meus]
 meus Conlibertus
 97 (909) telum? tam instat ite-rum] telum? jam instat
 alterum [adding telum,
action alterum]

- 105 (917) inserendum'st] inser-viendum'st
- V.
2. 3 (952)]†
8 (958) horum Hominum mihi] horum Hominum [with- drawn]
- 21 (970) Quid] Qui
44 (993) Fortasse] Ag. Fortasse
82 (1036) hospitium] hospitem
107 (1055) quod] quod ego
120 (1068) reddi Filio] Filio reddi
- 153 (1101) ore aequae ac oculis]
leg. crine atque oculis.
Horat. Lycen nigris oculis nigroque crine decoram
3. 35 (1147) leviter] leniter
4. 4 (1165) opus] opes
- 31 [33] (1192) MULIEREM] MU-LIERUM
- 41 [43] (1202) inimicus non] non inimicus
- 43 [45] (1204) quom] cum
- 44 [46] (1205) vobis facere volt] volt facere vobis
feceris] fecerit
- 52 [54] (1213) rem in] in
- 54 [56] (1215) adprehendam?]
adprehendam
- 59 [61] (1220) dixi hercle] dixi
- 62 [64] (1223) meae latrant]
mea latrat
- 64 [66] (1225) tibi ego] tibi
- 65 [67] (1226) sultis] si itis
- 66 [68] (1227) Nosne] Nos
- 68 [70] (1229) equidem] qui-dem libertas] liberas
- 70 [72] (1231) perjures] peiores
meu'st] meus est
- 73 [75] (1234) faciatis] facitis
- 74 [76] (1235) habeatis] habetis
- 76 [78] (1237) quae sunt] quas
- 77 [79] (1238) hercle; Patru] hercule, mi Patru]
timeo] |
- 80 [82] (1241)]†
93 [95] (1254) primum] primam
95 [97] (1257) Sperata] Sperate
96 [98] (1256)]† [sic]
98 [100] (1259) melius'st?] me-lius est?
- 101 [103] (1262)]†
103 [105] (1264) Quom hac me
laetitia] Quem hac laetitia
- 106 [108] (1267) ut habeas] habeas
5. 2 (1270) ludificis caveis] ludi-ficatui
- 8 (1276) Nactus'st] Nactus
est
- 11 (1279) Itaque replebo atri-tate; atrior multo ut siet]
Ita replebo eam atritate ;
ut atrior multo siet
- 12 (1280) Quam Aegypti] Quam
aut Aegypti
- 13 (1281) Miluos] |
- 19 (1287) quom] cum
- 23 (1291) excruciant] fo. ex-
asciant] |
- 29 (1297) hanc] [underlined]
- 38 (1306) loqueris] loqueris
- POENULO SUPPOSITA.
- 1 (1356) meo] |
- 2 (1357) Mulieres] |
- 3 (1359) meas] |
- 7 (1361) perditus! HA] |
- 8 () Lycus] |
- 9 (1368) noveris] |
- 10 (1369) credidi] |
- 11 (1371) obsecro] |
(1372) intellego] |
- 12 (1373) addecet] |
- 13 (1375) liberas] |
- 14 (1377) tuum] |
- 15 (1379) Agorastocles] |
- 16 (1380) consulam] |
- 18 (1383) Ly.] |
- 19 (1384) foris] |
- 20 (1385) HA.] |
- 21 (1386) cogito] |
(1387) Oppido] |
- 22 (1388) AD.] |

- 23 (1389) obsecro] |
 24 (1390) Improbo] |
 25 (1391) scio] |
 (1392) reddes, mecum] red-des meum |
 26 (1393) carcerem] |
 27 (1394) volo] |
 28 (1395) sententiam] |
 (1396) Filias] |
 29 (1397) tibi] |
 30 (1398) Mnam] |
 31 (1399) Tibicenā] |
 32 (1400) sicut] |
 33 (1401) tuum] |
 34 (1402) sequor] |
 35 (1403) Karthaginem] |
 36 (1404) Ilico] |
 (1405) dies] |

PSEUDOLUS.

I.

1. 24 (Rl. 26) posse reor] posse
 27 (29) An, obsecro] fo. Au obsecro [withdrawn]
 habent quoque] habent ne
 [withdrawn]
 33 (35) Callidore] Calidore
 35 (37) quantum's] quantum'st
 [again at foot of p. leg.
 quantum'st]
 39 (41) CALLIDORO] Calidoro
 49 (51) MACEDONICO] Macedonio
 51 (53) abit] abijt
 60 (62) quom] cum
 71 (73) TE] re
 76 (78) aules] audes
 80 (82) eheu] oiei
 81 (83) adjutas] adiuvas
 84 (86) reddam] reddibo
 85 (87) opinor est] opinor
 98 (100) illis] illi
 100 (102) geras] ingeras
 104 (106) unde nude] unde
 122 (124) Oculum utrum] Oculum
 minus] nimis

2. CALLIDORUS] CALIDORUS
 1 (133) EXITE] EXITE, exite
 84 (220) Nitidissimum] Nitidiusculum
 3. 14 [15] (243) HODIE-NATE] |
 [third word from end]
 15 [16] (244) occupatu's] |
 16 [17] (245) te BA.] |
 (246) occupato] |
 17 [18] (247) sospitati] |
 (248) vivo'st] |
 20 [21] (252) puere Ps.] |
 21 [22] (253) lubet CA.] |
 22 [23] (254) obsecro P.] |
 38 [39] (273) Callidore] Calidore
 59 [60] (294) roges] |
 104 (339) quia] |
 5. 78 (493) Servos suos] Servos
 Erum] majorem Erum—v,
 1, 36.
 89 (504) Quid] Si. Quid
 144 (557) amovemini] an amolimini

II.

1. 15, 16 (589, 590) [h.l.]
 2. 61 (656) aliena] aliena
 3. 27 (693) Callidorus] Calidorus
 4. 17 (707) paratragoe.liat] para-tragoedat
 18 (708) porrige audaciter] por-ge audacter
 23 (714)†
 jam gratiam] leg. tam gratia'st
 37 (727) usitatus] visitatus
 [again at f. of p. leg. visi- tatus]
 38 (728) Nunc quid] Numquid
 42 (732) opu'su] opus est
 43 (733) nam unam] nam
 51 (741) Murrhinam tum]
 Murrhinam
 61 (751) quid illo] quid
 68 (758) illic] illi
 72 (762) sententia] animi sententia

III.

1. 8 (774) curet] curer
 19 (785) quoi] qui
 2. 6 (795) recipere hunc] recipere
 13 (802)]†
 17 (806) utilissimu'st] vilissu-mu'st [again at f. of p.
 leg. vilissimust]
 21 (810) item] itidem
 28 (817) scelerata] [underlined]
 30 (819)]†
 43 (832) Meacidem] Macidem sane Cap-] [underlined] 44 (833) Eae ipsae sese] Ipsae se
 54 [55] (843) BA. Quid est?
 Co. Quia] Quia
 67 [68] (856) Uti] ut
 75 [76] (864) conquiniscito]
 ceveto
 76 [77] (865) prius] leg. privos
 77 (866) animum bonum] bo-
 num animum
 78 (867) Animum bonum] Bo-
 num animum
 83 (872) te ego] ego te
 Eho, an tu] Eho,
 92 (882) suavitate]suavi suavitate [again an leg. suavi
 suavitate]
 99 (889) nimium jam] nimium
 taces] places
 107 (897) Callidori] Calidori petit] petijt

IV.

1. 4 (908) quid] qui
 19 (927) mendaciis] |
 20 (928) advenam] |
 (929) eum esse] esse eum
 siet] |
 21 (930) ipsu'st] ipus est
 potest] |
 33 (943)] Anapæstus Aristopha-næus; ut multi alij QUAERE
 2. 17 (973) quisquis] quisque
 23 (979) vestitu'st] vestitus est

3. 18 (1035) exsolatum] exsula-
 tum
 4. 6 (1043) Callidorum] Calido-rum
 5. 3 (1054) Mihi libet] Libet
 4 (1055) Et abducere] Abdu-cere
 6. 1 (1063) Vlyxes] meus Vlyxes
 4 (1066) quid est? BA.] quid
 Si. quid jam? BA. nihil]
 BA. quid jam? nihil
 7 (1069) te inde'st] te 'st
 11 (1073) Rogato] Roga
 21 (1083) ajebat] aibat
 26 (1088) nunquam ab me]
 nunquam
 36 (1098)]†
 7. 15 (1117) ut] uti
 16 (1118) ajebat] aibat
 60 (1159) fiet] fit
 67 (1163) habesne] habe'n
 93 (1190) Vncti] HA. Vncti
 97 (1194) Mulierum] Mulierem
 119 (1217) fuit dudum] fuerit, didum
 124 (1222) emoriri] moriri
 Argentum mihi] mihi Argentum
 126 (1224) Auferetur] Auferesne
 129 (1227) ut caveres] caveres

V.

2. 10 (1302) potasse] potesse

RUDENS.

Prol.

- 14 abjurant] leg. abjerant
 22 Scellesti illi] Scelesti
 27 Scelestus est] Scelestu'st

I.

2. 21 (Fl 109) oratione nos] ora-tione
 23 (111) furatum mox] furatum 32] [Bent. deletes line (a misprint)]

4. 38 (256, 257) eximat miseras] miseras eximat
5. 10 (268) caeruleas] caeruleas
14 (272) sumus] simus
- II.
1. 2 (291) didicere artem] artem didicere
5 (294) hae] haec
6 (295) Ex] Cotidie ex
15 (304) incenati] incenes
16 (305) adjuverit] adjuerit
2. 2 (307) ajebat] aibat
7 (312) siti que speque] siti que [withdrawn]
8 (313) strenua facie] facie strenua
12 (318) Tortis] Torvis contracta]†
13 (314) mali vitij] vitij
3. 1 (331) Villam] me Villam Fano me] Fano
2 (332) Quoja] cuja
4 (334) Fano hoc] Fano
5 (334) Estne] |
6 (336) is est] is ipse est
7 (337) agis tu] [-is tu underlined]
19 (349) periclo] periculo
24 (354)]†
29 (359) nullus] ullus
45 (376) hoc] idem hoc 55 (386)]†
59 (390) posset] potis esset
60 (391) Cistellula] Cistella
64 (395) eam] eum
66 (397) eum] eam [withdrawn]
67 (398) fact'o'st] fact'o'st,
68 (399) se sic] sic sese
81 (412) mihi] mi
82 (413) Villa'st] Villa
4. 2 (415) edepol specie bona Mulier] Mulier edepol specie bona 16 (432) Meus] Sc. Meus
17 (433) Sacerdos Veneris] Sacerdos
32 (453) plus mali] mali plus
- 35 (456) scelestus leno] scelestus
6. 1 (485) sese] sese esse
7. 21 (579) elavi] elui
23 (581) nisi] nisi si
24 (582) Cui. vel] vel
25 (583) Sc. Barbarum] Barbarum
- III.
1. 1 (593) } Mercator, II, I.
2 (594) }
9 (601) Videbatur] Videtur
13 (605) Age] ago
2. 5 (619) innocentium] innocentium
11 (625) custodiam] custodelam
12 (626) perveniat] pervenit
15 (629) Quid] Quod
25 (639) exoptavi] optavi
29 (643) ius legesque] iusque legesque
32 (646) violare audeat] audeat violare
36 (650) pendit] pendit—— [i.e. incomplete line]
49 (663) ecce] eccas
3. 21 (683) Trachalio] mi Trachalio
26 (688) alsidete] adsidite
27 (689) potest] plus potest
32 (694) ted] te
34 (696) custodiam] custodelam
4. 9 (714) oportet esse] esse oportet
23 (728) Argentum.] Argentum?
25 (730) hinc ego te] ego te hinc
28 (733) opprobras] [underlined]
31 (736) oportet esse] esse oportet
46 [47] (752) Tuacn' istae sunt] fo: Nugae istae sunt
51 [52] (757) opere] operi
55 [56] (761) Veneris] Veneri
69 [70] (775) Tr.] D.E.
70 [71] (776) ocepssit] ocepssit
5. 14 (793) quam magnum] magnum

- 16 (795) ego istas] ego
 47 (827) equidem] quidem
 6.10 (848) LA.] PL.
 23 (861) Quin] Quin'
 24 (862) abduxisti] abduxi
 26 (864) me] hodie
 27 (865) quid] numquid
 51 (889) Nervom mille] Nervom ille

IV.

1. 3 (894) fortula] scitula
 14 (905) oppilabit auris sua vaniloquentia] opplebit
 auris sua loquentia
 2.13 (918) sententiam] servitutum
 3.54 (993) audivisti] audisti
 60 (999) convertes] vertes
 69 (1008) exurgeri] exugeri
 70 (1009) exurgebo] exugebo
 101 (1040) tetulerit] tulerit
 105 (1044) non] si non
 4. 1 (1045) volo vobis] vobis volo
 3 (1047) abduxisse] abduxe
 8 (1052) salve. DÆ. salve!
 Gripe] salve. DÆ. Gripe
 9 (1052) pudet] |
 16 (1060) nunc litigatis] litigatis nunc
 17 (1061) qui rem] rem
 31 (1075) hic noster] noster hic
 58 (1102) Gr. quid] quid
 82 (1126) mea parte] mea
 91 (1135) ostenderis] ostendes
 97 (1141) refert] feret
 98 (1142) quidquid] quid
 118 (1162) ite] i
 119 (1163) in securicula] quid] quid in securicula
 125 (1169) maniculae] |
 132 (1176) Gr.] Tr.
 134 (1178) quam] cum
 6. 6 (1210) tamen] tuum
 7. 6 (1232) melius illi] illi melius

V.

1. 1 (1281) Mortalium] Mortalis
 2. 2 (1289) reddatur] redditur

- 13 (1300) robigine] robigine^Λ
 20 (1307) elavi. nam] elui rem
 23 (1310) infuerit ibi] ibi infuerit
 27 (1314) Minae] Mnae
 30 (1317) hujus] hujusce
 32 (1319) Cantharus] Cantharus
 Cyathusque] Cyathus
 42 (1329) Eloquere hercle] Eloquere
 48 (1335) Id quod] quod
 49 (1336) Dejura] Dejera
 mihi] mi
 50 (1337) Eodem] Talentum eodem
 53 (1340) Quom] Cum
 3.26 (1382) gnatus annos] annos
 gnatus
 59 (1415) nisi me suspendo]
 nisi si me suspendero

STICHUS.

II.

1. [1 3] 60 (Rl. 213) autem] item
 63 (216) Fame ipsa] Fame
 64 (217) quam quando] quando
 79 (232) venisse] veniisse
 81 (235) Auctionem facit] Auctionem
 3. 63 [2. 64] (389) Ridiculosissimos]
 Ridiculissimos

III.

1. 1 (402) bene gesta] re bene
 gesta

V.

4. 6 (688) jactura] jam
 38 (718) pro summo] prothumē
 39 (719) quam vide subito]
 quamvis desubito
 55 (738) enim] enim mi

TRINUMMUS.

I.

1. 5 (Rl. 27) me id] me

2. 14 (52) bene valere] valere
 40 (77) Quid] Qui
 55 (deest) non possum] nequeo
 171 (208) Jove. Sciunt] Jove :
 172 (209) neque facta sunt] ne que sunt

II.

1. 1 (223) vorso] |
 2 (224) indipiscor] |
 3 (226) est] |
 4 (227) cogitatum'st] |
 5 (229) firmiorem] |
 6 (230) siet] |
 2. 22 (303) tuo] tuum
 39 (321) non poenitet] poenitet
 62 (343) alius] alios
 69 (350) immunifico] innauni
 4. 8 (410) obIcias formicis] form.
 ob.
 44 (445) Haud] Haut
 172 (573) istuc] istic

III.

2. 31 (657) diceret] leg. deceret
 39 (665) inperitum] ingenuum
 75 (701) profugiens] profugus

IV.

2. 39 (881) Sin] Si
 81 (926) loquare] loquere
 100 (942) escendis- } [last letters
 tis Immod } underlined]
 113 (955) Philippeum] Philippum
 162 (1004) tiniijt] tinnit
 3. 1 (1008) face] fac
 5 (1012) abieris] aberis
 8 (1015) -re re re-] †
 13 (1021) Theruchus fuit] Truchus [adding Krachus in margin] [del. fuit]
 Kottabus] Kollabus
 16 (1023) surrupuit] surpuit

25 (1032) nihil] nihili
 27 (1034) habet] habent

TRUCULENTUS.

Prol.

5 equidem] quidem
 6 Mora] |
 17 Non] Nam

I.

1. 59 omnis] omne
 2. 91 [92] ah!] au!

II.

2. 6 domi? As.] |
 8 Inprudens] Inpudens
 3. 2 lavere] lavare
 5. 7 vitae] | adgrediri] |
 8 exsecuta] |
 9 suppositivi] | adgrediri] |
 10 exsequere] |
 11 incedo] | adsimulo] |
 17 meliu'st] molliu'st
 28 veniret] veniat
 6. 43 Nae! ille] Ne ille [but he writes Ne ille for Nae]
 7. 1 Dannigeruli] |
 2 Hamaxagogae] |
 3 expoliat] |
 4 me] |
 41 suspirium] |
 42 femur] | verVerat] |
 61 concipilabo] |
 62 aditio'st] |
 63 meam] | niceris] |

IV.

2. 16 idem! As.] |
 17 postules] |
 18 Filio] |
 37 accipiamus] accipimus
 4. 19 aliquos] aliquot

V.

14 opu'st opu'st] opus opus

MS. Notes of Bentley from the Fly-leaf of Pareus.

oh in fine versus Asin. I 1. 22 /Hem Asin. II 2. 57 et 69, III 2. 34, V 1. 13 et 21, Epid. II 2. 85.

Hem incipit versum, eodem sc. locutore Asin. II 4. 25, III 3. 115. Heia. Cist. I 1. 44.

+ quó ab) Asin. I 1. 106. Qui pro istuc. Asin. II 3. 17. Quo ex) IV 1. 20. quo a) Epid. I 2. 40. Qua ex) II 1. 4. Quam neu) Poen. Prol. 14. quem ad) Bacch. II 1. 7. Quem propter Amph. IV 1. 8.

-tamen) Asin. I 3. 43. Tibi non esse crédam illa alio ibít tamen aiebas) bisyllabum, Asin. I 3. 56. Cist. I 2. 24, II 3. 42 et 63. viginti minas) monosyllabum Asin. II 2. 81. vide Pareum. in versibus. Plautus medium finit frequenter brevi syllaba, quasi asynarteton sit vide Asin. II 3, II 4

Qui latera conteram tuã quae occalluere plagis

Abscede et sine me hunc perderẽ qui semper me ira incendit

Iussin' sceleste ab januã hoc stercus inde auferri

Et semper ea syllaba vocabulum terminat.

Siquidem) prima longa, quasi si quidem Asin. III 1. 35. Pseud. II 2. 33, IV.

Quid tandem) Asin. V 2. 78.

ne quaestioni mihi sit) Cist. II 3. 49.

st vel extra versum vel in fine post vocalem. mihi st. Pseud. I 1. 127.

sic crit) de præsenti Pseud. II 3. 11.

sorbillem iniecit) et cetera ea forma et accentu numquam occurrunt nisi mendose, intra eundem ditrochæum. sic Poen. III 2. 1. com-mendo et Poen. III 4, 20 et V 4. 70 perjures.

[legendum

Sed Poen. V 1. 26. In his habitare monstratus't regionibus, an dictus est : ut Ter. In hac habitasse platea dictum est Chrysidem et Rud. IV 4. 37 gessavit. Trin. I 1. 9. sucerunt, II 4. 8 formicis Ter. Heaut. Capillus passus, prolixus circum caput.

Readings of the Codex Britannicus restored from Bentley's Collation.

AMPHITRUO.

Prol.

- 31 Patris] matris
67 fautores] fautores

I.

1. 3 si nunc] nunc si
79 virium] virum
86 meus] om.
163 isthunc] istuc
165 hinc abfuit] hic affuit
171 Onerandust] onerandus est
234 nocebo^{no}] tacebo
3. 35 Tempust] *Tempus est

II.

1. 29 audisti] audis et
2. 155 Nec] Ne

ASINARIA.

II.

1. 13 Consuadent] Consuadent

III.

1. 1 ted] te
3. 95 PHIL.] LI.
97 Amandone] PHIL. Amandone

AULULARIA.

I.

2. 17 pistellum] pistillum [in Wagner]

II.

6. 3 Tibicenamque] Tibicinamque
[in Wagner]
5 mi] om.

CAPTIVI.

III.

4. 62 fune] fit [scarcely legible]

IV.

2. 71 Horaeum] Horreum

V.

3. 19 malo] male
4. 23 Meritust] Meritus est

CASINA.

I.

1. 14 Quid] om.
26 Ex] Ex
6. 35 nolim] noli
38 sortitio] sortio
46 Sed] om.

II.

8. 52 Docte] om.

III.

6. 4 ita enim] Ita

V.

2. 13 neque enim] nec quietum

CISTELLARIA.

II.

3. 22 meus] om.

CURCULIO.

I.

1. 43 Id uti] Inducias [in Goetz]

IV.

1. 9 Qui perjurum] Qui periurum

EPIDICUS.

I.

1. 40 scies] tu scies [in Goetz]

II.

2. 1 STATE; tacete] At at tace

* The italics denote that Bentley does not expressly state that the MS. has the letters Tem.

CATALOGUS LIBRORUM

olim penes R. BENTLEIUM, nunc in MUSEO BRITANNICO adser-vatorum, quorum marginibus adscriptae sunt a manu tum ipsius BENTLEII tum aliorum Virorum Doctorum Variarum Lectiones et Emendationes.*

FOLIO.

*676.	h. 13.	Aristophanes [Copious]	Basileae, 1547.
*692.	k. 4.	Clemens Alexandrinus [Copious]	[Heidelberg] 1592.
1
*677.	h. 1.	Estienne (H) Οἱ τῆς ἡρωικῆς ποιήσεως πρωτεύοντες ποιηταί	[Paris] 1566.
*654.	d. 13.	Horatius	Venetiis, 1520.
*684.	i. 6.	Lycophron	Basileae, 1546.
	678. h. 8	} Philostratus, 2 copies	Paris, 1608.
	679. g. 13, 14

QUARTO.

	679. d. 6.	Catullus, ed. Vossius [Few]	Lugd. Bat. 1691.
	679. d. 1.	Dionysius Periegetes [Gr. and Lat.]	Ferrariae, 1512.
	*680. d. 26.	Horatius, ed. Cruquius	Lugd. Bat. 1597.
1
*C.	20. c.	Horatius	Cantabr. 1699.
	679. f. 7.	Horatius, ed. Bentley	Cantab. 1711.
	680. e. 4.	Lucretius, ed. Faber [Copious]	Salmurii, 1662.
	*681. c. 21.	Manilius, Astronomicon [Few]	Argentorati, 1655.
*C.	20. c.	Amm. Marcellinus	Lugd. Bat. 1693.
*C.	19. c.	Nicander, Θηριακά	Paris, 1557.
1, 2
	684. c. 28.	Nicomachus, Arithmetica	Paris, 1538.
1
	681. d. 6.	Ovidius, ed. Burmann	Amst. 1727.
*682.	b. 3.	Pindar	Francofurti, 1542.

* This list is reprinted, with numerous additions and corrections, from the Classical Journal, Vol. V. (1812), p. 432. The books added are marked *: for the sake of uniformity, the correct date, name of editor, and place of publication, are given in each case, and the Press mark in the British Museum Catalogue is also added. The words Few or Copious, which are sometimes appended, are also taken from the same Catalogue, where the book is so characterized.

682. b. 10.	Plautus, ed. Pareus	Francf. 1623.
*681. g. 19.	Statius	Paris, 1600.
*682. e. 5.	Suetonius, ed. Graevius	Traj. Rhen. 1672.
687. f. 16.	Terentius, ed. Lindenbrog [Copious]	Paris, 1602.
1
*833. k. 13.	Terentius, ed. Bentley	Cantab. 1726.
688. g. 6.	Vergilius	[Leyden] 1646.

OCTAVO ET INFRA.

*686. b. 21.	Alcaeus	Heidelberg, 1598.
1
*997. a. 37.	[another copy of the same]
2, 3
680. a. 7.	Arrianus	Basileae, 1539.
683. c. 4.	Aulus Gellius, ed. L. Carrio and H. Stephanus	Paris, 1585.
683. b. 10.	Boethius, Consolatio , ed. Bernart	Antwerp, 1607.
718. b. 12.	Mart. Capella, Satyricon , ed. H. Grotius.	Leyden, 1599.
*1002. a. 7.	Catullus	Lugd. Bat. 1591, 16mo.
*1125. f. 25.	L. Cecilius, De Mortibus Persecutorum .	Paris, 1710.
*1082. e. 3.	Cicero, Epp. Fam.	Paris, 1543.
679. d. 2. }	Cicero, Tusc. Disp. J. Davis [2 copies]	Cantab. 1708.
679. d. 3. }
679. d. 4. }
679. d. 5.	[Another copy]	Cantab. 1709.
687. a. 12.	Columella, in Rei Rusticæ Auctores	Commelinus, Heidelberg, 1595.
683. c. 28.	Epigrammata et poemata vetera	Leyden, 1596.
680. a. 29.	Florilegium Epigram. Poet.	Venetii, 1521.
*686. c. 20.	Estienne, ποίησις φιλόσοφος	[Geneva] 1573.
1
*8560. aa.	Geminus Rhodius	Altorphii, 1590, 12mo.
683. d. 2.	Hesiod	Florent. 1540.
1002. c. 4.	Horatius, ed. Perottus	Paris, 1533.
1. 2
683. d. 6.	Horatius, ed. Heinsius	Lugd. Bat. 1612.
685. a. 8.	Horatius, ed. Burmann	Traject. Batav. 1699, 12mo.
684. b. 9. }	Lucanus, ed. Grotius [4 copies]	Antwerp, 1614.
684. b. 10. }
684. b. 11. }
1068. i. 4. }
684. b. 12.	Lucanus, ed. Grotius [Copious]	Lugd. Bat. 1627.
681. c. 22.	Lucanus	Amsterdam, 1658.

681. c. 20. Macrobius Lugd. Bat. 1628.
 684. c. 14. Nonius, ed. Mercier Paris, 1614.
 686. a. 5—7. Ovidius, ed. N. Heinsius 1661-58, 12mo.
 685. d. 4. Persius Heidelberg, 1590.
 685. d. 10. Phaedrus, ed. Rittershusius and Scioppius Leyden, 1598.
 684. f. 16. Phaedrus Amsterdam, 1698.
 682. b. 7. Phalaridis Epistolae Oxon. 1695.
 *682. c. 11. Plautus, ed. Camerarius, MS. Notes [a few by Bentley].
 Basileae, 1558.
 686. d. 7. Prudentius, ed. N. Heinsius Amst. 1667, 12mo.
 *686. b. 15. Plutarch, περὶ ποταμῶν [Few] Tolosae, 1615.
 1086. b. 1. J. J. Scaliger Epistolae Lugd. Bat. 1627.
 686. f. 8. Seneca Amst. 1682.
 687. a. 9. Seneca, Tragediae, ed. Scriverius Lugd. Bat. 1651.
 686. f. 9. L. Annaei Senecae and P. Syri Mimi Sententiae, &c.
 ed. Gruter [Few] Lugd. Bat. 1708.
 687. c. 10. Statius, ed. Gevart Lugd. Bat. 1616.
 687. c. 11. Statius, ed. Gevart Lugd. Bat. 1618.
 687. c. 5. Suetonius, ed. Gracvius Amst. 1697.
 687. c. Suetonius, ed. Gronovius [3 copies] Lugd. Bat. 1698.
 *C. 45. b. Symeon Seth, de Cibariorum facultate [Copions]
 Basileae, 1538.
 *687. d. 34. Terentius, ed. Faber Salmurii, 1671, 12mo.
 687. d. 14. Theocritus Francof. 1553.
 *688. a. 1. Theocriti aliorumque poetarum idyllia
 Paris, 1579, 16mo.
 684. c. 12. Valerius Maximus, ed. Coler Francof. 1601
 688. b. 12. Velleius, ed. N. Heinsius Amst. 1678, 12mo.

Bentley's Emendations on Plautus, extracted from his Copy of Camerarius.

AMPHITRUO.

Prol.

- 83 (Fl. 83) mandassent] leg. mandasset
84 placrent, alter] leg. placeret alter
90 facere] f. agere

I.

1. 262 (418) datum] leg. dono datum B.
2. 11 (473) tum demum] leg. ibi tum d:

II.

1. 13 (563) dabo] leg. Dabo istuc
19 (569) perdat] leg. Perdat quid
2. 196 (826) forte] leg. fortasse
216 (846) immutatur] leg. immutatur

III.

2. 71 (952) Iudificabitur—] lego
—quum ego Amphit.
3. 2 (957) quaeso] leg. sodes

IV.

3. 15 (1049) Sive] leg. Si

BACCHIDES.

I.

1. 23 (Rl. 57) si] leg. ne
68 (101) accipis] leg. accipies

II.

2. 14 (188) recte] dele recte
21 (198) mavellem] leg. mavellem me
33 (211) Bacchis] dele Bacchis
40 (218) esse] dele esse
52 (230) Philippos] leg. Philippum, v. II 3 v. 38.

III.

1. 17 (384) coeno] leg. hocce coeno
3. 24 (428) pugillatu] pugilatu
4. 1 (500) Amiciorum] leg. Inimiciorum

IV.

6. 27 (797) agitur] leg. agitur
7. 5 (803) meo male] me
7. 6 (804) Per sermonem] leg. Male per 13 (811) detuli] leg. tetuli

EPIDICUS.

I.

2. 21 itidem] leg. fidem

PSEUDOLUS.

I.

3. 117 (Rl. 351) tegit] tegit homo B.
68 (483) * * *] vai γάρ
69 (484) * * * *] kai τοῦτο vai γάρ

INDEX.

- Ablative (of time) with or without in I 2. 59
- absque* III 5. 96
- absuvedo* IV 3. 4
- Acheruns* fem. v 4. 2
- Acherunti* III 5. 31
- Accusative after residere III 1. 8, without a preposition (Alilem) III 4. 41
- ad=apud* Prol. 49, III 5. 41; in comparisons II 2. 25
- adaequo* with the comparative III 5. 42
- Adjectives in -bilis Prol. 56
- Adverbs I 2. 29, instead of Adjectives I 2. 11
- Alraaco* III 4. 30
- Aleus, Alis* (Doric for Eleus, Elis) Prol. 9, 24
- Alliteration II 3. 36, IV 2. 33, IV 2. 67, IV 3. 3 seq.
- ambulare* Prol. 11; bene ambulato II 3. 92
- amittere=dimittere* Prol. 36
- Anapaestic words in the Senarius I 2. 1
- anites* v 4. 6
- aperto capite* III 1. 15
- arbitr* II 1. 18
- arbitrari* II 1. 27
- Argumenta*: date of their composition, on Arg. I
- astituere* IV 2. 66
- atque* II 2. 105, III 1. 19, III 4. 53
- attat* III 5. 6, v 4. 10
- Attraction Prol. 1, I 2. 1; (of mood) II 1. 11, v 2. 8
- aulibus* III 4. 86
- audio* II 1. 47
- aufer* v 2. 11
- aula=olla* I 1. 21
- barbaricus* III 1. 32
- basilica* IV 2. 35
- beat* I 2. 28
- bene est* III 5. 41
- bene facis* IV 2. 63
- benigne facis* v 1. 28
- betere, bitere* II 3. 20
- bone vir* v 2. 1
- bonau fide* IV 2. 110
- bono publico* III 2. 2
- caletur* I 1. 12
- carni* (abl.) IV 4. 7
- caterua* v 5
- cedere ad factum* II 2. 102
- choragiun* Prol. 61
- circummoenitus* II 2. 4
- cochlea* I 1. 12
- collus* IV 3. 2
- Comparatio compendiarum II 2. 52
- coupecto* III 1. 84
- conpendi facere aliquid* v 2. 12
- conciunare=reddere* III 4. 69
- condigne* I 1. 39
- conloqui* (aliquem) IV 2. 53
- conuentio II 2. 103
- cotidiano* III 5. 67
- cum catenis esse* II 1. 9

- cum cruciatu tuo* III 5. 23
cupio ut I 1. 34
deartutus III 4. 11
deliquio III 4. 93
deliramenta loqui III 4. 66
 Demonstrative Pronoun omitted
 v 1. 20
denasare III 4. 72
dentilegus IV 2. 18
deruncinatus III 4. 11
dice II 2. 109
dicta III 1. 22
dignus (absolutely) II 1. 6; quid dignus sicut v 2. 16
dixeram = dixi Prol. 17
doctus IV 2. 7
dolere quia I 2. 44
dubum III 1. 18
duellum Prol. 68
dupla IV 2. 39
ebrius I 1. 41
eccum I 2. 60, v 4. 8, v 4. 18
ehou I 2. 43
eminor, eminatio IV 2. 11, 19
enim III 4. 36
esse bene IV 2. 70
es re II 2. 46
exemplis pessumis III 5. 33
exihere IV 2. 37
farim in wishes I 2. 63
fidele Adverb? II 3. 79
Figura etymologica II. 1. 54, 57
foculum IV 2. 67
fore followed by accus. c. infin.
 I 2. 62
frangi v 2. 3
furfures IV 2. 27, 30
Future Perfect II 2. 43
 Genitive after falsilocus II 2. 14
 Gerund IV 2. 72
gratius II 3. 48
gratus II 3. 54
haud uidi magis III 4. 29
 Hiatus Arg. 1, Prol. 24, I 2. 39,
 II 2. 81, II 3. 13, II 3. 35
hic accompanied by a gesture I 2.
 43 hisce (Nominative) Prol. 35 hoc age II 3. 84
hoc = huc II 2. 79
 Humorous turns Prol. 2, 60, I 1.
 41, I 2. 23, II 2. 15, IV 2. 30, 42
igitur IV 2. 91
ilicet I 1. 22, III 1. 9
ille: hic ille est IV 2. 7
 nunc illud est III 3. 1 illiscz III 4. 120
illi illic II 2. 28
immo II 2. 104
 Indicative (for Subj. in hypothetical sentences) IV 3. 6
interdius III 5. 72
 Interpolations Prol. 48, II 2. 74,
 II 3. 41, III 1. 30, III 3. 5, v
 4. 25
ire malum crucem III 1. 9
ita ('Yes') II 2. 12
Κατὰ σέρεσθαι III 2. 3
Lacones III 1. 11
larua III 4. 66
lanare v 1. 32
libella v 1. 26
lingatum mitti III 4. 125
 Litotes (pauillum contentus) I 2.
 67, (haud molestum) II 2. 107
locare IV 2. 39
lucis tuendi v 4. 11
ludos facere aliquem III 4. 47
malum (Interjection) III 3. 16 manu mittere II 3. 48
memini quom II 2. 53
mentiri mihi III 5. 46
mereri ut II 3. 62, III 5. 86
metus III 3. 4
minitas III 5. 85
mis III 5. 107
misereri III 5. 107
modo si v 3. 19 monerula v 4. 5
multum with Adjectives II 2. 22 muneres v 1. 14
namque III 4. 72
natus de II 2. 27
ne — neu II 1. 28
ne with Subjunct. II 2. 81 ne modo I 2. 68
ne aliquam III 4. 54
neque adeo II 2. 93

- nescius* II 2. 15
nil v 3. 12
nimis quam I 1. 34
nominandi istorum IV 2. 72 nucleus III 4. 122
nugas III 4. 80
numquam II 3. 48, III 4. 10, III 4. 124
nusquam I 2. 64
obnoxius II 1. 23
occasio cumulare II 3. 64
operam dare ProL. 6
operis II 3. 69; una opera qua III 4. 31
ordine II 3. 17
Oxymoron III 1. 6
Παίγνιον v 3. 7
Parataxis III 2. 7, IV 1. 12
pausillum I 2. 67
pectere fusti IV 2. 116
per III 5. 32
 Perfect: (of that which is no more) II 1. 50
Periphrasis IV 2. 105, v 1. 25
Philocrati (gen.) III 3. 13 piscatores IV 2. 33
pistor I 2. 51
 Play upon words ProL. 32, I 1. 2, I 1. 35, I 2. 12, III 5. 109, IV 2. 80, IV 2. 108 Pluperfect (in sense of Perfect) ProL. 17, v 1. 17 pompa IV 1. 3
ponere periculo III 5. 30
ponere in spem v 2. 4
postillac I 2. 9
postquam with the Historical Present ProL. 24 potiri hostium I 1. 24
praefectura IV 3. 7
 Present tense after postquam, quom, ubi ProL. 24 praevorti II 3. 100, v 4. 29
probe II 2. 19
Proceleusmatic I 2. 47, III 1. 33
proclivis II 2. 86
proin proinde II 2. 42
proinde ut II 2. 57
prolatae res I 1. 10
Prolepsis II 3. 16, III 4. 25
 Prosody: uendit ProL. 9, negāt ProL. 11, fīt ProL. 25, fūimus II 2. 12, erūt II 1. 16, scīt II 2. 100, itū III 2. 5, machinōr III 3. 15, auctiōr IV 2. 2, fieri IV 2. 63, rēclusit IV 4. 11, aīs v 4. 19, mihī III 5. 58, ā II 1. 12, oculto I 1. 15, uēlis II 2. 93, dehī II 3. 4, illīc III 5. 93, prō-jitetur III 1. 20, frustrā IV 2. 74, hōstica II 1. 53
proouire II 1. 30
 Proverbial expressions ProL. 22, I 2. 82, II 2. 54, III 4. 84, IV 1. 8
-pte Suffix II 3. 11
pudet quia II 1. 9
pugnae dare III 4. 53
questione esse (in) II 2. 3 questores ProL. 34
quasi ProL. 20, II 2. 36
quemque IV 2. 18
qui (Affirmative particle) III 4. 21 qui (ablative) ProL. 28
quia enim IV 2. 104
quia after dolere I 2. 50, after pudet II 1. 9, after uitio uolere II 2. 9 quid tu? II 2. 20
quid si...? III 4. 67
quid est? III 4. 46
quid 'quate mi?' v 4. 9
quidem II 2. 107
quippe IV 2. 106
quippiam I 2. 18
quo minus II 3. 70
quod (quoad) III 5. 12
quom with the Indic. II 2. 106, memini quom II 2. 53 rebitere II 3. 20
reconciliassere I 2. 59
 Redundancy of expression II 2. 80, II 3. 51, III 4. 109, 115, v 4. 3 reddere with Perf. Part. Pass. II 2. 95 res prolatae I 1. 10
respice IV 2. 54

- reci* I 1. 24
ridere aliquem III 1. 21
rumpere se ProL. 14
rurant I 1. 16
saepe multi ProL. 44, II 2. 78
Sancti uasa II 2. 41
sarire III 5. 5
satin habes? II 3. 86
scelus III 5. 104
sectarius IV 2. 40
si (=since) II 1. 1, (=in the hope that) ProL. 28 si si I 2. 5
si=etsi III 3. 14
singulariae catenae I 2. 3
sistere ore IV 2. 13
 Slang III 4. 53
 Spondaic word in the Senarius I 2. 9
sputare III 4. 18
 Stipulatio I 2. 70, IV 2. 118
 Subject-Accusative omitted before an Infinitive II 3. 5 subruptat II 2. 42
sultis II 3. 96
surpuit III 5. 102
sursum uorsum III 4. 123
sutelae III 5. 34
 Synzesis II 1. 3, 16
tamen II 3. 33
techina III 4. 112
tegora IV 3. 2
Thales II 2. 24
Trigemina porta I 1. 22
uel I 1. 22
Velabrum III 1. 29
uerba III 1. 12
uero III 4. 35
uerum hercle uero I 1. 7
uicem II 3. 37
uicenumus V 3. 3
uicti (gen.) IV 2. 75
uivere IV 2. 48
ultro III 4. 19
umerus IV 2. 17
uus (with a Superlative) II 2. 28
uni=unius III 1. 11
uolucris IV 2. 64
uolo (aliquem) III 4. 70
ut (in an exclamation) II 3. 59 ut rem uideo III 4. 37
ut qui II 1. 50
ut after causa est II 2. 7 ut after mereri II 3. 62
ut after cupere I 1. 34 ut ne in consecutive sentences II 2. 17 ut repeated II 1. 55
utrique=utriusque II 3. 38
utrum...ne...an II 2. 18

ERRATUM.

P. 51. line 111, for "Tum igitur" read "HE. Tum igitur."

„ 113, for "HE. Sed" read "Sed."

16877

Plautus, Titus Maccius. Captivi
Captivi; ed. by Sonnenschein, with notes by

LL P7:17c8

University of Toronto
Library

DO NOT REMOVE
THE CARD
FROM THIS POCKET

Acme Library Card Pocket
Under Pat "Ref. Index File"
Made by LIBRARY BUREAU

